

UAW TO SEEK LAYOFF WAGES AT NASH-HUDSON, TALKS OPENED

Union Expected to Suggest Smaller Auto Makers Pool Funds to Give Workers 'Guaranteed Pay' Plan.

DETROIT, June 14 (AP)—The CIO United Auto Workers opened preliminary contract talks with American Motors Corp. today in an effort to extend the "guaranteed wage" principle it won from Ford and General Motors to the rest of the automobile industry.

The union's talks with American Motors, the Nash-Hudson combine which is one of the industry's three smaller auto makers, won't reach a climax until August but the firm already has served notice it doesn't want a "pattern" settlement.

CIO President Walter Reuther had indicated he would not try to force the "Big Three" pattern on the smaller companies but he left little doubt that he expected even the smaller firms to "guarantee" wages of their employees.

Reuther outlined what probably will be the union approach to the "guaranteed wage" among smaller companies.

He said the smaller firms may be asked to contribute to a central pool from which they could draw during periods of layoffs.

He said the combined contributions of the smaller companies would insure a properly-funded guarantee.

The union used this principle in establishing its pension system among the smaller auto producers.

It was believed the union also might suggest a scale for payments which would be based on the employment picture of the various firms.

Under such a plan, the rate of payments a company would make could be scaled up or down depending on how high unemployment runs in the individual firms.

Plan Not for Chrysler. Reuther pointed out that this plan would apply only to the industry's "Little Three" and not to Chrysler Corp. of the "Big Three."

He said that he expected the same kind of settlement with Chrysler as the union obtained from Ford and General Motors. The Chrysler contract expires Aug. 31 and negotiations for a new contract are expected to begin early next month.

Meanwhile, some of the 530,000 workers who have been assured of the "guaranteed wage" were not satisfied with the new contracts the union obtained from Ford and G.M.

General Motors was hobbled by wildcat strikes despite the settlement just as Ford was last week. Skilled workers, who rarely face the same hazards of unemployment as the industry's assembly workers, felt they should have received a higher pay increase in the new contracts.

They were given eight cents an hour on top of the six-cent hourly increase the contracts provided for all workers annually for the next three years.

The UAW, after its experience with Ford workers last week, tried to win greater increases for skilled workers at General Motors. But the company refused to go higher.

Picket Lines and Walkouts. Picket lines and walkouts kept 24 of G.M.'s 119 plants closed plants closed today but there were indications a back-to-work movement was gaining momentum.

The walkouts were said to stem mostly from discontent over local grievances.

One byproduct of General Motors agreement was that the CIO won a toehold for the same type of guaranteed wage deal in the electrical manufacturing industry.

A separate contract, embodying the same terms, was signed for General Motors' 33,000 electrical plant employees with the CIO International Union of Electrical Workers.

This union immediately announced it expects to negotiate similar contracts with General Electric and Westinghouse later this year.

Union Shop Principle. Besides accepting the Ford-type "guaranteed wage" plan, General Motors also yielded the rest of the way on the union shop principle. Ford already had the full union shop but General Motors had always insisted that some few of its employees, about 20,000 out of 375,000 should be exempt from being required to become union members.

Congress has permitted the union shop under the Taft-Hartley law but allowed states to bar it. Eighteen states in the South and West have enacted "right-to-work" laws prohibiting the union shop.

Even in the "right-to-work" states it's an open secret the union shop bar is often winked at for branch plants of companies under National Labor contracts, such as General Motors and Ford, and compulsory union membership is practiced anyway.

The Course of True Love. GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., June 14 (AP)—Police said no charges would be filed against a young woman who smashed the headlights and windows of her boyfriend's car and tore off the convertible top when she found he was dating another girl. The youth refused to prosecute because they have made up.

AUSTRIAN TREATY YOUNG MEN URGED APPROVAL URGED TO SERVE 2 YEARS BY SENATE UNIT IN GOVERNMENT JOB

WASHINGTON, June 14 (AP)—The Senate Foreign Relations Committee today recommended ratification of the Austrian independence treaty.

Chairman George (Dem.) of Georgia said the recommendation was voted "unanimously" by all members present or who had sent proxies to the committee's closed door meeting. He announced he hopes to call up the ratification resolution for a Senate vote before the week has ended, and predicted its approval.

He told a press conference an official report of recommendations for ratification is being drafted now. He gave no details, but said it will refer to the hope expressed by Secretary of State John Foster Dulles Friday that the treaty could have a sequel in the withdrawal or reduction of Russian troops from satellite countries near Austria.

AID TO CATHOLIC SCHOOLS CUT BY BELGIAN HOUSE

BRUSSELS, June 14 (AP)—The Belgian House of Representatives last night voted 111 to 1 to approve the controversial government bill to cut state aid to Roman Catholic schools.

The chamber's 95 Catholic (Social Christian) party members boycotted the ballot and walked out in protest.

The bill now goes to the Senate, where the Socialist-Liberal government coalition also has a majority.

About 934,000 of Belgium's 1,646,000 school children attend church schools. Last year the Government gave state schools the equivalent of about $170,000,000 and private schools, mostly Catholic about $92,000,000. The Government reportedly plans to trim its support of the church institutions about $5,000,000.

FLASH FLOODS HIT NEVADA, HEAVY DAMAGE IN LAS VEGAS

LAS VEGAS, Nev., June 14 (AP)—Flash floods, caused by desert cloudbursts hit Nevada last night, blanketing out this city and causing damage here expected to exceed $100,000.

The Western Pacific Railroad's California Zephyr went off the track 58 miles west of Winnemucca because of the flood-softened roadbed. The railroad said it would take at least 12 hours to get the train moving and its 300 passengers moving again. None of the cars overturned.

Scores of shops and homes were flooded here and hundreds of cars were stalled in water which swirled a foot deep on main streets. Fun-seekers were forced to confine their patronage to a single casino for several hours instead of drifting from one to another. Action at the gaming tables did not suffer, apparently.

NEW COMET DISCOVERED. VISIBLE TO NAKED EYE

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., June 14 (AP)—A new comet, visible to the naked eye, with a tail "greater than one degree long," has been discovered by the Czech astronomer A. Mrkos at Skalnaté Pleso observatory in Czechoslovakia, the Harvard observatory reported today.

A telegram received at Harvard said that when first observed June 12, at 20 hours and 40 minutes universal time, it was in the region of the constellation Auriga, near the bright stars Capella and Epsilon.

The comet is designated "1955 E" because it is the fifth discovered this year. The location of the new comet was given as 4 hours, 42 minutes, right ascension and plus 44 degrees, 12 minutes, declination.

WEEKS FOR LESS ELECTRIC, PHONE INDUSTRY CURBS

Rates Would Be Lower, Service Better if Return Were Hiked, He Says.

RENO, Nev., June 14 (AP)—Secretary of Commerce Weeks suggested yesterday it might be a good idea to revise regulation of the electric and telephone industries to let them earn higher profits.

Weeks said he had "no formula" for such a change and was "not sure" one could be devised. But, he asserted:

"In my judgment, it is not only possible but almost surely probable, that in the regulated industries, the rates to the public would be lower and the service better if the return on investment were higher and stimulation to progress were thereby greater. It seems to me this possibility deserves study and experimentation."

Congress now has before it a report by a presidential study commission headed by Weeks recommending looser regulation of railroads and other common carriers with the aim of letting competitive factors play the major role in rate setting.

Weeks said, in an address to the Mountain Pacific States Conference of Public Service Commissioners, that "unfortunate" regulation of telephone and electric industries had come to be based on limitations of profits in those industries.

In general, he said, regulatory laws provide for "reasonable rates and prohibit regulation which tends to fix less than a fair rate of return." He added:

"In spite of the good record of the regulated industries, it is not at all clear that they have stimulated public desire for their services as well as they might have."

He said men between the ages of 30 and 40 should take tours of duty in government. He said their employers should pay them while they are so engaged.

Randall said the over-all purpose would be to get talent from business, industry and the professions into public office. He made the commencement address at Northwestern University yesterday.

ORIGINAL CHARTER FIRST TIME AT U.N. HEADQUARTERS

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., June 14 (AP)—The original United Nations charter was taken to U.N. headquarters for the first time last night.

Two plainclothes U.N. guards, James J. Harrigan and James Pallister, brought it from the State Department in Washington.

The charter, the U.N.'s constitution, itself provides that it is to remain in United States Government custody. The U.N. has borrowed it to display at a tenth anniversary meeting in San Francisco next week.

SENATE GROUP OK'S 700 MILLION MORE FOR PLANES

Defense Appropriation Nearly 32 Billion — Moves to Halt Cut-Backs Defeated.

WASHINGTON, June 14 (AP)—The Senate Appropriations Committee today added more than $700,000,000 to Air Force funds previously voted by the House and then approved a money bill carrying nearly 32 billions of new funds for all defense agencies.

Secretary of the Air Force Talbott had asked for the added funds to expand production of heavy jet B-52 bombers. He had acted under pressure from Democratic Senators, who contended the Defense Department was not presenting all facts about increasing Russian air power.

The Senate committee, at the same time, beat down efforts to prevent cutbacks in the Army and Marines ordered by Secretary of Defense Wilson and approved by President Eisenhower.

Marine Proposal Loses. Senator Chavez (Dem., New Mexico), subcommittee chairman for the huge defense bill, said the Marine proposal was beaten 13-7 but declined to list names of Senators. It would have prevented a cutback from 205,000 men earlier this year to 193,000 by June 30 next year, and required $40,000,000 additional funds.

The Army motion, defeated 14 to 6, was to provide an additional $250,000,000 to prevent a cutback in the Army from 1,114,000 to 1,027,000 a year from now.

Chavez said the committee approved $356,000,000 of new funds to "make certain the United States air force is the most powerful in the world."

In addition to the new funds, Chavez said the committee also knocked out House-approved provisions that would have returned $380,000,000 previously voted the Air Force.

Talbott said the Air Force would step up its production of the speedy jet bombers, able to deliver nuclear weapons anywhere in the world, by 25 per cent.

The Senate committee also boosted research and development funds for all the defense agencies to well over a billion dollars. These are funds used to develop guided and ballistic missiles and other new weapons.

As the bill goes to the Senate it carries $31,836,521,336 of new funds. Unspent carryovers from previous years will make the defense total more than 75 billion dollars.

Chavez said the net increase over funds previously voted by the House was just under $350,000,000, indicating some cuts also were made by the Senate group.

He said the Air Force would get $14,700,000,000; the Navy $7,300,000,000; the Army $7,300,000,000; and the balance to other defense agencies.

Chavez said he was "not at liberty to divulge what the extra funds voted the Air Force will do in specific terms" but added the new totals will "permit the Air Force to do the job the American people expect of them, and do it well, and make our Air Force No. 1 in the world today."

He noted that under the Senate bill, Secretary Wilson can transfer up to $200,000,000 from other funds to special purposes, such as new weapons.

Warns of 'Socialized Medicine By Back Door' in Vaccine Program

Mrs. Hobby Opposes Hill's Proposal at Senate Hearing — Goldwater Agrees With Her.

WASHINGTON, June 14 (AP)—Secretary of Welfare Oveta Culp Hobby said today that a free polio vaccine program sponsored by Senate Democrats might lead to "socialized medicine by the back door."

Mrs. Hobby was a witness before the Senate Labor Committee, appealing for approval of President Eisenhower's program of free polio vaccine only for the needy.

A conflicting proposal backed by Senator Hill (Dem.), Alabama, committee chairman, and other committee Democrats seeks to expand that into a program providing free Salk vaccine for all children through age 19 who want it.

Senator Goldwater (Rep., Arizona), asked Mrs. Hobby what result the Democratic plan might have if it were adopted. He asked if that would not lead to demands for federal participation in other medical programs.

Mrs. Hobby said she thought it could lead to "socialized medicine by the back door, not by the front door."

Goldwater thanked her. He said he knows that neither Hill nor other committee Democrats really want socialized medicine or feel that their plan would be a step in that direction. But he said he agrees wholeheartedly with Mrs. Hobby.

Clash Over Safety Query. Earlier in the hearing Democrats and Republicans clashed over whether the committee had any business asking Mrs. Hobby about the safety of the Salk vaccine.

Mrs. Hobby styled the proposal sponsored by Senator Hill an "all or nothing" program which would prevent any flexibility by states in administering free vaccine supplied by the Federal Government.

Mrs. Hobby at the same time disclosed that the Eisenhower Administration has ticketed $35,000,000, instead of the $28,000,000 previously asked, for its own program of free vaccine limited to needy children.

The Hill measure, Mrs. Hobby estimated, would cost $135,000,000.

At the outset of a two-day hearing on the conflicting proposals, Hill said the committee wants an answer from Mrs. Hobby on "how safe" the Salk vaccine is today.

He said the committee also wants to learn whether it is "sound public policy" to continue with the mass inoculation program at this time.

Senator Bender (Rep., Ohio), immediately objected. He said the committee had agreed to confine its hearing to the two free-vaccine proposals.

Senator Allott (Rep., Colorado), agreed, telling Hill his questions "changed entirely the purposes of this meeting."

But Hill persisted. Surely, he told his Republican colleagues, the committee would not want to approve a free vaccine program unless it is certain the vaccine is safe. He said the questions could be answered later in the hearing, however.

The Secretary confined her remarks in a prepared statement to a discussion of two bills proposing federal aid. She did not discuss the general vaccine situation.

Meeting on Summer Program. In another development, the National Foundation called a meeting of polio specialists in New York Saturday to discuss whether it would be safe to continue inoculations during the summer peak of the polio season. The foundation said "a pressing problem for physicians" is whether to use the vaccine "if there is an unusual polio incidence in a community."

The Public Health Service announced yesterday it was abandoning the practice of issuing daily reports on post-inoculation polio cases. From now on, the service said, it would put out weekly summaries on Thursday.

Up to last Thursday, Health Service records showed 148 confirmed cases among about 6,000,000 children who had been given vaccine. Six of those died.

The service's announcement indicated a decline in the incidence of polio cases, possibly traceable to defective vaccine.

COURT AFFIRMS DROPPING LATEST LATTIMORE CASE

4-to-4 Split on Appeal Has Effect of Upholding Judge's Ruling Against Indictment.

WASHINGTON, June 14 (AP)—The United States Court of Appeals today affirmed dismissal of the latest perjury indictment against Owen Lattimore. The court divided 4-4.

The equal division had the effect of upholding District Judge Luther W. Youngdahl's ruling that the charge was too nebulous to permit preparation of a defense.

It was not announced how each individual judge voted. This is customary when the court divides equally.

The indictment was returned last October. It alleged Lattimore, controversial Far Eastern specialist, swore falsely when he told a congressional committee he had never been (1) a follower of the Communist line or (2) a promoter of Red causes.

Five counts from a 1952 perjury indictment remain outstanding against Lattimore.

The appellate court's action left the Government with this alternative: Go ahead and bring Lattimore to trial on the five 1952 charges or ask the Supreme Court to overturn the appellate court and reinstate the new indictment, which contain the key charges.

The new indictment in effect had replaced the key count of the 1952 indictment, also thrown out on the ground it was too vague to permit Lattimore to prepare a defense.

BILL TO REVISE PAROLE SYSTEM VETOED, ASSAILED BY GOVERNOR

Donnelly Calls Bar on Appointment to Board of Former Criminal Law Officers 'Unreasonable.'

By BOYD F. CARROLL
Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, June 14—Gov. Phil M. Donnelly late yesterday vetoed a legislative bill to revise the state's parole and probation system, because it would have barred from appointment to the parole board any person having served as a criminal law enforcement officer at any time in the preceding 15 years.

This limitation, which would have thrown out of office two of the three present members of the State Board of Probation and Parole, was assailed by Donnelly as "entirely arbitrary and unreasonable."

At the same time the Governor evoked the score with the Senate Committee on Correctional Institutions, which took no action to recommend confirmation of Donnelly's three parole board members, by reappointing all of them to new terms. The Legislature adjourned last May 31.

Reappointed to Board.

The three reappointed board members, all former state highway patrolmen, are:

Former Adjutant General Lewis M. Means (Dem.), Jefferson City, again designated as board chairman.
Elwood B. Robinson (Rep.), Kirksville.
Ben B. Stewart (Dem.), Cameron.

Robinson and Stewart would have been disqualified under the proposed 15-year bar on activity in law enforcement, had the act been approved. Means has been out of the patrol for 19 years.

All three members would have become ineligible through failure of the Senate to confirm their former appointments. Had Donnelly not reappointed them, the appointments yesterday will be subject to Senate confirmation when the Legislature convenes again, either in January 1957 or any earlier special session called by Donnelly.

The vetoed parole system revision bill, originally based on an extensive survey by a national probation and parole organization, was extensively amended in passage by the 1955 Legislature, now adjourned, but contained no improvements.

Provisions of Bill.

It would have authorized more thorough pre-sentence investigations, would have permitted release of a convicted individual on bond while such investigation was under way, and would have authorized a trial court to grant probation.

Minimum time limitations on parole applications would have been relaxed.

Donnelly told reporters increased appropriations provided for the board would enable it to add about five parole officers to its staff. "It will get along all right," he said.

In his veto message the Governor said the restriction on qualifications had "no true bearing" on the ability of an individual to perform his duties as a board member, and would disqualify persons whose experience would be of great value to the state.

No Incompatibility.

"There is no essential incompatibility between experience as a law enforcement officer and service as a member of the Board of Probation and Parole," Donnelly said. "In either capacity a person of recognized integrity and honor would perform his duties in the best interest of society."

The present members had served "with marked ability and fidelity," he said, since their appointment in a reorganization of the board last July.

"Never has the honesty, integrity, industry or qualification of a single member of this board been questioned or subject to censure," he observed.

"Disapproval of this bill," Donnelly said, "will not deprive Missouri of a functioning probation and parole system."

Family With Triplets, Two Sets Of Twins Is Now Shy a Bedroom

'Didn't Exactly Plan This Many,' Says Father—7 to Ride Piggy-Back Before Retiring.

What does it feel like to have triplets, twins, and then another set of twins—all in five years?

"Some people say they're sorry for me, while others feel that God blessed me with so many children," said Mrs. Earl Renfrow last night. "Personally, I just feel fortunate that they're all so healthy."

Mrs. Renfrow gave birth Sunday at St. Mary's Hospital to twins Michael, who weighed 6 pounds at birth, and Patricia, 5 pounds 1 ounce. The Renfrow's triplets, Rodney, Robert and Roger were 5 last Jan. 14. Their first twins, Kevin and Karen, will be 4 years old Thursday.

"We didn't exactly plan this many, but now that they're here, we certainly love them," said Earl Renfrow, the father, a 29-year-old adjuster for the Auto Recovery Bureau.

House to Be Crowded.

Renfrow had one immediate problem: how to rearrange the furniture in the family's six-room brick bungalow at 1733 Beulah avenue, Richmond Heights, in order to accommodate the two new arrivals.

"When we had the first children, we were pretty crowded. Since then, we bought here—and I thought I was getting a full-sized house. But now, I guess we could use another bedroom," he said sadly.

At the present time, Renfrow explained, the four boys—Rodney, Robert, Roger and Kevin—share one room, which contains two full-size beds, while Karen sleeps on a youth bed in another bedroom.

"We could put the babies' cribs in Karen's room, but I wouldn't want to do that—babies should be isolated," he said. "We've got a dry basement—maybe in the future we could partition off a room for the boys down there. Or maybe we'll have to convert the dining room into a bedroom, until Providence increases my income. Anyway, I'll wait until the boss comes home to decide."

At the moment, the other five children are staying with various friends and relatives in the St. Louis area. So the Renfrows have several weeks in which to decide the dormitory problem.

Clothing Handled Down.

Renfrow replied: "In a family this size, there are a lot of hand-me-downs. I'm not a rich man, you know. And children their age seldom wear the stuff out."

"When your family increases this fast, you don't know what it means. We haven't got a sissy in the crowd. They play—but they also respect. You never have a moment's peace around this house. But when you get ready to kiss them goodnight, you have five to hug you and ride piggy-back instead of one."

"And now, there'll be just that many more to ride piggy-back."

Both Renfrow and his 31-year-old wife say their families have histories of twins, which helps explain the highly unusual multiple births.

Mrs. Renfrow says her house-keeping problems will be helped by the 5-year-old triplets, who are getting old enough "to help around the house. And both the triplets and the elder twins can dress themselves."

"Maybe by the time the new twins get to walking, and playing in the back yard, the triplets will be big enough to watch them for me," their mother said hopefully.

TRUSTEES CLOSING ALL DAVIS PLACE ENTRIES BUT TWO

All streets into the Clayton subdivision of Davis Place will be closed to traffic, effective tomorrow, except for the Hanley road entrance at Davis drive and North Benton avenue, the subdivision's board of trustees announced today.

Other entrances into the area of more than 300 residences, including all west and all south side streets on Brentwood boulevard and Clayton road, will be barricaded by heavy chains, Arthur R. Bertelson, a trustee, said.

Bertelson said the action had been taken on recommendation of Davis Place property owners to close the section to heavy traffic that had been cutting through the residential community to avoid traffic lights at Clayton and Brentwood, and congestion at Clayton and Hanley roads.

A recent check indicated that 1350 automobiles used Davis Place streets in a 2½-hour period, the trustees reported. The closure will be for an indefinite period.

Held for Questioning on 'STRONGARM' REPORT

Ernest Paul (Ernie) Sarkis, operator of a tavern at 2800 Shenandoah avenue, was arrested last night and held for questioning on charges of racketeering. He was a "strong-arm man" for bad gambling debts, police reported.

Sarkis, 30-year-old former convict, also had been arrested early Sunday in connection with an automobile accident, and early Wednesday after shots were fired near his tavern in a quarrel over $1800 won in a poker game.

Three men who told of winning the money said Sarkis had fired at and wounded a man, saying they were "encroaching on his territory." He denied knowledge of the incident. In 1944, Sarkis was sentenced to three years in a federal reformatory for buying and possessing shoes stolen from an interstate shipment.

William A. Winkler Dies

William A. Winkler, a newspaper carrier for many years, died today of cancer at Incarnate Word Hospital. He was 64 years old.

Surviving are his wife, Gertrude, who lives in the family home at 2838A Accomac street; a son, Nicholas, and two brothers, John and William, who live at 9 a.m. Friday at St. Francis de Sales Catholic Church, Ohio and Gravois avenues. Burial will be in St. Peter and Paul Cemetery.

John Hitchens, 2016 Berkley avenue, Maplewood, was fined a year and a day for two traffic violations and an additional $50 for failure to comply with an order of a police officer.

Police Judge Robert G. Dowd found Hitchens guilty of careless driving and driving when intoxicated Sunday on the Express highway near Skinker boulevard. Judge Dowd also suspended Hitchens's driver's license for 90 days.

Police testified Hitchens attempted to elude them after he was ordered to halt his machine. He was captured after a chase of several blocks. Hitchens said he did not obey the police command because he knew of no reason why they should be chasing him. Hitchens, a Negro, gave his occupation as a yardman.

FOUND GUILTY OF ASSAULT ON A 13-YEAR-OLD GIRL

George Ladas, a former convict, was found guilty in Bellevue Circuit Court yesterday of criminally assaulting a 13-year-old girl.

Ladas, who is 37 years old and lives in the 500 block of South Tenth street, St. Louis, was identified by the girl as the man who attacked her in an East St. Louis apartment last June 23.

Ladas, who denied the charge and waived a jury trial, was found guilty by Judge Robert W. Griffith. Sentence will be imposed July 8.

FEDERAL PRISON TO SET FINNEGAN FREE TOMORROW

Former Collector Gets Time Off for Good Behavior—Expected to Return Here.

James P. Finnegan, former Collector of Internal Revenue in St. Louis and once-powerful Democratic politician, will be released tomorrow from the Federal penitentiary at Terre Haute, Ind. after serving 18 months for misconduct in office.

It is expected that Finnegan will be met by members of his family and return to his home at 6250 Delor street. Disbarred as an attorney by the Missouri Supreme Court, he has indicated he plans to go into the restaurant business here.

Finnegan entered prison Dec. 11, 1953, under a two-year sentence. Twice denied parole, his release after 18 months is with time allowed for good behavior. He will be under no supervision after leaving the prison.

A jury in United States District Court found Finnegan guilty March 15, 1952, of accepting $5000 from the Warwick Hotel Co. for assisting its owners in collecting a $40,000 claim from the Government. On a second count he was found guilty of receiving $3000 from the American Litho Corp. for his aid in obtaining approval by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation of $565,000 in loans to the company.

Section 281 of Title 18 of the United States Code prohibits a federal employee from accepting compensation for services in any proceeding in which the Government is an interested party. Finnegan was found guilty of violating the section and the conviction was upheld by the United States Court of Appeals.

Judge Ruben M. Hulien sentenced Finnegan to two years in prison on each count, the sentences to run concurrently. In addition, Finnegan was fined $10,000 on the second count. The former collector, who resigned prior to the trial, paid the fine before entering the penitentiary.

The federal grand jury, investigating tax scandals in the Truman Administration, is seeking to determine whether high government officials were responsible for whitewashing the early stages of the inquiry into Finnegan's activities.

Finnegan was taken from prison last January to testify before a grand jury at Omaha, and is expected to be subpoenaed as a witness before the grand jury now in session here.

BUS TURNOUTS TO BE BUILT ON EXPRESSWAYS

Stops on Mark Twain Roadway Given—U.S.-State Project.

By the Post-Dispatch Jefferson City Correspondent.

JEFFERSON CITY, June 14—The Missouri State Highway Commission has adopted a policy to build at state and federal expense turnouts for buses on all expressways that are being built or will be built in the future, it was announced today by Harris D. Rodgers, commission chairman.

At the same time, Rodgers announced the tentative locations of bus turnouts to be built on the Mark Twain Expressway. Turnouts on the Daniel Boone and Ozark expressways have not yet been placed in the roadway plan.

A turnout is a widened section of the roadway where buses may load and unload passengers. Some of the proposed turnouts, Rodgers said, will be at the level of the roadway and others will be at other levels. He said they will be designed to eliminate steps and ramps where possible.

At a hearing last month before the commission, representatives of St. Louis Public Service Co. urged that turnouts for buses be included in the highway plans and be built at state expense.

Cost of turnouts on the Mark Twain Expressway will be about $109,000, Rodgers said. Previous estimate was $250,000, but these were of an elevated type that would entail more construction costs.

Tentative locations of the turnouts on the Mark Twain roadway, the farthest advanced of the St. Louis projects, are at Jennings Station road, St. Louis Ordinance Plant at Wren avenue, Kingshighway, where the roadway will go under Kingshighway, and at Grand avenue.

Rodgers said plans call for a pedestrian overpass at the Ordinance Plant.

Rodgers said it would be a fallacy not to recognize all common carriers when planning the turnouts. He said cross-country buses and taxicabs also would be welcome to use the turnouts for loading and unloading passengers.

MYTHICAL BOMB WILL 'DESTROY' CITY TOMORROW

Most of St. Louis will be "destroyed" at 2:45 p.m. tomorrow when civil defense workers here assume that a hydrogen bomb has been dropped at Eleventh and Pine streets.

The two-day test, which will be carried out without any sounding of sirens or general public participation, will be part of the nation-wide "Operation Alert 1955." There will be practice evacuation drills for the St. Louis county hospital staff and residents of one block in Madison, Ill.

This area has been chosen by federal authorities as a test region for establishing an emergency regional governmental organization, on the assumption that communications with Washington will be cut by enemy attack. A committee representing 20 federal agencies, based at Weldon Spring, Mo., will organize essential governmental services during the test.

WARRANT ISSUED CHARGING OPERATION OF HANDBOOK

A warrant charging John F. Cuneo, owner of a tavern at 2132 Lucas Hunt road, Velda Village, with operating a handbook was issued today at Clayton by Magistrate Leslie T. Lewis.

Cuneo was arrested yesterday by two sheriff's deputies acting on a tip that he was taking bets over the telephone. Officers John Mouton and John Colgan said they observed Cuneo answering calls and writing names of horses on pieces of paper.

They said Cuneo denied he was operating a handbook, but admitted that he frequently took bets for friends and relayed them to a man in Illinois. He was released on $2500 bond. A preliminary hearing was set for July 13.

Also at Princeton, Adelbert K. Dietz-Felinger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kurt C. Dietz-Felinger, 209 West Cedar avenue, Webster Groves, won fourth prize in the Junior Oratorical Contest. Dietz-Felinger, 21, is a graduate of Country Day School here, where he won the Dartmouth Cup in public speaking.

Strikers March Before Two G.M. Plants Here

Negotiators Meet Again to Try to Settle 37 Local Issues in Walkout by 4700.

Hundreds of strikers marched before entrances to the Chevrolet and Fisher Body plants today in a mass picketing demonstration, while union and company representatives tried to settle the strike of production workers.

The negotiators met before noon to discuss 19 local issues, management, one demand in wage inequities, on behalf of 2300 Fisher Body production workers will be discussed.

Mass picketing, meanwhile, will continue through today, union leaders declared. It is planned to reduce the number of pickets later in the week, if the walkout continues.

The strike has the approval of the CIO United Automobile Workers, in contrast to last week's "wildcat" work stoppage. The strikers are members of Local 25 of the UAW.

Local leaders said international union headquarters sanctioned the walkout as a means of settling local differences with management. One demand involves wage rates on various plant operations, local workers contending their rates should equal those paid in other General Motors plants. Rates here range from $1.89 to $2.30 an hour.

A three-year agreement was reached at Detroit early yesterday by the UAW and the General Motors Corp. covering general wage rates and working conditions in 119 plants. About 20 plants remained closed due to strikes over local issues, however.

The local plants produce Chevrolet trucks and passenger automobiles, including the Chevrolet sports car.

HOUSE PASSES 3-YEAR TRADE ACT EXTENSION

Bill Giving President
New Power to Cut
Tariffs Is Compromise Version.

WASHINGTON, June 14 (AP)—The House voted today to extend the reciprocal trade act three more years and give the President new powers to cut tariffs.

Passed and sent to the Senate, after a final flurry of debate, was a compromise version of the bill. Earlier in the session it had provoked a stiff House fight and the Senate had attached numerous amendments.

The vote for final passage was 347-84.

The Senate was expected to act soon on the bill, thus sending it to President Eisenhower for his signature.

The compromise measure—giving Mr. Eisenhower in general the new authority he sought—would let the President lower tariffs up to 15 per cent over the next three years in return for similar concessions from other nations. The reductions could be in steps up to 5 per cent a year.

Also the President could cut back to 50 per cent any new duties now above that rate. Such reductions would be in return for like concession from other nations.

An across-the-board pay increase of 7½ per cent for the Government's million service workers was approved today by the House Civil Service Committee.

The action came after a proposed 8 per cent pay raise was turned down by what members reported was a tie vote.

The 7½ per cent increase, approved by a 16-4 vote, still faces a fight on the floor of the House where Representative Moss (Dem.), California, served notice an attempt will be made to boost it to the 8 per cent figure.

The committee still must work out additional provisions, including a retroactivity date and extension of the rise to employees of the legislative and judicial branches. They will be decided tomorrow.

Congress previously had voted 500,000 postal workers an average 8 per cent pay boost, retroactive to March 1.

The House Armed Military Services Committee today approved a bill to authorize military public works estimated to cost $2,368,698,000 which is $14,345,700 more than originally sought by the Defense Department.

The measure does not appropriate funds for construction of the various Army, Navy, Air Force and Central Intelligence Agency projects contained in the bill. A separate appropriation bill is required to do that. The money, if appropriated, would be available for use in the year beginning July 1.

The Army, which requested a total of $543,365,000, was authorized to spend $551,105,000. The Navy's original request of $581,197,300 was boosted to $596,140,000. The biggest share—$1,165,453,000—is for the Air Force, $8,337,000 less than the Air Force asked.

The House Armed Services Committee also voted today to reduce from 50 to 45 the maximum age at which doctors and dentists may be drafted into the armed services. The committee previously had approved the age 50 figure. The amendment will be offered when the doctor draft extension bill is considered by the House.

Both the regular draft and the doctor draft are due to die in 16 days. The House has voted to continue the regular draft, also known as Selective Service, but has yet to act on the doctor draft.

In the Senate, the Armed Services Committee gave tentative approval yesterday to a bill to continue the regular draft for four years and the doctor draft for two. The group delayed final action in order to give Pentagon officials another chance to speak about adding a strengthened military reserve program to the legislation.

The House reclamation subcommittee, by a 18 to 6 vote today approved a bill to authorize construction of the Upper Colorado river project at an initial cost of $760,000,000.

The controversial Echo Park dam was eliminated from the measure in its final form. The bill, however, provides for a presidential board of engineers to make a further study of the Echo Park project and alternate dam sites and report to Congress and the President.

A bill to authorize the Upper Colorado project already has been passed by the Senate. The Senate measure, however, differs considerably from the House committee version. It includes Echo Park dam and would authorize project units having a total cost of more than one billion dollars.

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH PROTESTS DELAY U.S. AND GERMAN AIR TRAVEL PACT

WASHINGTON, June 14 (AP)—A State Department official said today a proposed air agreement with the new German Republic has been postponed indefinitely because of protests by United States airlines and a Senate inquiry.

At a hearing by the Senate Foreign Commerce Committee, Thorsten V. Kalljarvi, deputy assistant secretary of state, confirmed that the agreement would give the German routes:

1. From Germany to New York, Boston and Philadelphia.
2. To points in the Caribbean, nonstop or otherwise.
3. From New York to any place in South America.
4. A polar route to San Francisco or Los Angeles.
5. A route to Chicago by way of Canada.

Chairman Magnuson (Dem.) of Washington of the Senate committee, inquiring into the proposed agreement, said it appeared to him to be too generous and much more liberal than other governments would provide.

9-HOUR STRIKE BACKS PERON IN CHURCH DISPUTE

ernment claims under the agreement making Catholicism the official religion in this country. The Government accused the Right Rev. Manuel Tato and the Right Rev. Ramon Novoa of instigating disorders last week-end. Msgr. Tato has been auxiliary bishop of the Buenos Aires archdiocese, and phiting head of the church in Argentina because of the illness of Cardinal Copello. Msgr. Novoa has been provicar of the archdiocese.

The decree from President Juan D. Peron's Government said an old Spanish law authorizes the Government to discharge church authorities who in some way violate their duties. Church authorities may assign them to other duties. They could not, however, take up any duties in the headquarters of Argentina's archbishops or bishops without Government approval.

Under the Argentine law, a number of prelates and priests have received salaries from the Government treasury. Msgr. Tato received a total of 1970 pesos ($126) monthly for his work in his three church posts, auxiliary bishop, vicar general and canon.

The payments to clergymen have not been forthcoming on the last two dates they were due.

'Who's Who in Infamy.'
The semi-official newspaper Democracia today listed Cardinal Copello and three other members of the hierarchy in a "who's who in infamy." Under the cardinal's photograph was the word "moneylender."

The accompanying biographical notes asserted that he had imported luxury automobiles for resale on the black market and continued.

"Of him it may be said that he descends in a direct line from that other moneylender that history knows under the name of Judas, raised to the category of a universal symbol of delirium for gold."

The nationwide strike demonstration was called by the General Confederation of Labor (CGT), whose 6,000,000 members constitute one of the strongest pillars of the Peronista movement. It was welded together by Peron and his wife Eva during the last years of her life. The CGT called for the stoppage of all but a few activities in the country, between 3 p.m. and midnight. During the shutdown, workers were called to mass rallies. The CGT called the gatherings "vindications" rallies for the alleged burning of the Argentine flag and destruction of a plaque on the capitol honoring Mrs. Peron during the giant Corpus Christi Catholic parade Saturday.

Threat to Clergymen.
Asserting his regime would act "with discipline and energy" if the occasion arose, Peron accused high Argentine clergymen of trying to provoke disorder with the aid of "armed people." But he declared that "for every man they are able to muster, we are able to raise 10 and 10 times more."

The Vatican newspaper L'Osservatore Romano said yesterday that Argentine Roman Catholics "are in the position of accused persons who have no possibility of defending themselves even from the most odious calumnies."

In a front-page editorial, the newspaper said the Peron government has "an almost total monopoly" of information and is the only agency in a position to appeal to Argentine public opinion. Some Vatican sources expressed fear that more clashes in Argentina would result in Peron's breaking off diplomatic relations with the Papal State. The President's appeal for calm appeared to ease the tension in Buenos Aires somewhat and police redoubled efforts to scatter gangs roaming the streets. But Argentines generally remained jittery. The stock market slipped and nervous storekeepers slammed down their steel shutters after Peronista gangs stoned two fashionable cafes, smashing windows and furniture.

The church-state conflict came out in the open last November when Peron accused some of the clergy of seeking to undermine his regime. Since then, the government has put through laws authorizing divorce, dropping tax exemptions for church property and eliminating financial support for Catholic schools.

The Peronista-dominated congress also has ordered a constitutional convention, elected to deprive Catholicism of its status as the state church which the Peron government conferred on it in the 1948 constitution.

COUNTY POLICE BUDGET IS CUT, FORCE REDUCED

meeting officially, it could take no action on the budget. However, it may do so tomorrow at its regular weekly meeting.

Walter L. Metcalfe, chairman of the county board of police commissioners, told the Council the amount was not enough for the department but represented about as much as could be done with the money Matthews said was available.

In a statement accompanying the budget, the police board pointed out the reductions it would entail in police work.

"The board believes that the voters of St. Louis county in adopting the charter amendment so overwhelmingly mandated an increase rather than a reduction in the overall effectiveness of the police function handled by the county," the statement continued.

"The citizens' vote on the amendment and their subsequent demand for better policing throughout the county led the board to prepare for an initial budget which would provide for a modest 11 per cent increase for personnel presently engaged in police duty."

"However, if the department must operate substantially in accord with the revised budget request submitted herewith, it will have 10 per cent fewer commissioned personnel for the performance of police duties than are now operating in the Sheriff's and constables' offices. With the rapid population growth of the county, there is an increase in the volume of police activities which cannot adequately be met by reducing the effective strength of county police personnel."

The statement called attention to the pressing need for a settlement of the question where the department is to be quartered and what automotive and office equipment it is to receive from the Sheriff and constables.

Sheriff Arthur C. Mosley renewed his plea for at least 41 employees instead of the 24 recommended by Matthews.

Mosley's attorney, Herbert W. Ziercher, told the Council the Sheriff could not carry out his civil functions with less than 41 men.

Three of the four constables also are present to ask for more men. They cited figures on the load of civil cases in support of their position.

Matthews suggested that space be rented in the 8000 block of Maryland avenue to house the Board of Election Commissioners so that its present quarters in the old part of the Courthouse could be turned over to the County Highway office. This would make room for the new police department on the ground floor of the Courthouse.

Matthews told the Council only $24,000 remained in the emergency fund and that County Clerk Leo Sievers would need $15,000 of this for extra help in preparing the new taxes. Another $5000 has been asked by the Department of Public Works, leaving only $4000 uncommitted at this time, he said.

after the raid in 1952, although the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company's reverse directory still shows the Franklin number for that address.

Calls on that number are unanswered. The telephone number was recently obtained by Ruby Hoffman, living in the 4400 block of McPherson avenue. M's Hoffman, who has been arrested as an operator of a bawdy house, made attempts after Mrs. Lyt's death to obtain her furniture.

Sought for Questioning.
Authorities have been seeking to find her for questioning in connection with the pay-off inquiry, which will be resumed by the grand jury tomorrow.

The Police Board at its regular meeting yesterday received a progress report from Maj. James M. Thompson, head of a special squad formed to investigate the reports of pay-offs. Details were not released.

Mrs. Lyt was shot to death April 21 on the street by Guy Nolan, a Negro, who admitted shooting several other persons without apparent reason. Police said the killing of Mrs. Lyt had no connection with the pay-off inquiry.

That investigation was started as a result of statements by Miss Cloin, who was angered because police would not turn over to her immediately the $14,335 in cash found hidden in the North Theresa establishment. She said the money was hers.

COUNTY AREA SUES TO BAR SHIFT OF SHERIFF'S POWERS

An injunction suit seeking to prevent the transfer of law enforcement powers of the sheriff and constables to the new St. Louis County Police Department was filed today by the Village of Edmondson in St. Louis county.

A. W. Brown, attorney for the village, named as defendants in the suit, Supervisor Luman F. Matthews, members of the county council, county police commissioners and Superintendent of Police Albert E. DuBois.

The petition asked the court to prevent destruction of the police protection of the Village of Edmondson is now receiving from the sheriff's office. The village has a part-time police department. Under a county charter amendment, the new police department is to take over law enforcement in unincorporated areas of the county and incorporated communities which request it on July 1.

MRS. G. W. COFFMAN DIES AT 91; EX-CHURCH ORGANIST

Mrs. George W. Coffman, organist at Mellow Memorial Methodist Church, 6701 Virginia avenue, for 43 years, died yesterday of infirmities at Carrie Elligson Gietner Home, 5000 South Broadway. She was 91 years old.

She was a former music chairman for the Missouri Federation of Women's Clubs and was a past president of Carondelet Women's Club. She retired as church organist several years ago. Her husband, a physician here for more than 40 years, died in 1943.

Surviving are several nieces and nephews. Funeral services will be at 2 p.m. Thursday at Mellow Memorial Methodist Church, with burial in Sunset Burial Park.

HOUSE OBSERVES FLAG DAY, HEARS NEW PATRIOTIC SONG

WASHINGTON, June 14 (UPI)—"Mr. Speaker," boomed the doorkeeper of the House of Representatives, "the flag of the United States." It was a proud moment for Doorkeeper William M. Miller, and it marked the beginning of a dramatic observance of Flag day in the House. Down the aisle marched a military color guard bearing the flag. The guard saluted the Speaker and the House. Then the House heard the first public performance of a new song, "The Pledge of Allegiance to the United States."

The song sets to music the revised pledge which, by act of Congress, now includes the words "Under God." It was sung by the Singing Sergeants, the official Air Force choral group, accompanied by the Air Force band.

STARS AND STRIPES FLOWN IN OBSERVANCE OF FLAG DAY

Many business concerns and some private residents displayed the United States flag today in observance of National Flag Day, 178th anniversary of the adoption of the Stars and Stripes by the Continental Congress.

The displays had been urged in proclamations by President Eisenhower, Gov. Phil M. Donnelly and Mayor Raymond R. Tucker. Commemorative ceremonies were held by some organizations.

STATE GEOLOGIST RESIGNS, TO JOIN 2 URANIUM FIRMS

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, June 14—Edward L. Clark of Rolla, state geologist and director of the State Division of Geological Survey and Water Resources, has resigned, effective tomorrow, to become an officer of two Colorado uranium mining companies.

He also has submitted his resignation to Gov. Phil M. Donnelly as an ex-officio member of the State Highway Commission, a post he held by law as state geologist.

Gov. Donnelly, in announcing the resignation last night, said Clark had been planning for some time to enter the mining field. He said Clark had been elected vice president and a director of the Four Corners Uranium Corp. of Grand Junction, Colo., and had been elected to the board of the Moreno Oil and Uranium Corp. of Colorado. The Governor did not indicate who would be successor to Clark, who has a national reputation as a geologist.

SIX ST. LOUIS U. STUDENTS GET SUMMER SCHOLARSHIPS

Six St. Louis University students at the school of medicine have been awarded scholarships for research projects this summer. It was announced today.

United States Public Health Service awards for $400 each will go to Merle W. Jacobs, sophomore, Quincy, Ill.; Philip Higgins, freshman, 2 McKnight lane, Ladue; Camillo Witzleben, sophomore, Parker, Ariz., and Matthew Kuluz, freshman, Bixby, Miss.

Recipients of $600 grants from the Lederle Laboratories are William Sly, freshman, 743 Alhambra court, East St. Louis, and Arthur A. Smith, freshman, Strafford, Mo.

P.S. CO. WORKERS TO VOTE ON WAGE OFFER TOMORROW

The 2800 union operating employees of the St. Louis Public Service Co. will vote tomorrow at Carpenters Hall, Grand boulevard and Cozans avenue, on a company wage offer calling for an increase of 8 cents an hour and an additional paid holiday. Polls will be open from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Employees met today for an explanation of the offer by the union wage committee, presented without recommendation. There were no indications of the sentiment of the men at the morning meeting. A second meeting, for day men, will be held tonight at Carpenters Hall.

The wage increase would be in two stages, with 5 cents an hour retroactive to March 1 and 3 cents additional next Jan. 1. If accepted, the agreement would run to next June.

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH Tues., June 14, 1955 5 A.

CHEERNICK WINS SECOND REVERSAL OF CONVICTION

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, June 14—Glenn Chernick, twice convicted of participating in the Southwest Bank holdup in St. Louis in April 1953, yesterday gained a second reversal of his conviction in the Missouri Supreme Court, based on trial errors in St. Louis circuit court.

Division No. 1 of the Supreme Court set aside Chernick's conviction of first-degree robbery with a deadly weapon, and a five-year penitentiary sentence, and remanded the case to the lower court for a new trial.

Last month the Supreme Court reversed Chernick's conviction of a charge of assault with intent to kill a policeman. Both the reversal yesterday and that a month ago were based on error by the trial judge, Waldo C. Mayfield. In overruling defense objections to testimony by Circuit Attorney Edward L. Dowd, the Supreme Court held.

TWO ACCUSED OF OPERATING DICE GAME NEAR E. ST. LOUIS

The arrest of two East St. Louis men on charges of operating dice games in a tavern in Centerville Township, south of East St. Louis, was reported yesterday by St. Clair county deputy sheriffs.

The men arrested said they were Frank Irons, of the 500 block of Pigott avenue, and Lonnie Banks, of the 1000 block of Bond avenue. Officers said 18 dice players were taking part in the games early Sunday at Wonder Bar, 1201 Mississippi avenue. A total of $115 in bet money was seized.

ALTERNATE SITES FOR U.S. CAPITOL IN WAR STUDIED

Martin Lists Requirements for New Location if Washington Is Attacked.

WASHINGTON, June 14 (AP)—House Republican Leader Martin of Massachusetts said today the Government is looking over places where Congress might move if Washington is hit by enemy attack.

Martin spoke in an interview as President Eisenhower and 15,000 key executive branch officials prepared to leave the capital tomorrow on "operation alert," a three-day civil defense exercise in which they will practice running the Government from selected posts in nearby states.

Congress is slated to go on with its business as usual during this test.

It was learned, however, that congressional leaders have accepted an offer by the Office of Defense Mobilization to undertake a survey of sites where the lawmakers could carry on their business should Washington come under attack.

Martin said discussions on the choice of an alternate capital are under way and the spot picked would have to be:

1. Not too far from the President's emergency headquarters at an undisclosed location.

2. A place where large buildings are available. There are 531 House and Senate members, not counting their staffs.

3. Comparative safety from enemy attack. A location equally as vulnerable as Washington, for instance, would not do.

Martin said Annapolis, Md., had been suggested as one location. He said that there was a security argument against the Maryland capital, in that it might be a choice enemy target, but that there was also a security argument in its favor because of its capability of defense by naval forces.

However, Annapolis would not appear to qualify as being near the President because the executive departments are all said to be moving northwest, west and southwest of Washington. Annapolis is to the east.

Representative Hollifield (Dem., California), who has been urging all-out civil defense measures, said Congress should "have a place to repair to in case of emergency—and it should be nearby."

President Eisenhower has canceled his regular White House press conference scheduled for tomorrow in order to head the evacuation of officials.

EISENHOWER TO GET FIRST 1955 BANGOR POOL SALMON

BANGOR, Me., June 14 (AP)—The belated first catch of 1955 from the famed Bangor salmon pool was on its way to President Eisenhower today.

The Bangor Salmon Club bought the 9½-pound Atlantic salmon from Adolf Fischer, paying $3 a pound, and shipped it by express, asking Senator Payne (Rep., Maine), to make the presentation to the President.

Fischer, who has caught the first fish seven times in his many years of casting into the pool, hauled out this year's first fish Sunday night.

BALL POINTS OR BALLBEARINGS? $6000 QUESTION

Hearing of a claim for a tax refund of $6000 on a $255 shipment of small metal balls purchased in England opened here today before the United States Court of Customs, sitting at the Federal Building.

Ritepoint, Inc., 9400 Watson road, received the shipment of 100,000 balls from Sussex, England, last February, expecting to pay $44 duty on them as ballbearings. The duty on ballbearings is 17½ per cent of the value, plus 4 cents a pound. Customs officials, however, declared the balls to be fountain pen parts, with a duty of 6 cents each. Ritepoint, Inc., paid the $6000, and then filed its claim for a refund.

The case is being heard by Judge Morgan Ford of New York. An attorney for the petitioner said only one witness would be presented today, and that a continuance will be sought to the next session of the court here, later in the year. It will be shown, the attorney said, that the shipment was unsatisfactory and could not be used for the purpose for which it was purchased.

BOYLE TESTIFIES AT TAX SCANDALS INVESTIGATION

William M. Boyle Jr., former chairman of the Democratic National Committee, testified today before the federal grand jury investigating tax scandals during the Truman Administration.

The jury is seeking to learn who was responsible for efforts to whitewash early stages of an inquiry into the activities of former Collector of Internal Revenue James P. Finnegan, subsequently convicted of misconduct in office. Boyle, who is now practicing law in Florida, was represented by Lee B. Schumacher, Kirkwood metallurgist, to officers of the May Department Stores Co. as the man who could get quick action on a $10,000,000 federal tax claim for the company. The suggestion was rejected, and Schumacher is serving a prison term for perjury and obstruction of justice. Another witness scheduled for today is Charles Oliphant, former chief counsel for the old Internal Revenue Bureau, recalled following testimony last week. Matthew Connelly, who

Mrs. Hughes Bagley

"I think it's really wonderful the way electricity helps a woman with her housework these days. It certainly wasn't like that when I got married. People just didn't have such wonderful appliances. But now electricity does all kinds of work in the home. Guess I'm just like everybody else when I say I just couldn't do without my electric appliances."

"We have five young children, so to me time is more important than anything else. That's why I appreciate my automatic washer and electric clothes dryer so much. My favorite is the dishwasher. You know how many glasses and dishes children can get dirty in a day! My dishwasher takes care of that! And my electric range saves me time and work, too, because it's completely automatic, and it stays so clean."

Mr. Hughes Bagley

"It makes me feel good to know that my wife can depend on electricity to do so many jobs for her. But you might say I'm a little selfish about it, too. With our electric dishwasher, I don't have to help with the dishes any more. And with our garbage disposer, I don't have to run outside every night to empty the garbage."

"We have an electric refrigerator, toaster, coffee-maker, vacuum cleaner—gosh, I don't know what all! And the best part about it—from my standpoint—is how little I have to pay to run all of these appliances. It's sure a small price for all the convenience and comfort we enjoy."

Missy, Becky and "Boo"

Need we tell you? Here three of the five Bagley children have been captured by television. Libby, just 16 months, was sleeping in her crib when this picture was taken. Andy, age 8, was busy with his electric wood burning set. But when their electric train goes whizzing along the tracks, everybody gets in the act—including the baby and Dad!

Like practically every family these days, the Bagleys, who live at 4301 Ashby Rd., St. Ann's Village, now have many more appliances than they did ten years ago. It's not surprising when you consider all the low-cost convenience, pleasure and comfort that modern appliances bring us. And the dependable electric service which makes it possible is one of the best bargains in the family budget. Where else can you buy so much for so little?

The Bagleys agree... You live BETTER... when you live ELECTRICALLY!

SPLIT IN HOUSE ON TVA CLAUSE IN WORKS BILL

Concessions to This Agency and Not to Others Stir Up Dissatisfaction.

By EDWARD F. WOODS
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, June 14—The Democratic leadership in the House today was confronted with a serious split in party ranks over the $1,276,216,242 public works appropriations bill which is scheduled for floor debate tomorrow.

The dissatisfaction hinges on the action of the Appropriations Committee, on which Representative Clarence Cannon (Dem.), Missouri, is chairman, in making important concessions to the Tennessee Valley Authority but failing to grant in full the requests for other public work agencies to which their supporters in the House think they are entitled.

Bar on Transmission Line. The bill contains a provision denying funds for a transmission line to transmit power from the projected and highly controversial Dixon-Yates power plant to Memphis and, instead, authorizes construction by TVA of a new steam generating plant at Fulton, north of Memphis on the Mississippi.

TVA supporters have been rallying votes for this provision, viewing it as an instrument for blocking the Dixon-Yates contract while, at the same time, providing the TVA area with needed new generating capacity.

A bloc of 50 Representatives who are needed if the TVA provision is to be passed, is split wide open and, unless their demands for their own projects are satisfied in some fashion, reaction against the TVA could be damaging.

The group at a meeting appointed a special committee of five members to confer with Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas and Democratic Floor Leader John McCormack of Massachusetts to seek their assistance in ironing out the trouble.

Flood Control Issue. Much of the dissatisfaction with the bill originates with representatives from mid-South area because of what they claim are inadequate provisions for flood control on the lower Mississippi and tributaries.

Cannon today defended the appropriations bill as containing adequate provisions for public works agencies. As for the flood control funds for the lower Mississippi, Cannon said, "you could spend the whole United States Treasury there if you wanted to."

It was expected that conferences with Rayburn and McCormack would lead to drafting the amendments which could be offered tomorrow with the backing of the two leaders.

Clapp Accuses Administration of "Lack of Integrity." NASHVILLE, Tenn., June 14 (UP)—Gordon Clapp, former Tennessee Valley Authority chairman, yesterday accused the White House and the Budget Bureau of a "lack of integrity" in dealing with the TVA's financial setup.

He said the bureau's self-financing plan for the TVA, as compared with the agency's own proposal, is "a fraud which the Bureau of the Budget, presumably with the approval of the President, is trying to foist on the people of the valley."

Clapp, Tennessee Gov. Frank Clement and Alabama Gov. James Folsom were among speakers attending a rally to drum up support for the TVA's own self-financing plan. The rally, first of a series sponsored by the "Citizens for TVA, Inc.," attracted an audience of about 1000.

The group passed a resolution endorsing the Davis-Jones Bill in Congress which embodies the TVA's own plan.

$128,286 VALUE ON ESTATE OF MRS. GEORGE S. LEVIS

The estate of Mrs. George S. Levis, wife of a manufacturers' representative in the millinery and dress trade, was valued at $128,286 in an inventory filed yesterday in probate court. Principal assets were stocks valued at $127,783 at market value. In her will, filed previously, Mrs. Levis left $1000 to her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Marjorie G. Levis, and $10,000 in cash and the remainder in trust to her husband.

Mrs. Levis, who lived with her husband at 725 South Skinner boulevard, died last May 23. She was 80 years old.

Flashes of Life

Double Trouble. DENVER (AP)—Safe burglars who failed a week ago returned to the Santa Fe Finance Co. and met with success.

Clayton Sites, firm manager, said burglars entered the establishment June 5 and ruined a safe while attempting to break into it. Sites replaced the safe with a new 500-pound model Saturday. When Sites arrived at the office Monday he found the safe had been carted away. It contained only petty cash and checks.

Skyview Salesmanship. ARLINGTON, Mass. (AP)—An Arlington real estate firm plans to give prospective home purchasers a bird's eye view of their future home sites. A helicopter service will be offered clients by the firm of Lyons & Angell to help them select the community where they wish to live.

NEW NIGHT FLIGHT GOES NOWHERE IN BRIGHT DAYLIGHT

STOCKHOLM, June 14 (UP)—The Scandinavian Airlines launched a new tourist flight today. It doesn't go anywhere but it provides a terrific view of the midnight sun from the air.

The six-hour flight starts and ends at Stockholm. It is a nighttime flight, but the sun doesn't set. The main purpose is to show off Scandinavia's chill and mountainous north by the light of the midnight sun.

The flight occurs every Saturday. The fare is $58. The plane leaves Bromma airport in late evening, circles over the brilliantly illuminated capital and turns north. At midnight, half-way to the Arctic Circle, there is full daylight.

While eating a midnight snack passengers can see the sharp, toothed North Swedish fjells (mountains). If the weather is favorable, the plane makes a quick tour to the Norwegian Atlantic coastline.

A guide tells tourists when it is all right to use cameras. Otherwise photography is not permitted.

The flight returns to Bromma at 4:25 a.m. after covering a distance that would have taken the plane to Rome.

MILLSTADT MAN, 69, KILLED IN TRUCK-AUTO COLLISION

William Kleinschmidt, Route 1, Millstadt, Ill., was killed yesterday when his pickup truck collided with an automobile on Cemetery road near Columbia, Ill., 14 miles south of East St. Louis.

St. Clair County Coroner C. C. Kane, who returned a verdict of accident, said Kleinschmidt might have suffered a heart attack shortly before the collision.

Eugene Arras, Route 1, East Sarandee, Ill., driver of the automobile, said the truck was on the wrong side of the road and Kleinschmidt appeared to be slumped over the wheel.

Arras was not injured. Kleinschmidt, who was 69 years old and a retired farmer, had been under treatment for a heart ailment, relatives said.

NO MISSOURI RULING ON 'GUARANTEED PAY'

Jobless Compensation Officials Say They Await Details of Ford, G.M. Plans.

By the Post-Dispatch Jefferson City Correspondent.

JEFFERSON CITY, June 14—State officials in charge of the administration of jobless compensation in Missouri have not determined as yet whether some amendment of laws will be necessary to give effect to "guaranteed wage" plans agreed to by Ford and General Motors Corp.

Gordon P. Weir, director of the Division of Employment Security of the State Department of Labor and Industrial Relations, said today: "We have not had a chance to look into it—we do not know whether we would have to supplement our state law to cover such plans."

George Schwartz of the legal section of the Division of Employment Security said no decision could be reached, or the answers found for questions arising from the "guaranteed wage" programs, until more was known about the plans.

"We have not seen the agreements," Schwartz said. "We cannot determine the effect on our law until we know all the conditions governing the supplementation of unemployment benefits."

He said no specific bar to such additional payments had been raised so far, but a question would arise whether such added amounts paid to laidoff workers by employers would be wages.

If such amounts were construed as wages, they might be taken into account in determining what benefits are to be paid to an individual under the Missouri law, who is unemployed.

Maximum unemployment compensation benefits under the Missouri law are $25 a week for 24 weeks. Benefits are graduated according to the pay of the jobless individual covered by the law. About 700,000 workers in Missouri are covered by the state law.

Payments are financed through payroll taxes paid by employers subject to the act. Employees make no contribution to the fund.

CAN YOU GO TO ALASKA in September?

If so, you have a bargain. And you will be on a cruise of highest quality, escorted, with friendly companions.

Most travelers to Alaska, you know, insist on July or August, when ships are crowded. They don't realize that September, too, is a wonderful month in the Northwest, the Inside Passage, Alaska and Canadian Rockies.

Four members assemble in St. Paul the evening of August 31. The trip requires three weeks, costs less than ordinary cruises and represents a bargain for a quality vacation. The trip is under the trustworthy auspices of the Agricultural and Passenger departments of the Northern Pacific Railway, and while essentially for farm families, city folks will enjoy them too.

BELLERIVE PICKETING IS RULED ILLEGAL

State Supreme Court Orders Injunction Be Issued to Stop It.

By the Post-Dispatch Jefferson City Correspondent.

JEFFERSON CITY, June 14—The St. Louis county circuit court was ordered to issue an injunction against picketing of Bellerive Country Club by a union seeking to organize some of the club employees, in an order issued yesterday by the Missouri State Supreme Court.

The order also instructed the court in St. Louis county to determine the actual amount of damages resulting from the picketing, which started in 1953.

Defendants in the suit were officers and members of the St. Louis joint executive board of the Hotel and Restaurant Employees and Bartenders International League of America, and of the Bartenders, Waiters, Cooks, Waitresses and Miscellaneous Employees Union.

The Supreme Court order, entered in Division No. 1, reversed a ruling by Circuit Judge John A. Witthaus at Clayton.

In the opinion, Supreme Court Commissioner Cullen Coil wrote that "the injunction should be so tailored as to prevent picketing which has for its objective an attempt to cause the plaintiff to coerce its employees to join the union."

"Where it clearly appears from all the evidence and circumstances that the real purpose is to attempt to cause the employer to bring pressure upon its own employees to join a union, the peaceful picketing is in fact not 'organizational' picketing but thereby becomes a form of picketing for the purpose of accomplishing an unlawful objective and should be enjoined," the opinion said.

The picketing at the club started in May 1953, during the Western Open golf tournament there. It resulted in interference with deliveries of various supplies by truck drivers who refused to cross picket lines.

Club officers said about 30 employees were involved, and that they were free to join unions if they wished to do so.

S. VIET NAM AIDED BY JUNIOR CHAMBER

Head of Group's International Section Here, Tells of Project.

Vital medical and economic assistance is being furnished to the people of south Indochina, on a "citizen-to-citizen" basis by Junior Chamber International, the organization's president, Peter B. Watts of Christchurch, New Zealand, said here today.

Watts, in St. Louis to visit the city where the Junior Chamber of Commerce was founded in 1915, described the $25,000-a-month program that is now being carried on to help refugees and other groups in Viet Nam.

Known as Operation Brotherhood, the International Jaycee project to provide medical aid for Viet Namese was fostered initially by members in the Philippines and then was adopted by the parent organization as an international project at Mexico City last year, Watts said.

"We are a non-political, non-sectarian organization, and here were millions of people in desperate need," he said. "We just wanted to do something about it."

Watts, 39 years old, a public accountant in private life, said that Jaycees in the United States had raised $130,000 for Viet Nam in the first two weeks of the drive, which began a month ago.

Inspecting the work in Indochina in April, Watts found eight Jaycee medical clinics either operating or in process of being set up. He said most of the doctors came from the Philippines, where the first Jaycee chapter in Asia was formed six years ago.

"At Camau, in South Viet Nam," he related, "our clinic of one surgeon, two doctors, three nurses and a social worker was handling 700 patients a day and running a 21-bed hospital. "I saw major operations being performed on rough wooden tables. They were using one electric light and a flashlight for illumination."

Viet Nam itself trains only about 30 doctors a year, Watts explained, and practically all of these are needed for Army service. He said the Jaycees planned to continue their project for another year, hoping the country's government will be able to take over after that time.

MISSOURI TO GO THROUGH WITH COUNTY TAX PLAN

Matthews Says He Will Present Blanket Increase to Council Tomorrow for Action.

State Tax Commission Chairman James M. Robertson said today the commission is going ahead with its plan to order assessments on real estate in St. Louis county raised to 30 per cent of true value this year.

Robertson told the Post-Dispatch the commission does not advocate a flat blanket increase applied to each parcel of property but added that this was a matter for county officials to decide.

County Supervisor Luman F. Matthews repeated today his intention of recommending this method of compliance with the commission's forthcoming order because of lack of funds and time to achieve a comprehensive revaluation of the county.

Declaring the function of the Tax Commission is to equalize assessments among the various counties, Robertson said the commission stopped at the county line.

Up to Board. "It is entirely up to the county Board of Equalization and the assessor as to what method is used in applying any increase we order," he said.

St. Louis county has been doing little but make reports, when it was action that was needed, he asserted.

"We are going through with this. We have no intention of postponing it," he added.

Although Matthews said he would recommend the blanket increase at tomorrow's council meeting, the Council appeared equally determined to go ahead with its plans for a comprehensive revaluation as the only fair means of bringing all property up to the Commission's goal of 30 per cent of real value.

Councilman James H. J. McNary, a member of the special Council committee on revaluation, said the committee would make a progress report on its efforts to get the revaluation started. He said the committee might be able to recommend which appraisal firm should be given the contract for the undertaking.

McNary Determined. "The committee is proceeding full steam ahead with the revaluation proposal, no matter what the Supervisor says," McNary remarked.

Representatives of five firms have been interviewed by the committee in the last three days, McNary said. The sixth bidder was eliminated on the basis of its written bid, he added.

The representatives were asked for detailed information on their procedures, methods, office space and personnel needed and estimates of the time required to do the job.

The State Tax Commission has indicated it will order St. Louis county to increase its real estate assessments by 60 to 85 per cent. If the increase is applied across-the-board, it will be very unfair to the small property owner and those who have recently purchased homes, McNary declared.

Development Factor. "Such an increase would favor the large property holder and the man who has held his property over the years and has seen it increase in value with the rapid development of the county," he added.

"For instance," he said, "take the case of the man who has held his property for a number of years so that its present value is, say, $100,000. It might still be on the assessment rolls at $4000. That person would not mind a 60 per cent increase to $6400, but if a revaluation is made and the property was raised to 30 per cent of its true value it would have an assessed valuation of $30,000—quite a different story."

On the other hand, he went on, a person who just had bought a $15,000 home might find it assessed now at $4000. A 60 per cent increase would bring it to $6400 but a true valuation at 30 per cent of its real value would only bring it to $4500, he said.

The plan for a comprehensive revaluation is based upon the assumption that the Tax Commission will delay the effectiveness of its order for another year in order to give enough time for the job to be done.

RED CHINA'S ARMY TOTALS 3,570,000, NATIONALISTS SAY

TAIPEI, Formosa, June 14 (AP)—The Nationalists' internal security organization has estimated Red China's army at 3,570,000 men and its air force at 1879 fighter planes, including 818 jets.

The organization, the Peace Preservation Corps, said yesterday the army figure did not include militia and other non-regular formations.

Without giving the source of its figures, the corps gave these additional estimates of Red China's military organization: navy, 195,455 men; air force, 240,000 men.

The plane figures included only fighters. Russia is believed, however, to have turned over some twin-jet bombers.

SETTLEMENT OF BRITISH RAIL STRIKE REACHED

17-Day Walkout Ended
After Conferences by Train Union, Labor Minister.

LONDON, June 14 (AP)—Britain's 17-day-old railway strike ended today.

Big Jim Campbell, leader of the non-striking National Union of Railwaymen who took part in all-day conferences at the Ministry of Labor, told newspapermen:

"A settlement has now been reached."

The walkout by 67,000 locomotive engineers and firemen for higher pay differentials over less-skilled workers is estimated to have cost the state-owned railways 1,000,000 pounds ($2,800,000) daily.

About 80 per cent of Britain's rail service was throttled. Raw material deliveries to Britain's booming industry were curtailed.

A Labor Ministry statement said the striking Associated Society of Locomotive Engineers and Firemen "informed the minister they were taking steps to call the strike off forthwith."

Labor Minister Sir Walter Monckton, who sat in on the negotiations, left the conference room and told reporters:

"I am just going off to the House (of Commons) to announce that the strike is over. I have never been more satisfied that the strike is over in all my life."

Meanwhile, wildcat seamen's strike that has disturbed sailings of British Atlantic liners for two weeks led 150 crewmen of the liner Queen Mary to vote to quit work. The 81,000-ton luxury ship which has a crew of 1267 is scheduled to leave Southampton for New York Thursday. A Cunard Line spokesman said the owners could not tell whether the strike vote would stop it.

EISENHOWER NOMINATES GORDON GRAY AS WILSON AID

WASHINGTON, June 14 (AP)—President Eisenhower sent to the Senate today the formal nomination of Gordon Gray, president of the University of North Carolina, to be an assistant secretary of defense.

Gray, a Democrat and former Secretary of the Army, will succeed H. Struve Hensel, who resigned.

The White House also announced that the Army will name Maj. Gen. Robert Nicholas Young as commanding general of the Sixth Army which has headquarters in San Francisco. Young will succeed Lt. Gen. Willard G. Wyman, July 1. Wyman is to become deputy commanding general of the Continental Army Command. Mr. Eisenhower asked the Senate to raise Young to three star rank.

U.S. Discounting, as Expected, Red Propaganda Sent With Approval of Geneva as Site

Officials Say Russians Are Trying to Put Blame on Washington if Big Four Parley Fails—'I'm Glad They've Accepted,' Dulles Comments.

WASHINGTON, June 14 (UP). UNITED STATES officials today shrugged off, as an expected development, the sharp propaganda blast that accompanied Russia's acceptance of western proposals to hold the Big Four "summit" meeting at Geneva starting July 18.

The State Department officially had no comment either on the formal Soviet note agreeing to the meeting arrangements or a Tass news agency statement issued at the same time. The Tass statement accused Secretary of State John Foster Dulles of jeopardizing the success of the Big Four meeting by suggesting that talks might touch on the problem of Russia's eastern European satellites or the activities of international Communism. Tass said neither subject belongs on the agenda of a conference aimed at "relaxing international tension."

Dulles, who got a brief account of the Soviet note from reporters when he returned to Washington late yesterday from Indiana, said:

"I'm glad they've accepted. It at least settles one thing."

Other diplomatic officials said it would have been surprising if Tass had passed up the opportunity to get in a few new lines on the Soviet propaganda line, which is to pin the blame on the United States if the Big Four meeting is a failure.

They said the Tass statement was mainly an "echo" of what Moscow has said several times before.

The important thing, said one official, is that the formal Russian note agreed to a meeting at Geneva starting July 18, with no ifs or buts.

The Soviet note stated the purpose of the conference "should be the lessening of international tension and the strengthening of mutual confidence in relations between states."

"Pointing out that the Western powers had expressed a desire that the conference last only three or four days, Russia said such a short meeting would "overlook the important questions of the tasks at this conference as they are stated in the note of the Soviet government of May 26. In the present situation efforts of the governments of all four countries participating in the conference should be directed above all to a guaranteeing of the fulfillment of the main task of the conference—lessening of international tension."

TEXT OF RUSSIAN BIG 4 STATEMENT

Following is the text of the Russian Tass news agency statement on a Big Four conference, as broadcast yesterday by the Moscow radio:

Mr. Dulles, United States Secretary of State, made the other day a statement to the press regarding the forthcoming conference of the heads of governments of the U.S.S.R., U.S.A., Britain and France. That statement contains an allegation that the success of the conference will primarily depend on whether or not the Soviet Union is willing to put a "new constructive spirit" into the solution of international problems.

Mr. Dulles tried to cast doubt on the earnestness of the Soviet government's intentions with regard to this conference. In his statement, Mr. Dulles also said that the U.S.A. intended to bring up for discussion at the conference such questions as "the problem of the countries of Eastern Europe" and "activities of international Communism."

Continuation of Same Line.

In connection with this following has been stated in authoritative Soviet circles:

"Mr. Dulles's statement is a continuation of the same line which was pursued formerly in pronouncements of the leaders of the U.S.A. and the insolency of which has already demonstrated in the note of the Soviet government to the United States Government of 26 May 1955."

"Approaching the forthcoming conference of the heads of governments from the standpoint of the notorious 'positions of strength' policy and seeking to depict the situation as though the success of the conference will primarily depend on the position of the Soviet Union, Mr. Dulles, as also some other American statesmen, thereby show that their efforts are aimed not at facilitating the work of the conference, but at complicating the situation on the eve of the conference and raising obstacles to its work."

"Yet, the success of any international conference depends on the willingness of all its participants to facilitate the settlement of outstanding issues with due regard to the interest of all the parties to the negotiations. The intention to face one of the parties with some kind of conditions for negotiation is absurd. In any case, it should not be forgotten that with regard to the Soviet Union such methods, as in the past cannot be successful."

"Statements to the effect that the conference should discuss such questions as the problem of the countries of Eastern Europe or 'the activities of international Communism' also can have nothing in common with the desire to achieve constructive results at the conference. It should be clear to all that no 'problem of the countries of Eastern Europe' exists because the people of these countries, having overthrown the rule of the exploiters, have established in their countries a peoples democratic government and will not allow anyone to interfere with their domestic affairs."

International Communism. "As for the question of 'activities of international Communism' it is permissible to ask how would Mr. Dulles regard the raising of the Four Power conference of, for example, the question of 'activities of international capitalism'?"

"It is not clear that all these statements of Mr. Dulles cannot be considered otherwise than an attempt to divert the attention of the public from the really urgent problems of international affairs, such as reduction of national armaments and prohibition of atomic weapons, the establishment of a system of collective security in Europe, the safeguarding of peace and security in Asia and the Far East, the restoration of the legitimate rights of the Peoples Republic of China in the United Nations, etc."

"The new steps of the Soviet Union, taken by it with the object of easing international tension, have exerted a profound influence on the international situation."

"The steps are: Conclusion of a state treaty with Austria, the proposal of the U.S.S.R. government on reduction of armaments, prohibition of atomic weapons and removal of the threat of another war, the Soviet - Yugoslav negotiations, which have resulted in the normalization and improvement of relations between the U.S.S.R. and Yugoslavia, the proposal for the establishment of diplomatic and trade relations between the U.S.S.R. and the (West) German Federal Republic, the negotiations with Japan which have been started and so on. All this has been a big contribution by the Soviet Union to promoting mutual confidence between states to strengthening peace."

Expected Concessions. "If in these conditions the American leaders deem it suitable to stress that the U.S.A. has no intention to go to the conference of the heads of governments with any constructive proposals aimed at easing international tension, but expects some kind of 'concessions' on the part of the Soviet Union, this merely shows that not all people like the reduction of international tension which started as a result of the Soviet Government's efforts. Some people, on the contrary, would like to keep up this tension, expanding the arms drive which is a heavy burden for the peoples."

"As the Soviet Government has repeatedly stated, it holds that the task of the governments of the four powers is to lessen international tension, to promote constructive results at the conference can be achieved if all the states concerned strive for such results not in words but by deeds."

BRITAIN TO EXPAND ATOMIC POWER STATION PROGRAM
LONDON, June 14 (AP)—Britain announced last night it is expanding its £300,000,000 ($840,000,000) atomic power station program.

Geoffrey Lloyd, minister of fuel and power, told the House of Commons atomic reactors to produce electricity and fissionable material for military purposes will be increased from 12 to 18.

Under the original program, the atomic plants were to be built over a 10-year period. Construction of the first two was to start in 1957, and they were to begin operating about 1961.

Continuation of Same Line.

In connection with this following has been stated in authoritative Soviet circles:

"Mr. Dulles's statement is a continuation of the same line which was pursued formerly in pronouncements of the leaders of the U.S.A. and the insolency of which has already demonstrated in the note of the Soviet government to the United States Government of 26 May 1955."

Decision Made to Invite Him to White House Only After Pressure by Eden.

By DONALD GRANT
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch

WASHINGTON, June 14.

VENGALIL KRISHNAN MENON is a strange figure on the current Washington scene more because he is a left-wing intellectual than because he is an Indian. Menon is talking to President Eisenhower today about the possibilities of reducing tensions in the Formosa area, a problem that could mean the difference between world war and world peace.

This tall, gaunt figure who is India's Prime Minister Nehru's right-hand man, is regarded with suspicion by the successful businessmen in the Eisenhower Administration. Twenty years ago Menon was a soapbox orator in Hyde Park in London.

Now, although the London radical has achieved a position of great responsibility, he occasionally forgets that he is one of the world's leading diplomatic figures and talks like the old Hyde Park orator.

Recent newspaper articles, obviously inspired by "official sources," have described Menon as "playing China's game," and have stated that "the United States would prefer that some other channel of negotiations be worked out with Red China on Far Eastern problems."

When it was first learned that Menon was coming to Washington, it was announced by the White House that the adviser to Nehru would see only Dulles, a conference between Menon and Mr. Eisenhower was not mentioned.

Pressure by Eden. The decision to invite Menon to a conference at the White House, with President Eisenhower, was made only after the influence of Britain's Prime Minister Anthony Eden was felt in Washington, it was learned on good authority.

Krishna Menon's role as intermediary in the Formosa straits issue, it was learned, has the complete approval not only of India's Nehru, but also of Britain's Eden and of Canada's Minister of External Affairs, Lester Pearson.

Eden and Pearson remember that it was Menon who worked out the formula under which an armistice finally was achieved in Korea.

They have not forgotten that Menon was an active behind-the-scenes participant in efforts which ended in the cease fire in Indochina.

"They credit Menon with having obtained the release of the four American flyers from Red China, just recently."

And even the coming Big Four Conference in Geneva follows lines laid out by Krishna Menon as early as 1953.

If Krishna Menon now succeeds in finding a formula that will produce real peace for a substantial period in Asia, by "reducing tensions in the Formosa area," he will have made secure a place for himself in history that no member of his old Hyde Park audiences, snickering at the "ranting Indian" on the soapbox, could have suspected a few years ago.

His Faults Are Assets. Menon's very faults also add up to his greatest asset: he is a man not really at home anywhere, but at any rate quite familiar with the landscape of the West as of Asia.

"In the United States," Menon has been heard to complain, "they criticize me for being 'anti-American'—but in India they call me 'pro-Western.'"

In New Delhi, where this writer first met Krishna Menon then he was invited to tea in Menon's austere little room in Nehru's house, Menon wore the flowing white cotton robes of his native Malabar Coast. In New York and Washington—as in London—Menon wears impeccable suits cut by a London tailor.

In either event, as an Eastern man or as a Western man, Menon is the same caustic and complex intellectual, with flowing, curly hair, now graying, and burning black eyes, a flashing smile, and a nervous movement of his long-fingered hands. Menon is 56 years old. He looks taller than he is, just under six feet, because of his leanness; he weighs about 130 pounds. He is a strict vegetarian. The number of cups of tea he consumes in a day is legendary, as is his capacity to exist on almost no sleep. He is all nerves and intelligence. Significantly, he wrote his thesis at University College, London, for his M.A. degree, on "An Experimental Study of the Mental Processes Involved in Reasoning."

An Indian friend of Menon, commenting on the often-repeated remark that Menon is "anti-American," admitted he sometimes appears to be. "But he also may at times appear to be anti-Chinese, anti-Russian, anti-European—and anti-Indian," he added.

Menon's friend also said that Menon is "pro-Nehru and pro-world-peace—24 hours a day, seven days a week and 365 days a year."

Menon's dedication to his boss, Nehru, and to India's foreign policy, cannot be doubted; it has taken the place of his dedication to the cause of India's independence, for which he acted as London agent for much of his adult life. He has never married, though he has a keen appreciation for attractive women. One theory is that since the family organization on the Malabar Coast traditionally follows a matriarchal pattern, Menon has revolted against that along with his revolt against colonialism, also an "Indian tradition," as he grew up.

Does Not Drink or Smoke. He does not drink or smoke. His only weaknesses are for tea, highly spiced rice, and for walking sticks; he has a fantastic collection of canes strewn about his untidy little room in Nehru's house.

Menon's youth was not remarkable. He was educated, through the undergraduate college level, in India. His father was a lawyer, so Menon also studied law.

One item of his career might come as a shock to his Washington critics; he was Boy Scout Commissioner in Madras for six years.

It was not until he moved to London, shortly after World War I, however, the Krishna Menon began to discover his grand passion: Indian independence. And at the same time he discovered that very influential teacher, Harold Laski, of Harvard University and the London School of Economics.

Menon received his B.S. degree, studying with Laski, but the Communist Vietminh who control the north half of Viet Nam under the Geneva conference. They doubtless are in full agreement with many French, American and Viet Namese here who think the dispute inevitably will end in the Communists' gaining the southern half of the country.

A part of the problem is that neither America nor France has a well defined policy. Such policies as they have are opposed to each other. American subordinates here are not always following the directions of their

French Hardly Talk to Officials Of South Viet Nam, Americans

Feeling Against U.S. Bitter — Animosity
Continues Down to Lower Levels —
Situation Helping Communist Vietminh.

By PRESTON GROVER

SAIGON, June 14 (AP).

THE FRENCH here are so bitter at the Americans over Indochina that they scarcely speak to them. The French hardly ever speak to members of the Viet Namese government now in office, which they bitterly oppose. The Americans, in turn, rarely speak to the French but talk happily, at the moment, with the Viet Namese government headed by Ngo Dinh Diem. And Diem, so the French say, speaks mainly to God.

As a correspondent I have never found a situation so personally bitter as this one.

Even at the peak of the troubles between the Indians and the British from 1942, the year of the Gandhi arrest, to 1947, the year of liberation, the British were speaking comfortably to Indians and Americans were speaking with both of them, despite an undercurrent of American sympathy for the Indian effort to quit the empire.

"We have very little contact with the Americans," said a spokesman of French general headquarters.

Colonies Wholly Apart. The French and American colonies live almost wholly apart. The animosity stems from widely differing policies which the two countries have tried on high levels to reconcile. But there is no effort at reconciliation on the lower levels on either side. Quite the contrary, it is clear that some of the "junior" in service on either side are trying to whip up even more animosity.

It is a situation shocking to newly arriving observers and must bring great happiness to the Communist Vietminh who control the north half of Viet Nam under the Geneva conference. They doubtless are in full agreement with many French, American and Viet Namese here who think the dispute inevitably will end in the Communists' gaining the southern half of the country.

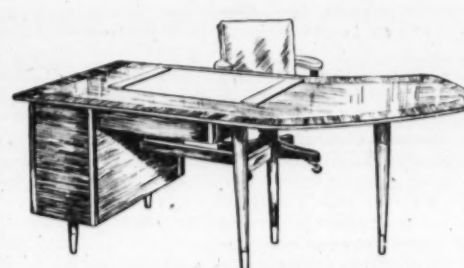

A part of the problem is that neither America nor France has a well defined policy. Such policies as they have are opposed to each other. American subordinates here are not always following the directions of their

Enforcing Arms Cuts

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

When last I was in St. Louis, I was shown your able and constructive editorial of Feb. 27, "The Way of Reason." In it you logically conclude that the way to permanent peace is through disarmament. Such "disarmament" must be general and universal, and all nations would have to revise their military thinking and consent to thoroughgoing international inspection.

As Bernard Baruch has warned: "No disarmament program can be adopted which fails to provide direct, effective and certain guarantees for enforcement of its terms. International disarmament of both conventional and atomic weapons requires an international authority with power to inspect, control and impose punishment, swift, sure and condign against any transgressor."

The purport of Mr. Baruch's warning against disarmament without sufficient safeguards has for many years been the battle cry of a stalwart minority. Men, women and organizations, despite adverse criticism and even charges of subversion, have already advanced the principle that the road to permanent peace is through universal disarmament under inspection and enforceable law.

Very soon our electorate will have to come to the realization that any just enforceable law implies a legislative body to make the law, a judicial body to adjudicate it, and a police force to enforce it. In other words, if this world of ours is to have universal disarmament under enforceable law it must also have a modicum of universal government.

Former Secretary of Air Thomas K. Finletter summed up this situation with the admonition that "it will take a fine quality of mind and character if this renewal of the drive for enforced disarmament is to succeed. And it will have to be carried on with courage. For there is one disagreeable point about any plan for enforced disarmament, and that is, that it has to be enforced against the United States as well as against the other nations."

The Flag on Display

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

The 178th anniversary of the adoption of the flag of our country reminds us that the flag is a symbol of freedom under constitutional government. Flags of other nations have come and gone. We should respect it and all for which it stands.

Let us hope that many people display the flag. JUDY QUEENSEN.

Cheers for Len Hall

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Three cheers to Leonard Hall for his fine article "Better Protection for the Landscape." Let's have more of the same.

I am deeply afraid that the people of the United States, in their quest for the dollar to buy so many unnecessary "necessities," have lost the happiness for which they strive. As Mr. Hall says, "We increasingly substitute the artificial for the natural and cease to regard as important those things of this earth which are free and wild."

And so in our ceaseless push and rush, we build up tension. We destroy the beauty of natural woodlands and fine trees surrounding our city. We say we have no time or money to save them. And yet in the artificial surroundings we create for ourselves, we cannot find real and deep happiness.

Keep up the good work, Leonard Hall! I hope that your vision will inspire many people quickly before all our woods and trees are destroyed.

MRS. GEORGE WILSON JR.

Improving Social Security

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Recent news reports out of Washington inform us that a concerted drive will be started this month to amend the Social Security Act during the present session of Congress by reducing from 65 to 60 years the qualifying age at which women may receive their benefits.

For 20 years advocates of a better social security law have tried to get the qualifying age of both men and women reduced to 60 years. They have failed. Everyone who wants an improved social security program now, should speak up.

Victims of Brainwashing

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I have read Judge Medina's statement in your paper telling how the Communists brainwashed him in his courtroom while he was presiding at a Communist trial.

My question is why does America send so many of our boys to prison for things they said and did, after being brainwashed by the Moscow-trained forces? What protection did they have?

I mention one case, that of Edward Dickenson, who was promised American protection and freedom if he would come home.

What did he get? Does his education compare with that of one of our judges?

How can America be so heartless to punish boys who have faced death to keep America free? Won't someone do something to help them?

MRS. A. W. HUEGERICH.

Rescue the Reserves Bill

If the highly unlikely occurred tomorrow and this country suddenly found itself forced into war (which heaven forbid!) our small regular forces, now scattered around the globe, would soon be used up and there would be nothing between us and the enemy except inadequate reserves. They would need months of training before they could plug a gap.

If we survived the war, scapegoats would certainly be sought. The scapegoats would be found among the indifferent and the obstinate in Congress. They would be found by the millions among the American people whose dislike or indifference to anything military has led some Congressmen to believe it folly to work for a measure that would create really effective reserves.

President Eisenhower, at his last press conference, made a strong appeal for passage of a bill, now sidetracked in the House, that would give the nation by 1960 something close to the 3,000,000 trained reserves it needs. Under his vigorous prodding, some of the Congressional leaders are now trying to devise workable strategy for rescuing the bill. They will have to exert themselves mightily if they are to save this vital measure.

The bill had excellent chances for passage until Congressman Powell of New York appended an entirely extraneous anti-segregation amendment. This drove so many Southern Congressmen into the minority camp of those opposed to the measure that it had to be shelved to save it from being voted down. The worst of all is that there was no need for the Powell amendment. The segregation evil could be taken care of in another way. The Defense Department could simply give assurance that no reservist would have to serve in a segregated unit.

The defeat of this bill would put this country in a dangerous position. The regulars are steadily being cut down—and it was intended that this reduction would be compensated for by building up something this nation has never had: powerful and trained reserves ready to go quickly into action wherever needed.

As matters now stand there are more than 3,000,000 persons with reserve obligations but less than 700,000 of them are fulfilling these obligations. Many of those who are doing their duty have served in two and even three wars. They should not be the ones to bear the brunt if war comes again.

They will not be the ones to bear it if Congress does what it should and passes this bill which is designed to create effective reserves and to ensure that all those who have reserve obligations will meet them.

A Bright Spot, and a Showdown

One of the brightest ports for the Tennessee Valley in the last two years is the House Appropriations Committee's approval of the proposed Fulton, Tenn., steam plant to be built by TVA.

Denying the Administration's request for $6,500,000 for a transmission line to connect TVA with the proposed Dixon-Yates steam plant at West Memphis, Ark., the committee voted to apply this amount instead to a start on the Fulton project.

In the face of growing demands on the TVA power system, and the danger of a shortage unless new production is brought onto the line promptly, it is inexplicable that TVA Chairman Herbert D. Vogel should oppose the House committee's action. He admits that TVA could go ahead with its Fulton plant "quite rapidly," but prefers the Dixon-Yates arrangement instead. Why?

The House Appropriations Committee points out that there is no indication that litigation involving Dixon-Yates will be settled any time soon. The controversy has already killed a year and a half's time, and as the committee observed in a report written by Representative Cannon of Missouri:

For two years the Administration has failed to recommend any new starts in generating capacity for TVA although the load is growing rapidly in this area and installations vital to defense are located there.

Financial houses on which the Dixon-Yates syndicate depends for its money have indicated that they will not go ahead with the loans until all legal clouds have been removed. Only in a theoretical sense, then, does Dixon-Yates continue to be an alternative to the Fulton steam plant. Yet Gen. Vogel does not explain why he objects to a bird in the hand, and prefers a rather badly-plucked bird in the indefinitely-distant bush.

Members of Congress will do well to apply themselves to this point of practicality. Democratic members in particular will need to do so. Unless they vote forthrightly for the Fulton steam plant, their criticism of the Republicans by Dixon-Yates will have a hollow ring.

On both sides of both Houses and at both ends of Pennsylvania avenue the choice now clearly lies between producing the power and obstructing it.

While the Temperature Is Down

With the Formosa crisis obviously less acute than it was a few weeks ago, India's V.K. Krishna Menon strengthens hope for a peaceful solution as he opens discussion of the issues with President Eisenhower and Secretary Dulles.

Having discussed the same issues in Peiping, Prime Minister Nehru's emissary expresses the firm conviction that a peaceful solution is possible. The very fact that he can entertain this belief and publicly proclaim it is a hopeful augury, especially when coupled with the recent lowering of international temperature in the Far East.

Mr. Dulles generously attributes the relaxation of tension to the Bandung conference where, he says, Communist China learned that Asian and African sentiment was overwhelmingly against warlike action over Formosa. Others have attributed the situation to the fact that Peiping has been clearly warned against any aggression against Formosa, and so has become less interested in any interim aggression against the coastal islands.

Whatever the reason, the Peiping regime, although still firing occasionally, does appear to have backed away a bit from the menacing position it was believed to be taking earlier in the year. At the same time Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalists have less support than they once might have expected for provocative adventures against the mainland. The result is an informal cease-fire which may indeed require no formalization with paper, ink and seals.

It does not follow, however, that nothing whatever need be done to improve relations in the Far East still further or to pave the way for an ultimate settlement including the permanent disposition of Formosa. Even though neither side now chooses to enforce its claims with arms, a conflict of interests does exist in that area, and it calls for diplomatic settlement.

If Krishna Menon has brought from Peiping any constructive ideas looking toward such a settlement they should be seriously considered and followed up. Everybody shares Mr. Dulles' relief that the Formosa crisis has eased off for the present, but it is not necessary to wait for another crisis before doing anything about Formosa.

Anything that can now be done to advance the cause of an ultimate settlement will be so much net gain.

Priority for County Expressways

When is St. Louis county going to vote a bond issue for the major new expressways it ought to be building right now?

Ever since the first of the year, Supervisor Matthews and certain members of the Council have had plenty to say about a county bond issue, but the only step toward bringing the matter to a head has been taken not by the officials but by a group of citizens.

This was the filing of initiative petitions by a committee headed by Charles W. DeWitt. The petitions were turned in March 17 and called for "early" submission of an $8,500,000 expressway bond issue election, as Mr. Matthews himself had urged in a New Year's message.

It is easy to see why so many citizens signed the DeWitt committee's petitions. The program would cover the county's share of right-of-way costs. The remainder of the costs would be contributed by the state and federal governments to the tune of some $80,000,000—almost $8 for every $1 raised locally.

Shortly before the petitions were completed, however, the Supervisor and Council had named a 22-member screening committee to recommend "various" improvement projects. The hope was that this committee would be able to come up with a list that could be submitted on the same day as St. Louis's $110,000,000 bond issue.

While the Council permitted the initiative petitions on the expressway matter to sit in a pigeon hole pending a recommendation of the screening committee, the days went by. Suddenly it was too late; by the time the screening committee had made even an interim report the county had missed the boat.

The situation now is the screening committee has recommended submission of the same $8,500,000 expressway program as called for in the DeWitt group's initiative petitions, and $200,000 for child welfare buildings. But no definite election date has been suggested.

Where does the county go from here? If a special election is ruled out, the first opportunity to present the expressway proposition to the people comes next Oct. 4 when two state matters must be submitted. If the screening committee has a comprehensive list of improvements ready to be voted on then, fine.

If not, then the expressway program ought to be offered alone. Expressways are essential to the county's future, and it seems unreasonable to delay a decision merely so they can be used to dress up a large improvement program in the indefinite future.

Sailing Ship Races on the Deep

Across the blue lanes of the wide Atlantic 11 small sailing vessels are competing today in two races that are the first of their kind to be held in 20 years. There have been only 11 other yacht races across the Atlantic, the first in 1866.

An American yacht, the Ticonderoga of Bar Harbor, Me., is entered against three Latin American craft in the world's longest sailing race, a 4,200-mile stretch from Havana to San Sebastian, Spain, which began Sunday.

Two American yaws, Circe and Carina, are competing against five German and Norwegian ships in a 3,450-mile pull from Newport, R.I., to Marstrand, Sweden, that began Saturday.

The Havana-San Sebastian race is expected to take at least four weeks and the other three weeks, with good likelihood that both may take two weeks or more longer than expected. In any event, it will be a long time for man to pit himself against his fellows and the eternal elements. A man has to have a bit of Stockholm tar in his blood and some oakum attached to his scalp to find recreation in the grueling and hazardous pastime of ocean racing.

Even veterans of the strenuous sport refer to it as a sort of dogged pursuit that varies from doldrum to tempest. Judgment and skill must be displayed in navigation and seamanship. Endurance and persistence must stand up to sudden squall and smashing storm. The ability to drive just a little past the limit of safety is what determines a winner. Fire, ice, rushing water and collision with steamships can take toll in such contests. Yet who does not yearn to leave his desk and join these modern argonauts regardless of what besets their path?

Separation by Ax

The violence of Dictator Peron's attack upon the Roman Catholic Church is appalling to Americans who live with separation of church and state. Peron is not drawing that line in Argentina but is sundering it with force.

This is not the first instance of strife between church and government in Latin America. Mexico went through a long struggle to break government from religion, and religion from its historic association with colonialism.

The Mexican Constitution written after the Revolution of 1910 contained the basic Reform Laws first stated by Benito Juarez in 1859. These laws, however, were largely disregarded until 1926. At that time the clergy published a protest against the restrictive laws, and in anger President Calles began to enforce them. Church lands were expropriated; priests were ordered to register.

Open warfare began when peasant troops known as Cristeros began marauding, even blowing up the Mexico-Guadalajara train and killing a hundred passengers. Military chiefs replied by plundering and laying waste to vast land-holdings. Pitched battles were fought.

At one point prominent American Catholics urged United States intervention. But Dwight Morrow was sent to Mexico as a friendly Ambassador and time and patient mediation began to heal the wounds.

Today Mexico remains a staunchly Catholic nation, but church and state live on separate terms. The political influence of the Church is restricted though it is unlikely that Mexico would elect a President vetoed by the Church.

After all these years it might be said that Mexico's long struggle to disassociate church and state was part of a national revolution on a broad pattern. Once that was recognized, Washington's decision to offer mediation but not intervention made sense.

In Peron's war with the Church, as described in the Mirror of Public Opinion article on this page, it is difficult to distinguish those powers that rightly belong to Caesar and those that Juan Peron simply expropriates for himself. As with politics and press, the religious issue has been appropriated by Fascism, and that will leave a black mark in Argentine history.

"FATHER, WHY CAN'T YOU BE —"

Peron's War With Catholic Church

The Mirror of Public Opinion

Correspondent says Juan Peron could separate Church and State without such strife, but dictator seems to regard Church as danger to his brand of fascism; also offers a variant devotion to late wife, 'Evita'; makes drastic change in Argentine history.

Herbert L. Matthews, Correspondent of The New York Times, in The Reporter Magazine

Last November, in the old and very Catholic center of Cordoba in Argentina, a priest told his parishioners that they would have to choose between President Juan Domingo Peron and Jesus Christ.

"I have never had any trouble with Christ," Peron declared.

He is in trouble now, and it is hard to avoid the conclusion he looked for it.

The Argentine Church has a tradition of keeping out of politics. The people, being originally Spanish and now mostly of Spanish and Italian descent, are somewhere between 90 and 95 per cent Roman Catholic.

Catholicism has been state-supported since independence was declared in 1816. The President and Vice President will be Catholics.

However, while government subsidized the Church it took away Church lands and property, regulated the exercise of Church patronage, and controlled all religious matters that concerned the national interest.

Peron Shows True Colors

The Church, therefore, had its place and was kept in it. There was no inclination on the part of the clergy to mix in politics.

Unfortunately, the Church allowed itself to be lured away from its comfortable haven. The evil geniuses of modern Argentina were the military leaders who staged a revolt in 1930 that was to lead inexorably to the dictatorship of Peron. However, the army clique was not recognized as evil by the Church leaders, who benefited from special measures calculated to win their favor.

To be sure, when Peron came out in his true colors (flanked by Eva Duarte)—a demagogue and fomenter of class hatreds, with no scruples, no respect for property or persons, for justice or human rights—there were second thoughts, but it was too late. He who sows with the devil needs a long spoon.

The Church was singled, so it simply sat still, waiting for time to play its customarily corrective role.

Peron did not sit still. He has struck one blow after another and destroyed the structure of Argentine church-state relations—all the time protesting that he has nothing whatever against the Church or the Catholic religion. One asks, Why?

Peronism is a form of Fascism. Catholic organizations and movements might not be anti-Peronist but neither would they be pro-Peronist. If an opposition were to be formed in Argentina, where else could it find such fruitful grounds?

Church Objects Vigorously

Peron was never one to wait for his enemies to get strong. Besides, he may well have spotted a real danger in the rebirth of a Christian Democratic movement, centered in the deeply Catholic city of Cordoba, 400 miles to the northwest of Buenos Aires.

The Church objected vigorously when, at the end of September, President Peron criticized the Juventud Obrera Catolica (Catholic Youth Workers) for their activities in the factories. In October came a decree giving illegitimate children the same legal rights as those born in wedlock. On Nov. 10 the General Confederation of Labor (run by Peronists, of course) launched a campaign against what it called "Catholic infiltration into trade unions. That was

Between Book Ends

Self-Help for Your Brain

THE HUMAN BRAIN by John Pfeiffer, (Harper and Row, 273 pp., $3.75)

Mr. Pfeiffer's book tells about the structure and function of the human brain as it is known to research at the present time.

It was a human brain that produced this book. It is a very readable book, free as possible from technical jargon and the private vocabulary of the neurologist and the psychiatrist. It was written after the author had spent several years in visiting hospitals and laboratories and gathering material for its writing.

I have been looking a long time for a book that would tell the story of human thinking in terms of neurological fact rather than metaphorical fancy. This is it.

It is fashionable right now to call the brain a thinking machine, but Dr. Warren McCulloch warns against this kind of over-simplification.

"The brain is like a computing machine, but there is no computing machine like the brain," he writes. "It was only a few years ago that Dr. Hans Berger of the University of Jena in Germany discovered that the human brain is a tangled circuit for electrical waves. This was in 1929. His skeptical colleagues called him 'der kluge Hans,' which was the name of a popular horse of the time that was performing before vaudeville audiences by tapping out answers to questions with an educated right hoof."

Today, in 1955, there are some 150 laboratories in the United States and as many more in other nations, says the author of "The Human Brain," where equipment for studying the electrical goings-on of the brain are in use. Brain storms are now being charted just as the weather man reads his instruments and tells us something about what is happening today and what is likely to happen tomorrow.

Mr. Pfeiffer's book has much to say about brains in general as an evolutionary development. He discusses the nervous systems of various living things from the sea anemone down through the fishes, the lizards and crawling, climbing and flying animals and finally those of our own special kind of mammal. He talks about the older brain of older animals and the newer brains that the newer animals have acquired, which have been added to the older brains.

There are chapters on brain hygiene, and brain disease. These bring the subject out of the realm of scientific curiosity and right close to ourselves. Because we all have this human brain, and have to deal with its wonders, its weakness and its blunders.

It is refreshing to get away from the popular jargon of the current mind-help and chin-lifting books and speeches, where preacher, psychologist and psychiatrist are competing for the control of our sins, souls and salvation. "The Human Brain" is the kind of book that helps a human brain to help itself.

Diana's Escapades

DIANA IN THE CHINA SHOP, written and illustrated by Eleanor Frances Lattimore. (Morrow, $2.25.)

Another of Miss Lattimore's very real little girls is the heroine of this story of a Charleston (S.C.) antique shop. Diana is rescued by the fire department from the house roof where she has followed her cat, Pounce, who serves for a day in the Colonial Cookie tearoom; sits out a near-hurricane on Folly Beach; and helps her grandmother sell "treasures" in the Old China Shop. Pictures and story catch the flavor of Charleston and create a little girl whose escapades will endear her to other eight-to-10-year-olds.

THOMAS L. STOKES

The People Look to Their Resources

THERE ARE SIGNS here in Congress that the folks back home finally are waking up to the threat to our natural resources.

For the first time since Jan. 20, 1933, it begins to look as if the voice of the rank and file may be as effective here, or almost, as that of powerful special interests. As we know, the latter group set out at the start of this Administration to break down protections to our natural resources that were designed to utilize them for the best of the public interest. How the impact of the public is being felt can be illustrated in the case of two issues.

Stokes.

One is the proposed exemption of producers of natural gas from regulation by the Federal Power Commission, which consumers are bitterly fighting.

Natural Gas and Power.

The other is the Dixon-Yates contract, which is recognized as a major effort to destroy the public water-resource program by driving a private utility wedge into TVA, the program's most dramatic symbol.

When this Democratic Congress met in January, it was accepted as almost a foregone conclusion that big oil would get a law to remove natural gas producers from FPC regulation, just as big oil got its law in the previous Republican Congress to hand over jurisdiction of offshore oil lands to the states.

In natural gas, as in offshore oil, such a law would nullify Supreme Court decisions. Everything seemed set for an easy and early victory for natural gas and the big oil companies that own the bulk of natural gas reserves.

Oil states had members well-placed in key spots of power. The House Interstate Commerce Committee gave priority to the exemption bill, hearings beginning weeks ago. They were supposed to last only a few days and then, presto, the measure would be hurried through the House.

Consumers Revolt.

But that didn't happen. It hasn't happened yet, here in mid-June. The reason: a public rebellion by consumers. Their representatives followed one another before the committee with protests, including mayors of our great cities.

Finally, just last week, the committee approved the bill, but by a hairline margin, 16 to 15. That forecasts a very close battle in the House, especially since that body will be acting under a spotlight turned on by consumers. Everybody will know where to look.

Six years ago the first of such natural gas bills was whisked through the House one afternoon in 40 minutes, between naps so to speak. It never got to a vote in the Senate. Finally an exemption bill did get through Congress—but former President Truman killed it with his veto.

But there's no champion waiting in the White House now ready with a veto. President Eisenhower will sign a natural gas bill as he signed the offshore-oil bill.

The public at last seems to be waking up to the fact that on issues like this it has to protect itself now.

That explains the concentration on Congress, where the bill must be stopped if it is to be stopped.

Blow to Dixon-Yates.

There are plenty of champions there—and they did a fine job in the House as they are now doing in the Senate, where public hearings are going on.

What has happened on natural gas is heartening for the democratic process and so, too, is what is happening on the Dixon-Yates contract. In this second case, the House Appropriations Committee last week eliminated from the appropriation bill the $5,500,000 asked by the Budget Bureau to build a transmission line from the middle of the Mississippi river into Memphis, Tenn., to bring power to the projected Dixon-Yates plant in Arkansas.

If the committee is upheld by the House and Senate, that would be the end of the Dixon-Yates plant, in spite of the widely publicized ground-breaking ceremonies the other day at the site in Arkansas. For that gold shovel they used does not conduct electricity. The transmission line must do that.

The Worst Is Ahead.

The attempt to break into the TVA with a private utility combine of Wall Street antecedents on the flimsy pretext of helping out the Atomic Energy Commission was recognized at the very outset by the folks in the TVA area for what it was, a sham perpetrated by the Budget Bureau with the approval of the President.

The suspicions of the people in the area have been compounded by the private war being carried on simultaneously against the Hoover Commission because of the former President's advisory role in the Administration.

So far the public alertness in the field of conservation of natural resources has been helpful. But the pressure must be kept up, right to the end, without stop.

Congress has some time to run yet. It is in the hectic closing days that the slick tricks are pulled, when it is not so easy for the public to follow the tracks of its servants here.

By MYLES STANDISH

When mists swirled across the Municipal Opera stage last night, I had a hard time making up my mind whether they were manufactured. Scottish Highlands variety, or true Forest Park vapors arising from a temperature cold enough to make a duck wing south. But nevertheless the 6500 intrepid customers who braved the evening—with topcoats and furs intermixed with straw hats and white shoes to make it a bizarre sartorial jumble—saw in "Brigadoon" a bonnie show to warm up their hearts in the rawest of weather.

On its fourth showing in St. Louis, and second at Forest Park, this musical fantasy with music by Frederick Loewe, a Scotsman by way of Vienna, and a book by Alan Jay Lerner, demonstrates its enduring charm as one of the most delightful things of its kind ever written. A lot of its original enchantment depended on its production values, exquisite in the original, and Mundy Opera has captured and held most of this, retaining its lyricism, its fragile and luminous magic that makes it so bewitching.

The grace and lilt of the songs, the allusive spirit and poetry of the dances, following the creations of Agnes de Mille for the original, are all there in this imaginative tale of a Scottish Highlands village which disappeared in the mists under a religious incantation two centuries ago, and now returns to life only one day every hundred years.

Earl Williams, displaying a rich lyric tenor, did the loveliest of the songs, "Come to Me, Bend to Me," with a haunting wistful beauty that was carried into the following ballet. And he set the glens ringing merrily with the lively, "Come Home to Bonnie Jean." David Atkinson, a tall handsome hero as the American visitor, Tommy Albright, again showed a smooth, fluid baritone of opulent timbre, and Virginia Oswald, doing Fiona MacLaren for the second time, a bright, warm soprano, as they sang the engaging duets, "Almost Like Being in Love," "From This Day On" and the very pretty, "The Heather on the Hill." Miss Oswald, who had another little musical gem in "Waitin' for My Dearie," was appealing, although I don't think she has that elusive fey charm we have come to associate with Fiona's mystic spell.

The dances, which are so important to the impact and coloring of this, were all deftly staged. They were led by three first-rate ballet dancers, David Nillo as the bitter Harry Beaton, who led the difficult sword dance; Christine Mayer as Jean MacLaren, who was quite beguiling in the two hot dances, and Lidia Franklin of the original company who did the funeral dance to a weird and primitive bagpipe accompaniment.

"Brigadoon" has plenty of laughs mixed in with its fantasy, most of them in this production in the competent hands of Frank Maxwell as Harry Smith, Tommy's caustic and earthy friend. For some reason, the part of Meg Brockie has again been cut down by Mundy Opera, eliminating her best comic scene and song, "Love of My Life," so Joan Kibrig, as the Highlands Ado Annie, was able to offer only a token of her ability.

The production, second of the season, continues through Sunday night. It might be possible, in that time, to correct two minor faults in staging — (1) Fiona and the other Brigadoon people in the bar scene toward the end are much too visible behind the scrim before it is lighted, taking away some of the effect; (2) some male members of the chorus suffer from droopy kilts, giving the noble garments the effect of ill-fitted women's skirts.

W. W. CONDIOT RE-ELECTED PRESIDENT OF PLAYGOERS

Wilson W. Condiot, advertising director of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, was re-elected president of the Playgoers of St. Louis at the organization's seventeenth annual meeting yesterday at the Missouri Athletic Club.

Other officers elected were William T. Jones Jr., vice president; Mrs. Thomas M. Sayman, vice president; Arthur D. Buckland, treasurer; and Mrs. Amos J. Coyle, secretary.

New members elected to the board of directors were Harry Bennington, Paul E. Conrades, Clifford Cornell, Mrs. A. H. Kerth, Mrs. B. A. Lynch and Gerald F. Pauley. Re-elected to the board were M. E. Holderness and Charles S. Fox.

CANCELED LITTLE SYMPHONY CONCERT AT 8:45 TONIGHT

First concert of the Little Symphony season, canceled Friday because of rain, will be presented today at 8:45 p.m. in the Washington University Quadrangle, weather permitting. Season tickets will be sold to accommodate those who were unable to attend Friday.

If it is raining at 8:30 p.m., the concert will be given in Graham Memorial Chapel on the university campus. Friday's cancellation was the first in the history of the Little Symphony Association, founded in 1934.

Edward Murphy will be soloist, playing Mozart's Concerto for French Horn. Under the baton of Max Steindel, the orchestra will play "Divertissement," by Jacques Ibert, the London (Everyday) Suite, by Eric Coates, and Benedetto Marcello's Concerto Grosso Opus 1, No. 4.

NEW YORK, June 14 (AP)—Evangelist Billy Graham, now in Europe has been invited by the Protestant Council of the City of New York to preach in Greater New York. The council's board of directors voted yesterday to invite Graham and hopes he will be able to come here in September 1956.

CHINESE COLOR PRINT EXHIBIT AT MUSEUM

St. Louisans' Paintings Now on View in Another New Show.

By HOWARD DERRICKSON

"The Mustard Seed Garden," an exhibition of 72 Chinese color prints of garden subjects, opened yesterday at City Art Museum. This is the museum's first comprehensive showing of an 80-print collection that recalls a landmark in graphic arts history.

Presentation of the collection was made to the museum in 1941 by David Thayer Burbank, 14 North Kingshighway.

Name of this group of prints, first published as a four-volume set beginning in 1679, is believed to derive from its place of origin, a Nanking villa with a bell so tiny it became known as "The Mustard Seed Garden," Burbank said.

Wood blocks that were re-cut for the series were selected from those of the Tang period, beginning in 618, through the Ming period, ending in 1644.

"The Mustard Seed Garden," a similar book published in 1627 include the beginnings of all color wood block print work. Miss Mary Powell, education supervisor at the museum, has written an introduction to the show.

Burbank's gift collection is from a particularly fine early nineteenth century reprint edition made from original blocks used in the four-volume set of 1701, contained all of the work's polychrome prints.

As a whole, the monumental work was planned as an instruction manual for young artists, permitting them to learn motifs and brushstrokes of master artists of 10 centuries.

It consists mostly of highly naturalistic representations of flowering plants, birds and small animals. Included are inhabitants of water, air and land—crayfish, carp, beaver, all manner of songbirds, butterflies, grasshoppers and myriad other insects. "Reeds and Geese" has been chosen by Miss Powell as Print of the Month.

Printed on wet paper without outlines, these bright pictures have a water color's freshness and charm. They have inspired a wealth of Chinese porcelain decoration.

The show will close June 30. On view through June 22 in a Twelfth boulevard window of Union Electric Co. are 10 oil and water color paintings by six

BERNICE TRIMBLE WINNER OF CUP IN AIR RACE TO CUBA

HAVANA, June 14 (AP)—The President Batista Trophy was presented last night to Bernice Trimble of Flint, Mich., for winning the sixth annual Washington-to-Havana women's air race.

Miss Trimble and 25 other women pilots finished the race yesterday with a 90-mile hop from Key West in calm weather. The race began Thursday, with the winner decided on actual flying time. Bad weather grounded six of the 33 planes which started. A seventh, piloted by Eleanor Davis of Arlington, Va., returned to Key West after the take-off for Havana yesterday.

Miss Trimble's co-pilot was Joan Rhubec of Cleveland, O.

The next five finishers, in the order of their standing, were Frances Bera, Los Angeles; Ruth Thomas, Knoxville, Tenn.; Laurien Griffin, Merriam, Kan.; Louise Smith, High Point, N. C.; and Barbara Jenison, Paris, Ill. No time was announced for any contestant.

Mrs. Loretta Slavick, chairman of the St. Louis chapter of the Ninety-Nines, a women's flying organization which sponsors the contest, took part in the race. She and her husband, Leon E. Slavick, live at 44 Forest Glenn lane, Kirkwood, and have five grandchildren. Her partner was Mrs. Mildred Clark, 4 Champlain court, Florissant, an entrant in last year's race.

Cardinals For Sale? Never Heard Of It---Giles; No, Says Busch

International Idea.

DES MOINES, June 14.—JIMMY JACKSON'S adventures overseas in Walker Cup and British amateur matches were a subject of interest when he appeared here to defend his Trans-Mississippi championship.

The talk got around to the fact that the British must feel in attempting to continue the cup matches in which they have been beaten 14 out of 15 times.

"A lot of people over there seemed to think the matches might as well be discontinued," Jackson said. "But there was also an idea suggested that the British team should be made up from Commonwealth golfers, including Canadians and Australians. There are a lot of good Canadian amateurs."

Such a move, of course, would help restore the Walker Cup to its position of international importance. It appears now that unless something is done, it will become a bit of a joke.

"This was the year, you know," Jackson continued, "that the British believed they had their best chance. They named their team far in advance—last year—so that the players would have every opportunity to prepare. And they considered our team to be one of the weaker American teams."

But it didn't work out that way.

"Apparently," Jackson continued, "the average American amateur player doesn't have the same opportunities to improve himself as the American does."

"For instance, I was talking to one of the younger British players and he was asking me what he should do to improve. And one thing I mentioned was the need for more tournament experience. I asked him if he ever got the chance to play in open tournaments and he told me that when the British amateur is paired in the open tournaments, he never is paired with a good professional. So, he has little chance to get pointers from the pros under those circumstances."

30-Yard Putts and Up.

ONE of Jackson's more startling commentaries on the differences between golf in Britain and in America concerned the practice over there of cutting the grass in front of the green as short as it is on the green.

"You can use a putter from 20 yards out," Jackson said. "Another difference is that the greens are never watered over there. So, unless the approach is against the wind, a golfer always plays to hit in front of the green and let the ball run up instead of shooting for the green directly."

Jackman was asked whether the British are generally converted to the wedge, the short shot club which Americans used with great proficiency before the British took it up.

"Yes, he said, 'they're all using the wedge now and that reminds me of another difference. Over there on the seaside courses where the wind blows most of the time, you expect to see the players hitting low shots as we do in the wind here. But by and large most of the British hit the ball higher than we do.'"

Expensive Pastime.

A MATTER of golf is an expensive thing—especially when a player hits the big time.

Jackman pointed out that it runs into money for a leading amateur to attempt to compete in such things as overseas tournaments in connection with the Walker Cup matches.

"Unless a man comes from a family with money, a family willing to help the son or daughter in amateur golf, it's a difficult proposition," Jackson said.

That's why you see the national amateur champions turning pro—like Gene Littler and Arnold Palmer.

Jackman himself admits there have been times when he couldn't help but think maybe the pro career was the better path to follow in the game in which he is now excelling as an amateur.

Acc at Sunset.

F. E. Keith, using a seven iron, dropped his tee shot for a hole-in-one at Sunset's No. 13 yesterday. The hole is 162 yards long. Playing with him were C. W. Oertli, B. Stahmer and J. Gibb.

Report in New York Is Denied

Warren Giles, president of the National League, in a telephone conversation from Cincinnati with the Post-Dispatch, said today that he had never heard of a report that August A. Busch, president of the Cardinals, was interested in selling the Cardinals.

Giles made the statement in answer to a question as to the accuracy of a story printed by Bob Cooke, sports editor of the New York Herald-Tribune, that the Cardinals "were on the block." Busch had previously denied the report.

"This is the very first time I've ever heard of it," said Giles. "It has never been discussed by him (Busch) or anyone else to my knowledge."

It would be customary for the owner of a ball club to contact his league president if he had any real intention of disposing of his holdings.

Busch was vehement in his denial of the report.

"There is no more truth to it than there is a man in the moon," Busch said.

As to the sale of beer by Anheuser-Busch, from June, 1954, to June, 1955, sales here increased 250 per cent in St. Louis and St. Louis county.

It was a rumored decline in beer sales to which Cooke attributed Busch's desire to sell.

Cooke also said the fact that baseball is a controversial business was another reason that Busch wanted to get out of it.

As to that Al Fleishman, public relations director of the Cardinals, said that Busch actually likes that part of baseball.

"He loves to get letters from the people, telling him how to run the ball club and a few other things," Fleishman said. "As late as two weeks ago they received an inquiry regarding the sale of the club, but the answer was no, that the Cardinals were not for sale."

"During the course of a year, numerous inquiries are received with regard to the sale of the club and the answer has always been no."

'CLUB NOT ASSET TO SALE OF BEER'

By BOB COOKE.
New York Herald Tribune News Service.

NEW YORK, June 14.—The St. Louis Cardinals baseball franchise, purchased less than two and a half years ago by Anheuser-Busch Inc., one of the nation's largest breweries, is up for sale.

The Cardinals are on the block, it was learned, because the poor showing of the club and certain deals the club has made are believed not to have been an asset to the sale of Budweiser, a beer that was unable to make the Cardinals famous.

It was also learned that August A. Busch Jr. and the Anheuser-Busch people are willing to sell the ball club and ball park for the sale of the Cardinals.

Reached by telephone in St. Louis, Busch denied the Cardinals would be sold.

"Does that mean they won't be sold in the near future?" He was asked.

"Not in my book," he added, "but that's up to my board of directors."

Busch paid $3,750,000 of Anheuser-Busch money for the club, Feb. 20, 1953. At that time, Bill Veeck, owner of the now defunct St. Louis Browns, owned Sportsman's Park, the only big league park in St. Louis.

Anheuser-Busch had to pay another $800,000 for the ball park on April 9, 1953.

Confirmed by Officials?

Confirmation of the proposed sale of the Cardinals came from a number of baseball officials in both leagues.

"Busch wants to get out, because baseball is such a controversial business," said one executive. "You can't run a ball club like you do an industry. It's everybody's business."

"Suppose you sign an athlete for $50,000 and fans think he's worth $60,000. The public labels you cheap-skates."

The sale of the Cardinals in '53 was prompted by the departure of Fred Saigh, former owner, who was forced to get out of the ball when he was sentenced to 15 months in prison for tax evasion.

An influence, which proved most disturbing to Busch and his brewery associates, was the trading of Enos Slaughter in April 1954, to the New York Yankees. Slaughter, a hero to every baseball fan in St. Louis, was traded to New York for Mel Wright, a pitcher, and Bill Virdon and Emil Tellingner, outfielders. Virdon is currently on the Cardinals roster.

Pitcher's Delight---Safe at Home

Pitchers would rather talk about their batting averages than their mound performances and presumably BERT BARTH of the Stockham Post team is no exception. He took advantage of a wild pitch by his opponent, BILL ROCHE of St. Louis Post No. 4, with back to camera, to slide home safely with one of the 15 runs tallied by the Stockhams in the American Legion on junior baseball game at Fairground Park.

Cards Play Bucs Tonight; Trade Talks Likely Before League Deadline Tomorrow

By Bob Broeg.
By coincidence of schedule the Pittsburgh Pirates of Branch Rickey, the baseball David Harum who loves horse-trading second only to the victories that have eluded him since he left Brooklyn five years ago, once again provide the Cardinals' opposition at Busch Stadium during the deadline for talent-swapping.

In tonight's 8 o'clock opener of a three-game series with Pittsburgh, the first of five clubs to call here during a Redbird home stand of 16 contests, hard-luck Larry (2-3) Jackson of the Cardinals probably will draw Ron (3-5) Kline of the Pirates as a pitching opponent.

1. can be expected, too, that the Cardinals' high command will talk trades with Rickey or his representatives—as well as other clubs—before the June 15 trading deadline Wednesday midnight.

Long Ball Hitter Sought.

Manager Harry Walker, beaten in 11 of his first 16 games as St. Louis field leader primarily because of inexperience and light hitting, has expressed interest in obtaining, if possible, a slugger to add the long ball to the Redbird batting order. Right-handed-hitting Frank Thomas, young Pittsburgh outfielder who started slowly at bat after a lengthy spring holdout, would fit the description.

If, however, the Cardinals hope to obtain a Thomas or any other hitter of note in the National League, they would have to be prepared to give up a player of talent, too, because money alone no longer talks in major league baseball.

Presumably, Walker and Bing Devine, front-office troubleshooter, flew home ahead of the Cardinal train traveling party to discuss with General Manager Dick Meyer if coming trading plans and personnel to be offered.

A recent effort to regain Ray Jablonski from Cincinnati, which reportedly demanded Outfielder Harry Elliott and Pitcher Herb Moford in return, failed just as a year ago at this time when Cardinal hitting was heavy and the pitching extremely poor, the Cards were unable to land Vernon Law or Max Surkont from the Pirates. Rickey's demands of money and players for either of the two right-handers were regarded as exorbitant.

Woodridge May Return.

Regardless of what happens under the baseball barter system, the Cardinals are expected to recall Floyd (Goat) Woodridge, highly-regarded and colorful righthander sent down to Houston in May. Woodridge, who fired a one-hitter and a two-hit game in his first two Texas League starts, recovered only recently from a virus ailment.

Acquisition of Woodridge as a starter would result in trimming two pitchers from the roster, one to replace the Goat at Houston and the other to help Rochester, which was seeking a hurler even before Walker replaced Eddie Stanky as manager here and brother Dixie took The Hat's place as Rochester skipper.

Harry Walker believes 10 pitchers are enough for a big league ball club. And the way Paul La Palme, Frank Smith and Brooks Lawrence have hurt recently in relief hasn't hurt the manager's view.

Barth Hurls One-Hit Game, Stockhams Win

By John J. Archibald.
Stockham Post which suffered miserably in a 14-1 drubbing by Walnut Park last week, completely reversed form in its second attempt in the American Legion's Leo Browne League yesterday.

Against the St. Louis Post No. 4 team, an outfit that was good enough to defeat Missouri Pacific in its opener, Stockham smashed 18 base hits and Pitcher Barth allowed just one safe blow as he won, 15 to 0.

The game was called after seven innings because of the Legion's 10-run rule, just as the Stockhams' previous contest was called after six innings because they were out of contention.

It was the start of a busy week for Stockham, which will have to face Mo-Pac's speedballing Jim Donohue tonight and the St. Louis No. 4 team again Thursday. The Stockhams and Walnut Park won't meet again until next Tuesday.

Barth, a 200-pound clean-up batter who plays the outfield when not pitching, had a no-hitter for five and two-thirds innings. Tom Lauer then knocked a clean single into center field. That was the only blow that resembled a hit off Barth, who struck out five and walked five.

Bob Brand and Rich Rogers each had four hits for Stockham. Rogers had a double and a triple, while Brand had a triple. Ron Probst, Barth, Larry Anderson and Frank Bevejo each had two safeties.

The game, which had been postponed from last week, was the only Legion contest scheduled yesterday.

In one of the more important games on tonight's schedule, the two undefeated teams in the South County League, Maplewood and Kirkwood, will meet in an 8:30 contest at Ballwin, Mo. Both teams have 2-0 records.

Short Waves

Arkansas, which grabbed JACK MITCHELL after he coached Wichita to its first Missouri Valley Conference football championship, hired another Wheat-shocker in CHARLES A. (AB) BIDWELL, 45. Bidwell, who will help to fill the loss of BILL PACE, scheduled for 21-month tour in the Army, will assist in football and coach the Razorback track team.

FRANK SEVIGNE resigned at Georgetown University to accept the post as track coach at Nebraska. CHARLES NOE, head basketball and baseball coach at Virginia Military Institute since 1952, has been appointed head basketball coach assistant in baseball at Virginia Tech.

The National A.A.U. Junior track and field championships probably won't be held this year for the fourth straight time, according to DAN FERRIS, A.A.U. secretary-treasurer. The meet is available to anyone who wants to bid for it, but so far no bids have been received.

The Central Missouri Ban Johnson League's all-star game will be played Wednesday night, July 6, at the park of the team winning the first half of the race. Jefferson City is leading thus far.

Madisonville's financially-stricken team decided to stay in the Kitty League after the Chicago White Sox offered to lend a helping hand to the Miners who earlier said they would drop out of the league because a lack of attendance had caused the club to suffer financially.

AL PAPAI, once the property of the Cardinals and Browns, boosted his won-loss record to 9 and 2 with Oklahoma City by posting an 8-2 decision over Beaumont in the Texas League. Beaumont will acquire GERALD MASON, Uni. of Southern California outfielder, recently signed by the parent Milwaukee club.

Cleveland announced the signing of FRED SWICK, an outfielder who set an all-time Rider College batting record this spring when he hit .473.

DAI DOWER, British Empire and European flyweight champion, scored a 10-round decision over ROBERT MOUGNOT of France in a bout at Cardiff, Wales.

Katie Key, last year's national trotting champion, was withdrawn from Thursday's $25,000 American Trotting championship race at Roosevelt Raceway because of a buristis condition which has not responded to treatment.

The James C. Ellis Park, formerly Dade Park, will hold its summer racing meeting Aug. 3 through Sept. 5.

Maxim Favors Archie Moore To Beat Olson

CLEVELAND, June 14 (UP)—Joey Maxim picked Archie Moore today to beat Bobo Olson on June 22. Joey fought both Maxim, who lost the light heavyweight crown to Moore on Dec. 17, 1952, said, "I like Moore to win the New York fight because he is a savage, belting son-of-a-gun. He hits a lot harder than Olson. He's always dangerous, and Bobo has nothing to keep him off."

After Cleveland Joey lost his crown on a decision to Moore. He tried twice to recapture it but dropped the verdict each time. In their last bout at Miami in January, 1954, Joey was floored twice and suffered a severe beating.

Maxim fought middleweight champion Olson but once, in a non-title 10-round bout at San Francisco last April 13. Olson floored him twice and gave him a thorough trouncing.

But Joey explained today, "sure Olson had me down twice, but each time I shook off the effects of his punches in a hurry. They didn't stay with me like Moore's punches. And I wasn't all bruised up like in each of the Moore fights."

Did Maxim believe 38-year-old Moore would have difficulty paring down from about 200 pounds to the required 175?

The ex-champ replied grimly, "the last time I fought Archie, the reports from his camp indicated he was having so much weight-making trouble, they might have to carry him into the ring. But they almost had to carry me out of the ring."

"Speed means nothing to Archie," he said. "He just keeps stalking you and banging away."

Trabert and Doris Hart No. 1 Seeded in Wimbledon Tourney

LONDON, June 14 (UP)—Tony Trabert, favorite for the Wimbledon Lawn Tennis championships, has sore fingers on his racket hand.

The Cincinnati, O., star, tuning up for next week's Wimbledon start by playing doubles with Vic Seixas in the current London grass court championships at Queen's Club, has been playing with protective tape around the tips of his racket fingers.

"The fingers are not blistered," Tony said. "But they are a little sore from my play in the French championships. They are no real trouble at the moment, but I'm playing safe by taping them to avoid further chafing."

"The taping does affect my grip slightly, but better that than having blistered fingers for Wimbledon."

Trabert was confirmed as favorite for the men's singles in the June 20-July 2 Wimbledon meet when the tournament's seeding committee gave him number one spot in their seeding list, published today.

It is the second successive year that the American has been given this No. 1 ranking. In last year's tourney he was eliminated in the semifinals by Australia's

Has a 75 For Second 18 Holes

By Robert Morrison

DES MOINES, June 14—Vince D'Antoni, the banana wholesaler from St. Louis, headed into the second qualifying round of the Trans-Mississippi amateur golf tournament today playing just as if he were back in college at Tulane University.

D'Antoni had a 75 for his second round, three over par for a 36-hole total of 149 which put him well up among the qualifiers and only one stroke off the early leader, Sarge Fontanini who had a 69 to go with his first round 78 for 147.

Jerry Stanford, another St. Louis entry who had 89 yesterday, withdrew.

D'Antoni, the 37-year-old golfer out of St. Louis's Old Watson Country Club, who won the intercollegiate tourney on the same Wakonda Club course in 1939, was near the top in the first round of qualifying yesterday.

D'Antoni, from a New Orleans family that has been in the banana business for generations, moved to St. Louis some five years ago because one of his four daughters needed training in a school for the blind.

He hasn't been a tournament player to any great extent since he got out of Tulane. He happened to win the St. Louis District tournament one hot year at Greenbriar, formerly his home club. But, counting on the fingers of one hand, he had played in only that district event and a couple of state tournaments and very little else since he was intercollegiate champion 16 years ago.

Further schooling at Harvard, a family insistence that he learn the banana business from the ground up in the tropics of Central America, five years in the Army during World War II, and subsequent responsibilities of his own didn't leave Vince too much time for a fellow who might have gone along with Freddie Haas and the other promising young golfers of his day.

So, when he returned to Wakonda this week, it was purely for "sentimental reasons," he said, and to accompany St. Louis's Jim Jackson, the Walker Cupper who is defending champion here and thus exempt from qualifying.

Sentiment quickly was translated into superior play when D'Antoni, enjoying a quick weather change from cold, fiftyish temperatures to a warm, windless day, shot the first qualifying round in 74.

That was just four strokes back of the first-round leader, unknown Walter Peek of New Rochelle, N.Y., a 29-year-old former Cornell U. golfer who probably was a bit over his head when he shot a two-under-par 70. He finished with three straight birdies.

It had been widely predicted that nobody would equal Wakonda's tough, hilly, par 72 for the two rounds of qualifying which will end today and send 63 players into match play along with Jackson.

But the change in the weather in late afternoon yesterday, when the winds died down, helped alter that picture.

Meanwhile Jackson made a practice tour in 75, in the course of which he was hitting the ball at times and putting badly, and then later doing just the opposite.

Jackson continued to rate as one of the top favorites for the title in the tournament. His 1954 runner-up, Rex Baxter Jr., of Amarillo, Tex., and former champion Jim English of Topeka and home club favorite Rodney Bliss, were other standouts.

Bliss, a 42-year-old six-time Nebraska State champion and recent Des Moines City title winner, shot 72 in the first qualifying round and was tied by George Clark, 21-year-old North Texas State College golfer who lives in Ottumwa, Ia.

There were seven players with 73, including English, and then tied for 11th place with Baxter and others was D'Antoni.

"Vince was playing well enough to have a 69," commented one of the members of his group.

Jackson has a 75. Ken Rosewall who, in turn, was beaten in the final by Jaroslav Drobný of Egypt.

Champion Drobný, suffering from a troublesome appendix and recurrent muscle strains, has been graded down to sixth place in the seedings.

Three Americans, three Australians, one Egyptian and one Swede were included in the list of eight men who will be placed in tomorrow's draw for the championships.

The seedings: 1. Tony Trabert, United States; 2. Ken Rosewall, Australia; 3. Vic Seixas, United States; 4. Lew Hoad, Australia; 5. Rex Hartwig, Australia; 6. Jaroslav Drobný, Egypt; 7. Budge Patty, United States; 8. Sven Davidson, Sweden.

The women's singles seeded are: 1. Doris Hart, United States; 2. Louise Brough, United States; 3. Mrs. Beverly Baker Fleitz, United States; 4. Miss Angela Mortimer, Britain; 5. Mrs. Dorothy Head Knode, United States; 6. Miss Darlene Hard, United States; 7. Miss Beryl Penrose, Australia; 8. Miss Angela Buxton, Britain.

Sizzling Preview of Blue Ribbon Golf Event

If practice scores mean anything, defending Champion Ed Furgol of St. Louis is in for a tough battle in the United States Open tournament at San Francisco this week. DR. CARY MIDDLECOFF, right, is shown as he tees off on a tour of the Olympic Club course in which he shot a par 70. BYRON NELSON, standing next to him, turned in a 71. LEW WORSHAM, left, and JOHN WINTERS, U.S.G.A. official, center, completed the foursome.

Sam Snead Batters Par in Practice for U.S. Open Golf

SAN FRANCISCO, June 14 (UP)—Sam Snead shattered the par invincibility myth at Olympic Club yesterday as he toured the layout in 68 to lead the warm-up sessions of nearly 100 professionals and amateurs.

Preparing for the start of the National Open play on Thursday, Snead shot six birdies on the fog-shrouded course and as late as the fourteenth hole was five under par. But he bogied 15, 16 and 17 to get back toward standard figures.

Sunday, Dick Mayer of St. Petersburg, Fla., toured the course in 66—four under par. The only men with real good rounds besides Snead were Dr. Cary Middlecoff with an even-par 70 and Byron Nelson with 71. Many of the stars, including Ben Hogan and the late-arriving defending champion Ed Furgol, played only a few holes.

Hogan spent most of his time practicing with his woods. "This tournament is going to be one off the tee," said Hogan in his usual terse, deadpan manner.

Hogan, incidentally, broke his putter on the practice green while attempting to straighten the shaft.

Veteran Johnny Bulla agreed with Hogan about the tee shots. Among the other practice rounds were 73s by Al Mengert and George Schnetler; 74s by Jerry Barber and Doug Ford; 75 by Arnold Palmer; 76 by Bud Holscher and 77s by Dow Fin-

Morrison and Johnson Pace Jaycee Golf

Bill Johnson, who topped off St. Louis's monopoly of last year's Junior Chamber of Commerce state golf tournament by taking the title, will have a chance to repeat as the result of his fine shooting in yesterday's County Jaycee qualifying at Crystal Lake. The state meet, a 36-hole medal play event for boys 17 and under at Marshall, Mo., will be tomorrow.

Johnson took medalist honors in the morning 18-hole elimination round by winning a one-hole playoff from Alan Morrison after they both shot 74s. Morrison was a stroke under Johnson, 39 to 40, in the afternoon's nine-hole round for the low 16, however, so the day's low total was 113 by the Lutheran High student. Johnson had 114.

Others who earned a trip to the state tournament are Ted Lange, 116, and Joe Duffy, 117. They will join four boys who qualified in the city last week. These are Jack Delahunt, Ray Meyer, Sid Salomon III and Charles Ziegler.

In last year's state meet, St. Louis golfers grabbed the first four places. Behind Johnson in order were Jim Remmert, Don Dupske and Larry Roper. The other three were above the age limit this season. Joe Duffy, St. Louis U. High student who qualified, also made the state meet last year, finishing thirteenth.

Presko Allows Only Four Hits, But Loses 3-2

OMAHA, June 14 (INS)—The Toledo Sox continued to whittle down the Minneapolis Millers' first place American Association lead with a 3 to 2 win over Omaha, while the Millers lost to Louisville, 8 to 6.

Toledo is now three full games behind the Millers and two and one-half ahead of third-place Omaha. The Sox managed to get their three markers off just four hits given up by two Cardinal moundsmen last night.

Joe Presko was tagged for the loss despite giving up the four hits—one of them a two-run double by Sammy Meeks in the fourth inning. Bob Clear finished for Presko. The Cardinals' two runs came in the sixth on a two-run homer by Mo Mozali.

Marty Keough was the difference in the Louisville victory against the Millers. Keough's two-run homer in the eighth broke a 6-6 deadlock.

Pitcher Don Bessent of Saint Paul provided the pitching and a lot of the hitting to whip Indianapolis, 9 to 1. Bessent limited the Indians to four hits and helped the scoring column with a two-run homer.

Charleston's one-game winning spree was snapped when Denver's Ralph Terry gave up only six hits. The Bears won, 6 to 3.

The U.S.G.A. said that in each case except that of Mangrum, an original qualifier had withdrawn and alternates from that section were named as a replacement.

Mangrum, who finished in a tie for third in the National Open last year, did not have to qualify. Therefore the place he vacated was allotted to the San Francisco area.

Robinson and Castellani to Meet July 15

SAN FRANCISCO, June 14 (UP)—Promoter Bennie Ford announced today that Sugar Ray Robinson and Rocky Castellani would meet in a middleweight elimination bout here on Friday, July 15.

Ford said that he had completed arrangements with Jim Norris, head of the International Boxing Club, for the 10-round battle.

"The winner will get a shot at Bobo Olson's world middleweight crown," said Ford.

Asked what would happen if Olson won the world light-heavyweight title from Archie Moore in New York June 22, Ford said: "The battle still would be for the middleweight title."

Reminded that under present National Boxing Association rules, Olson would relinquish his crown if he won the light-heavyweight title, Ford replied: "The bout still would be for the middleweight title. Rules are made to be amended."

The Robinson-Castellani bout will be nationally televised.

Mrs. Diefenbach Takes Golf Tourney Honors

Mrs. Roy Diefenbach was the winner of the championship flight of the annual tournament of the Women's Forest Park Golf club. Mrs. Hope Anderson was the runner-up.

Results in the other flights: A—Mrs. James Hannegan, winner, and Mrs. Viola Karides, runner-up; B—Miss Genna Mindell and Miss Rose Mueller; C—Miss Irene Zielman and Mrs. Bobby Hoskins.

Phils Sign Outfielder.

PHILADELPHIA, June 14 (UP)—The Philadelphia Phillies announced the signing of Chet Jakubowski, 20-year-old right-handed hitting outfielder from Brooklyn, N.Y. Jakubowski, a five-foot, 11-inch 190-pounder, was chosen on the New York Metropolitan college all-star team the past two seasons while playing for Brooklyn College. The Phils sent him to Pulaski, Va. of the Class D Appalachian League.

Ft. Wood Aces Set 3 Records In Army Meet

MANHATTAN, Kan., June 14 (AP)—Fort Leonard Wood, Mo., the defending champion, was in front with 35 points at the halfway mark in the Fifth Army track meet.

Fort Carson, Colo., had 31 points, Fort Riley, Kan., 31, while Fifth Army Headquarters of Chicago and Granite City, Ill., failed to score.

Three Fort Wood men broke records while two Fort Carson men broke another and tied one. Ted Wheeler of Fort Wood, former University of Iowa athlete, ran the three-mile race in 15:00.4, knocking 12 seconds off the old record. John Bennett, Fort Wood, formerly of Marquette, set a broad jump mark of 23-23.4. Willie Stevens, Fort Wood, formerly of Illinois University, did a 24-second job in the low hurdles, breaking his own record.

Vince Gattulo, Fort Carson, set a 16-pound hammer throw record of 155-7½ and his teammate, Frank Robinson, equalled the 100-yard dash record of 10.1 seconds.

11 Complete Games for Roberts.

Detroit's Lary Leads A.L. With 8

NEW YORK, June 14 (AP)—Reliable Robin Roberts of the Philadelphia Phils usually finishes what he starts—as his complete game pitching record for the past few seasons will attest.

The sturdy righthander has topped the National League in hurling complete games three straight years and he's doing it again this season. Roberts has started 14 games and has completed 11—most in the majors. During the 1954 campaign he pitched 29 complete games.

When Roberts takes the mound, the Phils' bullpen brigade doesn't figure to see action. He has gone the route his last seven starts, having won six times. The rest of the Philadelphia mound staff has accounted for only seven other complete efforts.

Towering Gene Conley of the Milwaukee Braves is runnerup to Roberts for National League complete game laurels with seven.

Frank Lary of the Detroit Tigers is the complete game leader in the American League with eight in 11 starts. The rookie righthander pitched for Buffalo of the International League in 1954 and went the distance 13 times.

Teammate Ned Garver and the New York Yankees' Bob Turley have produced seven route-going performances apiece to rank behind Lary.

Sparked by Lary, the Detroit pitching staff has accounted for the most complete games, 29—half as many as the Tigers' moundmen compiled in 1954. The Brooklyn Dodgers' pitchers head the National League with 21 complete games.

The leaders:

Moore Predicts DeMarco Will Regain Title 'In Year or Two'

By Jack Cuddy
SUMMIT, N. J., June 14 (UP)—Archie Moore, who will challenge officially tomorrow for the heavyweight crown, said today he believes young Tony DeMarco has the ability to recapture the welterweight title "in a year or two."

Thirty-eight-year-old Moore said 23-year-old DeMarco of Boston put up one of the grandest fights he ever saw, even though he lost the 147-pound championship Friday night to Carmen Basilio at Syracuse.

"That was a great fight," said the light heavyweight champion, who is training here for his title defense against middleweight ruler Bobo Olson on June 22. "I'm still tickled about it. I enjoyed it so much, and it was so good for boxing. Yeah, I saw it on television."

Moore, perhaps the shrewdest ring-general now in competition, explained that "only a Carmen Basilio could have beaten DeMarco Friday night—a Basilio who 'fought the fight of his life' at his physical peak. 'And he had sharpened for four months,' Archie stressed.

He continued, "DeMarco hasn't matured fully yet. But he showed remarkable ability Friday night. I was surprised, even though he was a champion. He made some mistakes because of lack of experience. He has the ability to get back the title—if he has the determination."

It takes genuine determination for a young fighter to come back to championship heights after being stopped in an important bout, said the mustachioed and goateed king of the 175-pounders.

Archie recalled the night in 1944 when he Williams was knocked out in the twelfth round at Philadelphia by Bob Montgomery.

"Ike wasn't just knocked out,"

Indian Farm Clubs Sign Three Players

CLEVELAND, June 14 (AP)—Cleveland Indian farm clubs have signed three players from the state of Washington and two from Cuba, the club announced today.

Kenneth Kane, a 19-year-old shortstop from Seattle, and John Kelly, 20, a right handed pitcher from Yakima, have been assigned to Yakima of the class B Northwest league.

Edmund Zander, an 18-year-old catcher from Yakima, has been assigned to Keokuk, Ia., of the class B Three-I league.

The Cubans are Andres Perelara, 21-year-old catcher, and Lazaro Rivero, 19, a right handed pitcher. Perelara was assigned to Vandalia, Ga., of the class D Georgia State league, and Rivero to Lafayette, Ind., of the class D Mississippi-Ohio Valley league.

Olympic Soccer Gets 28 Entries; U.S. Team Drawn Against Mexico

AMSTERDAM, June 14 (AP)—Twenty-eight countries have entered the 1956 Olympic soccer competition at Melbourne the Olympic committee of the International Football Federation (F.I.F.A.) announced yesterday.

Twenty-four of them will play preliminary rounds in their respective areas to qualify for the final round of 16 teams at Melbourne. Australia, the host country, and India, Siam and Poland, chosen by lot, were exempted from the preliminaries.

The United States was drawn against Mexico in the North American preliminary.

East Germany, though not now eligible for the Olympic games, was among the entrants. A decision of East Germany's eligibility is to be made by the International Olympic Committee at Paris this week.

A drawing for the preliminaries resulted in the following pairings:

Yugoslavia vs. Romania, Bulgaria vs. Britain, West Germany vs. Turkey, East Germany vs. Hungary, Soviet Union vs. Israel, Egypt vs. Ethiopia, United States vs. Mexico, Philippines vs. Communist China, Cambodia vs. Viet Nam, Iran vs. Afghanistan, Indonesia vs. Nationalist China, Korea vs. Japan.

These countries play one another twice on a home-and-home basis. The 12 winners will go to Melbourne.

Musial Takes Lead In All-Star Poll

CHICAGO, June 14 (AP)—Shortstop Ernie Banks of the Chicago Cubs jumped into first place of the all star baseball poll today moving ahead of Johnny Logan of the Milwaukee Braves. Banks topped Logan by 232 votes in one of two changes among the leaders.

Gus Zernial, Kansas City, passed Minnie Minoso of the Chicago White Sox in the race for left field in the American League. Zernial polled 3188 votes to 3006 for Minoso.

Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals overtook Ted Kluszewski of the Cincinnati Reds in the battle for the first base spot in the National League. Musial had 3417 votes to 3153 for the Cincinnati slugger.

Another change saw Cleveland's Bobby Avila move ahead of Nelson Fox of Chicago in the American League battle for second base. Avila polled 3221 votes and Fox had 3147.

West. Michigan Gains 3d Win In Title Meet

OMAHA, June 14 (AP)—The baseball should really be buzzing around the premises today in the N.C.A.A. college world series fourth round as unbeaten Western Michigan (3-0) tangles again with Wake Forest (2-1) and Arizona's Wildcats (2-1) meet the Oklahoma Aggies (2-1).

It's win or head for the show-ers permanently for Wake Forest, the Wildcats and the Aggies. Western Michigan could lose and still be around.

If Western Michigan wins then it's the Broncos against the Wildcat-Aggie winner for the championship Wednesday night.

Arizona and the Aggies entered the tourney as the two top-rated teams. Both have been beaten by Western Michigan. Arizona appears a bit the best off today as they have Ace Pitcher Don Lee set to start against the Aggies, while Oklahoma is expected to start a second line pitcher with Aces Tom Borland and Ken Kinnaman ready to rush in.

Western Michigan likewise seems better off in pitching than does Wake Forest.

Bases on balls and boots were plentiful yesterday as Colgate and Colorado State bowed out and Wake Forest took a first defeat.

Oklahoma A. and M. scored three of four runs without a hit as Colgate was nipped, 4-2. Then Colorado State pitchers walked 14 Arizona batters and State fielders made nine errors in a 20-0 Wildcat romp. That game saw the series' first home run—a 350 foot blast by Pitcher Ben Rincon.

Wotawa-Vaughn Pair Wins Sunset Tourney

Former major league baseball star Joe Medwick was among the low scorers in the mixed two-ball foursome tournament at Sunset Country Club. Medwick and his partner, Mrs. V. Lillard, shot a combined 84 which tied them with two other pairs for runner-up honors.

Winners of the event in which 100 golfers competed, were Mrs. W. J. Wotawa and Mr. W. J. Vaughn, who scored an 81.

The other pairs tied for second were Mrs. R. Hayes and partner C. Schaum, and Mrs. H. Vahle with D. Stewart.

Low net honors, at 72, were shared by four pairs, as follows: Mrs. G. Howe and L. Luth, Mrs. J. A. Peterson and V. E. Carmichael, Mrs. H. C. Lutz and E. Whitbread, Mrs. M. Fitzgerald and A. P. Broderick.

Agganis to Be Out Longer Than Expected

BOSTON, June 14 (AP)—Boston Red Sox First Baseman Harry Agganis, recuperating from his second attack of virus pneumonia since May 16, will be out of action longer than expected.

Dr. Eugene E. O'Neil said yesterday that Agganis's condition is improving "but there is no indication as to when he'll be ready to leave the hospital."

"Right now we're concentrating on keeping him as quiet as possible," Dr. O'Neil said. "He has been up a few times, but not for any length of time."

Agganis, who has a .313 average, flew home from Kansas City and entered Santa Maria Hospital June 5. Hospitalized for more than a week with virus pneumonia in the right lung last month, he returned to action and suffered an attack in the left lung.

Three-Man Bowling Team Sets New Mark

The recent cool spell brought out some hot shooting in summer bowling. Last night the D.C.K. team, rolling on the Arcade lanes, shot a three-man total of 747 for a new high in the nation. The old record was 738.

At the same time in the Monday Night Scratch League the Gibbies bowled the second high in the nation, 2039, beating the former runner-up mark of 2015. The team was composed of Bob Schulte (210, 223, 258), Peg Frisch (253, 212, 210) and Gib Fischbach (254, 190, 229).

Vince Anello of the F. A. B. team rolled a 290 game, high single for the evening.

Wild and Woolly.

There were 16 bases on balls and six hit batsmen in the Fouke's 10-5 victory over the Western team in an Industrial League baseball game, the replay of an earlier contest which ended in an 8-8 tie. Winning pitcher Bill Dugan accounted for four of the Fouke's six hits, getting two singles, a triple and a home run in the seven-inning affair.

French Government Halts Auto Racing

PARIS, June 14 (UP)—The government last night ordered a halt to all auto racing in France in a swift move following the tragic death of 79 persons in an accident at the Le Mans 24-hour race.

A government spokesman said the ban will stay in effect until new international rules can be drawn up.

He said the government plans to make some suggestions about new rules to International Motor Racing authorities.

The decision to bar car racing immediately was taken at a Cabinet meeting. Before the Cabinet session began Public Works Minister Gen. Edouard Cornilhon-Molinier said he would recommend a study of rules changes.

The Cabinet session was called to study the harrowing Le Mans race disaster, the worse in the history of motor racing.

Cubs Obtain Friend From Louisville Club

CHICAGO, June 14 (UP)—The Chicago Cubs announced the purchase of utility infielder

Owen Friend from Louisville of the American Association. Friend, 28 years old, has hit .156 in 23 games with Louisville, after opening the season with the Boston Red Sox and batting .202 in 14 games.

The Cubs said Friend was needed in a utility role because of the shift of former infielder Eddie Miksis to the outfield.

Indians' Farm Hand Wins.
YAKIMA, Wash., June 14 (UP)—Don Rabung, a young pitcher signed last week by the Cleveland Indians, made his professional debut when he led the Yakima Bears to a 5-4 victory over Spokane in a Northwest League game. Rabung struck out three, walked one and gave up seven hits.

REPORTS SELLING U.S. PLANTS AT $10,000,000 GAIN

Presidential Commission Gives Figures on Disposal of Synthetic Rubber Setup.

WASHINGTON, June 14 (AP)—The presidential commission appointed to dispose of the Government's war-built synthetic rubber monopoly has said it sold Government holdings to private industry for some $10,000,000 more than the taxpayers put into them.

This was related in a report to Congress yesterday by the Rubber Producing Facilities Disposal Commission, headed by Chicago Banker Holman D. Petebone. The over-all report was occasioned by the previously announced sale of the Government's synthetic rubber plant at Baytown, Tex., one of the final three unsold facilities.

The commission told Congress that sale of the Baytown plant to United Carbide Co. for $7,153,000 brought the total from the sale of 25 synthetic rubber plants to $270,796,000.

The commission said taxpayers were out of pocket $128,088,000 net construction costs for the 27 artificial rubber plants rushed into being during World War II. In addition, it said, operating and non-operating deficits amounting to $132,700,000 raised total net costs to the taxpayer to $260,788,000.

Thus, sale of 25 of the 27 plants for $270,000,000 represented recovery of some $10,000,000 more than net cost.

In addition, the report said: 1. The Government is also receiving from plant buyers about $145,000,000 for inventories, spare parts, plant additions, and other cash arising from liquidation of the synthetic rubber producing system.

2. The Government still owns two plants, a laboratory, and some miscellaneous equipment with an estimated net value of $13,435,000.

In addition to the sale price for the Baytown plant, the Government received $1,491,000 for inventories and plant additions. That brought total receipts in the transaction to $8,644,000.

On this basis—receipts from sale of the plants plus sale of inventories and other items—the disposal program has brought into the treasury a return of approximately $415,000,000 in cash or pledged future payments.

and go in shooting. French officers privately insist he did and the Colonel acknowledges his support of the position taken by the government.

In this kind of atmosphere, there is little meaning to the promise of "co-operation" between the French and the Americans as published by Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and Premier Faure of France after their conference in Paris. The two sides are not co-operating except in the starchy upper reaches of the high command. On the working level, they are fighting each other.

The United States Information Agency here is openly pro-French and anti-French, while the French supervised newspaper and information service here are conducting an unrelenting anti-American campaign. On both sides there seems a glaring lack of a boss who can enforce his orders all down the line.

Gen. Collins has returned to the United States, evidently somewhat at cross purposes with the State Department, which did not heed his recommendations for trimming all-out support for Diem, and favoring more careful examination of the French position.

Gen. Ely, clearly beaten by the combination of American and Viet Nam operators, has asked to be relieved of his assignment. Their successors may find ways of improving "co-operation," but they first will have to have an agreement on policy at high levels, lacking now, and authority to see that the policy is carried out on the lower levels. At present, the two countries are far from either goal.

fiction publications, one of the pioneers in the field, and himself wrote extensively, in English.

Active During German Blitz.
In London, Menon was elected to the borough council of St. Pancras, and worked actively during the German blitz of London as a civil defense official—while continuing to denounce British policy in India, day and night. He was a member of the British Labor party and might have been elected to Parliament.

School Board Upholds Senior Critical of Extreme Patriotism

Illinois Group Decides Valedictorian's Remarks Were Within Limits of Free Speech.

DUNDEE, Ill., June 14 (UP)—The Dundee school board last night backed up a valedictorian's right to criticize extreme patriotism and urge world federalism in his valedictorian speech.

The class night speech given by Willard Miller last May 26 had been criticized as "un-American" by the mother of a graduating student.

The mother, Mrs. Benjamin Covert, walked out on the speech and was quoted by School Board President Clark Melms as saying the address was "Communist and Red all the way through."

But the school board decided last night that Miller had a right to express his own opinion and it was not the faculty's duty to impose censorship unless his speech "transcends the recognized limits of freedom of speech."

"The speech did not transcend those limits," the board decided.

Three hundred persons, including Mrs. Covert and young Miller, attended the meeting.

Mrs. Covert, who earlier had accused the school board of maladministration, didn't repeat her charges. But another school district resident, James Condon, got up to say "the faculty should have strongly discouraged such a speech."

The boy who touched off the controversy was described as the "brightest" member of his graduating class. His valedictorian speech included statements that:

Excessive patriotism has been he was nominated, but resigned because he felt the Labor party was not going far enough on the issue of Indian independence.

Menon first met Nehru in India, but in London. The two men got on well from the beginning, and when India became a Commonwealth country, Menon was named the first High Commissioner in London.

He now serves as chairman of the Indian delegation in the United Nations, from time to time, and is a member of the Indian parliament, in New Delhi.

Reportedly, Nehru long has wanted Menon as a member of his cabinet, but Menon is politically unacceptable to other Indian leaders, so his real functions remain outside the framework of government. Menon achieves his greatest influence solely because of the great confidence that Nehru places in him.

Thus he remains the non-conforming intellectual of his London days. Significantly, when he was named High Commissioner in London he refused to move from his cheap flat to the more sumptuous residence provided for the High Commissioner.

Makes Cutting Phrases.
Nor has he ever given up his preference for the company of liberal intellectuals—though he often disagrees with the writers for the British weekly, "The New Statesman and Nation," as with almost everyone else. He has never abandoned his habit of making phrases with cutting edges—a dubious occupation for a diplomat. The most that can be said is that Menon's phrases can cut both ways.

When an American voiced doubts that the "one world" idea had any real meaning, Menon replied: "Do you know how to escape this planet?"

But he is equally impatient of the Communist catch-word, "co-existence." It is, he said, merely, "a stilted expression for something the world has always known."

When V. K. Krishna Menon started out on his present peace mission, the Times, of London, obviously reflecting an official British view, commented in a vein which may sound surprising in today's Washington:

"Mr. Menon," said the Times, "was probably the best person to send to Peking. . . Mr. Menon's most valuable qualification in Mr. Nehru's eyes at the moment when he left Delhi on his mission was perhaps the skill which he shows in interpreting American motives and intentions to highly critical Asian leaders."

"While he does not attempt to defend American policy in detail—for example, over Formosa—Mr. Menon has become a convinced exponent of the good will of the American people, of their earnest desire for peace, and of the benevolent use which they are trying to make of their immense power and resources."

NEW... Duncan Hines Chocolate Angel Food Mix chocolate-rich and angel-light

DUNCAN HINES
America's Foremost Authority on Good Eating

Duncan Hines says: "Now the folks in your family who love chocolate, and those who like the delicacy of Angel Food, can enjoy them both in one wonderful cake—and you can make it from a mix!"

"There has never been anything like my new Chocolate Angel Food Mix. It's made with the rich chocolate that has made my Devil's Food cake such a great favorite. And it's as easy to use as regular Angel Food Mix—no chocolate to melt, no cocoa to measure and mix in, nothing to add but water.

"Best of all, it gives you the wonderfully high, light, moist kind of Angel Food that women who are old hands at it still say is tricky to make from scratch. Even if you've never baked an Angel Food cake before, you'll bake a perfect one with my new mix—deliciously chocolate-flavored, and a real adventure in good eating!"

Nothing tricky about it... mix in one bowl

There's no danger of overbeating—and because Duncan Hines' package of special egg whites makes a big quantity, use a big bowl and beat (with  $1\frac{1}{4}$  cups water) until they stand in stiff, high, fluffy peaks.

The rich chocolate-y cocoa is already blended into the mix—all you do is fold it into the beaten egg whites.

Because the cake rises high above the pan, bake on your lowest oven rack for the full time specified. It comes out high, light, with a delicious macaroon crust.

Wouldn't you rather use a cake mix made from Duncan Hines' own recipe?

Brazil, Spending Like a Drunk, Sliding Merrily Into Bankruptcy

Income From Coffee Drops While Outlay for Petroleum and Luxury Items Keeps Rising.

By EDWIN A. LAHEY
The Chicago Daily News-Post-Dispatch Special Radio Copyright, 1955.
RIO DE JANEIRO, June 14—The largest and most populous republic in Latin America is sliding merrily along into bankruptcy.

Brazil is living like a horse player or a drunk with a long line of credit, spending more than it takes in. Its commitments abroad are about $50,000,000 per month, and its income from abroad is somewhere between $30,000,000 and $40,000,000.

Because of a quaint Latin American custom of operating government like a secret society, the 55,000,000 citizens of Brazil are unaware of the facts about their spending binge.

All they know for sure is that they are in the swirl of an inflation in which the rich get richer and the poor get poorer, an inflation which has sent the cost of living up 100 per cent in the last five years.

Coffee is the primary source of foreign exchange for Brazil. Petroleum imports take the biggest chunk out of Brazil's foreign exchange.

Income from coffee falters. The outlay for petroleum and for luxury items keeps going up.

Go to the Pawnshops. Brazil thus has to go every now and then to the pawnshops, which are located in New York and Washington.

At the end of World War II, Brazil had piled up liquid assets of about $2,000,000,000. This saving has been virtually wiped out in a decade of over-spending.

Brazil is an old and good friend of the United States, and the political and economic stability of this country is a prime American interest.

But United States officials show no sign of panic about Brazil's future.

Their first reason for calmness is the potential wealth of this country which is incalculable.

Secondly, United States financial experts believe that Brazil can pull itself out of the present financial crisis if the price of coffee is stabilized, and the Brazilian government does some belt tightening, to make its expenditures conform more closely to expected revenue.

U. S. Approval Sought. Strong efforts are being made on an international level to give some stability to the price of coffee, at a level that will meet with consumer approval in the United States.

Self-discipline by the Brazilian government is a little more hazy as an immediate prospect. The present government of President Joao Cafe Filho, who took over when President Getulio Vargas resigned and killed himself last summer, has made some efforts to tighten credit regulations, and narrow the gap between expenses and revenue from abroad.

But this problem cannot be firmly addressed until the presidential campaign now under way is over in October, and a new government installed in January.

This presidential campaign is such a mixed up affair that not even the best informed Brazilians will venture a guess as to the complexion of the nation's next government.

Has Credit in U. S. Meanwhile, Brazil still is well connected in the United States, where it has a very wide cuff.

Brazil borrowed $300,000,000 from the export-import bank in Washington early in 1953, to pay bills in New York for merchandise it had bought on credit. The consumer revolt against the high price of coffee destroyed Brazil's chance of getting some quick money to pay this loan, and the terms had to be extended from two years to six years in September 1954.

At the same time the Bank of Brazil borrowed $160,000,000 from the Federal Reserve Board on 90-day terms to meet pressing obligations.

When this tab came due, Brazil had to borrow $200,000,000 in December from a New York banking syndicate. To get this loan it hocked $200,000,000 of its $314,000,000 worth of gold left in New York. In February of this year Brazil had to run again to the export-import bank for another credit.

$75,000,000 line of credit to pay its bills in New York. By the end of May, Brazil had already used up $45,000,000 of this credit.

OFFICER SHOTS YOUTH TRYING TO ESCAPE ARREST

Burglary Suspect Hit in Legs — Companion
Flees as Patrolman
Tries to Summon Aid.

A youth who said he was Booker Shaw, 2500 block of Cora avenue, was shot twice in the legs last night when he attempted to escape from an officer who had arrested him as a burglary suspect, police reported.

Patrolman William Schultz of the Deer Street District said he saw Shaw and a companion, both carrying bundles, walk south in Taylor avenue from St. Louis avenue just after he had heard the crash of glass nearby.

"He stopped the youths and found they had quantities of cigarettes, candy and meat. Placing them under arrest, Schultz said, he took them to a call box at the corner of St. Louis and Taylor to summon aid. Then the pair pushed him and broke away, each going a different direction, he reported.

Schultz said he followed Shaw, a Negro, ordered him to halt and fired a warning shot in the air. When the youth ran on, the officer reported, he fired two shots at him, one striking him in each leg.

Shaw was taken to Homer G. Phillips Hospital in serious condition. He denied knowledge of any crime and said he did not know the other youth, also a Negro, who escaped, police said.

"However, they said some of the goods dropped by the youths when they ran were identified as taken from a grocery at 4472 St. Louis, which had been broken into. Shaw was booked suspected of burglary.

Patrolman Adam Hechler of the Carondelet district fired two warning shots early today when two young Negroes fled from an automobile they were rifling in the 200 block of Bowen street, as he approached. One of the men surrendered. The other was arrested later. They were booked suspected of larceny from a motor vehicle.

Shaw was taken to Homer G. Phillips Hospital in serious condition. He denied knowledge of any crime and said he did not know the other youth, also a Negro, who escaped, police said.

"However, they said some of the goods dropped by the youths when they ran were identified as taken from a grocery at 4472 St. Louis, which had been broken into. Shaw was booked suspected of burglary.

Want to watch the gas pumps go by?

It's The Hardtop with Four Doors!

Another big reason for Buick's soaring sales is the 4-Door Wildcat—the new car in hardtops that's taking the country by storm. The "Convertible" look, with no center posts—but with separate doors for rear passengers. Shown here in the low-priced SPECIAL model—also available in the high-powered CENTURY Series. Both now in volume production to insure prompt deliveries.

ANY airline pilot will tell you that one big reason for the modern plane's greatly increased cruising range aloft is the variable pitch propeller.

To get off the ground, of course, the pilot needs plenty of acceleration, for take-off and climb. So his propellers must "bite" into air at a certain angle for utmost performance.

But once the plane is at cruising altitude, great power acceleration is no longer needed—fuel efficiency is. So the pilot switches the pitch of his propeller blades to high-economy angle—and gets a lot more mileage from the fuel in his tanks.

That's why Buick's new Variable Pitch Dynaflo® is such a sensation across the nation.

For the same aviation principle that brings this two-way magic to the modern plane is now found in the twenty propeller-like blades whirling in oil inside the Dynaflo unit.

Just by pressing the gas pedal way down, you switch the pitch and get instantaneous getaway response or safety-surge acceleration.

Just by easing up on the pedal, you change the pitch to high-economy angle—and get new and better gasoline mileage in all your normal driving and cruising.

It's a spectacular and sensible achievement—this new Dynaflo Drive—a brand-new thrill and a brand-new thriftiness.

And with it goes the might of record-high V8 power—and the level luxury of Buick's all-coil-spring ride—and the spacious roominess of Buick's broad interiors—and the host of other advanced features that add to Buick's brimming value.

Come in and try what is very definitely the performance thrill of the year—and see for yourself why Buick sales are soaring to all-time best-seller highs.

*Dynaflo Drive is standard on Roadmaster, optional at extra cost on other Series.

COOL COMFORT FOR HOT WEATHER DRIVING WITH

Buick's Airconditioner

Karsten Requests House Hearing On Flood Control Plan Here

He Asks Committee to Let Navigation Witnesses Testify on Project Approved by St. Louisans.

By JAMES DEAKIN
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, June 14 — Representative Frank M. Karsten (Dem., St. Louis), asked a House subcommittee today to hold hearings next week on the proposed $120,427,000 flood control project for St. Louis.

Karsten said the subcommittee on Rivers and Harbors has tentatively scheduled hearings next week on navigation projects at New Orleans and on the Great Lakes. Officers of the Mississippi Valley Association plan to testify on these projects, he added.

Karsten said he asked the subcommittee to allow the same witnesses to testify on behalf of the St. Louis project in order to save time. If the request is granted, city officials and civic leaders from St. Louis have indicated they will come to Washington, he said.

Fund Approved by Voters.

St. Louis voters recently approved expenditure of $7,547,000 as the city's share of the flood control program. The proposition was included in a $110,639,000 bond issue passed by large majorities.

Under the bond issue proposal, none of the city's bonds for flood control would be issued unless and until federal funds were assured. The project, approved by the Army Corps of Engineers, is now under study by the Budget Bureau.

Karsten said the Budget Bureau's report is expected within a week or 10 days, after which the project will come before the House subcommittee. Authorization bills for the project are pending in both the Senate and House.

Need Shown in Vote.

Approval of the bond issue proposal "demonstrates clearly how conscious the people are of the need for early action," Karsten said in a letter requesting the hearing. Testimony taken at that time would be available later to the full Public Works Committee when it considers the authorization bills, he pointed out.

The flood control project,

LANZA MUST FOOT BILL FOR DAMAGE TO RENTED HOME

SANTA MONICA, Calif., June 14 (AP)—Mario Lanza, by court order, will have to pay $40,361.66 for damages to a $200,000 Beverly Hills house which he leased for 28 months.

Superior Court awarded that amount to Mr. and Mrs. Norman Kaiser yesterday. They own the mansion which the singer and his family rented prior to last January. The judgment was entered by default when Lanza failed to appear in court.

Mrs. Kaiser said at the end of the $1250-a-month lease she found her home and grounds littered with "debris, dirt, filth and desecration."

Kaiser was known in silent films as Norman Kerry.

CONVICTION OF CARL HUNT AS A 'FENCE' IS SET ASIDE

Special to the Post-Dispatch
JEFFERSON CITY, June 14—The conviction of Carl Lee Hunt of St. Louis on a charge of buying and selling stolen goods was set aside yesterday by the Missouri Supreme Court. A new trial was ordered.

The court said evidence was introduced in error at his trial in St. Louis Circuit Court. He had been sentenced to two years in the state penitentiary. Hunt is serving a 15-year federal prison sentence imposed last December when he was convicted of aiding in the $40,174 robbery of the Bank of Pevely, Mo.

The Supreme Court affirmed the convictions and prison sentences of two other St. Louisans, both tried in Circuit Court there. They are Robert E. Burns, sentenced to five years for armed robbery, and Sol Newstead, who received two years for using a false name and address in obtaining narcotics.

6000 BEES REACH U.S. FOR TRAINING EXPERIMENT

NEW YORK, June 14 (AP)—Five thousand French bees rode into New York on an airliner today and were whisked off to the Museum of Natural History for an international experiment.

The idea is to see if the bees can tell time. They have been conditioned to emerge from their hive between 8:30 and 10:30 p.m. daily to get a meal of sugar water.

A duplicate of their former surroundings has been set up at the museum here. The problem is to see if they will emerge from their hive at their usual feeding time.

Earthquake in California.
EL CENTRO, Calif., June 14 (UP)—A sharp earthquake jolted this Imperial Valley community at about 3:47 a.m. today.

DEMOCRATS URGE CONVENTION VOTES BE SPEEDED FOR TV

WASHINGTON, June 14 (UP)—Democratic leaders recommended today that voting at the party's 1956 convention be speeded up to keep television watchers from clicking their sets in exasperation.

An 82-member advisory committee proposed specifically that the televiewer be spared from watching the tedious process of polling state delegations. That is the time-consuming procedure where there is a demand for each member of the delegation to announce his vote individually rather than having the total vote announced by the delegation chairman.

The advisory committee proposed that the convention chairman be allowed to send a representative to the delegation to take the poll rather than conduct it himself during a roll call of states. The roll call then could continue while the delegation was being polled.

The committee rejected a proposal that the nose-counting be done off the convention floor. It said the wholesale departure and return of delegates would only result in "noise and confusion."

PLEADS GUILTY IN NARCOTICS CASE, GIVEN 13-YEAR TERM

Irvin Bartlett was sentenced to 13 years in prison yesterday by United States District Judge Roy W. Harper after he pleaded guilty of violating the federal narcotics law. The sentence was one year more than he had received following an earlier guilty plea, set aside at his own request.

On May 6, Bartlett, a Negro, who lives in the 5100 block of Ridge avenue pleaded guilty of selling heroin and possessing marijuana. A week later, he told the judge he had thought he was admitting only possessing marijuana, saying he had never sold narcotics.

Judge Harper set the plea aside and ordered yesterday's trial. After a Government narcotics agent testified to two heroin purchases from the defendant, Bartlett withdrew his not guilty plea and again pleaded guilty of two charges of selling heroin and one of possessing marijuana. Judge Harper told Bartlett he was adding a year to the original sentence because he had lied in retracting his first guilty plea.

Look! Mercury gives you four big reasons for buying during June

1. WE'RE OUT TO SET NEW RECORDS

Mercury sales are breaking all records. More and more people who want big-car beauty and performance have joined the swing to the future-styled, super-powered new Mercury. We're going all out to keep the ball rolling and make June the biggest sales month in Mercury history. We mean business—and this month we're really dealing.

2. HIGH TRADE-IN ALLOWANCES

for your present car. Because we're selling Mercurys at a record-breaking pace, we can offer you the top trade-in allowance for your car. And during June, we're being extra generous.

3. LOW PRICE TAG

Mercury prices start below 13 models in the low-price field.* And with our special June trade-in allowances, the price actually becomes lower. Remember: you get all of Mercury's "big car value" at this low, low price. During June we'll make it really easy for you to own a Mercury.

*Based on comparison of manufacturers' suggested list or factory retail prices, using Mercury Custom 8-door Sedan (not illustrated).

4. EASY TERMS

As part of this special June deal, your Mercury dealer will handle all the necessary arrangements to get you the easiest possible terms—terms measured to fit your budget.

NO OTHER CAR OFFERS YOU BIGGER REASONS FOR BUYING IT

- Exclusive styling shared by no other car
- New SUPER-TORQUE V-8 engines on every model (188 and 198 horsepower)—backed by Mercury's record of producing V-8 engines exclusively
- 4-barrel vacuum carburetor on every model at no extra cost
- Dual exhausts at no extra cost on all Montclairs and Montneys
- Ball-joint front wheel suspension
- Anti-fouling high-compression spark plugs
- Consistently highest resale value in its field according to authoritative reports

TAKE ONE TASTE

to discover how terrific natural sliced Swiss cheese can be!

At no extra cost Kraft gives you real heart-of-the-cheese goodness

Swiss cheese fanciers know that the very best part of a huge natural Swiss cheese is always the center. Sometimes you even pay extra for those center cuts.

But now Kraft Natural Swiss brings you all of that special heart-of-the-cheese goodness at no extra cost. The same goodness every time. And in neat slices that keep beautifully.

Here's Swiss with all the rich, nut-like goodness that has made this kind of cheese the traditional partner of beverages.

Cat on a Rough Stucco Wall

Brunty hooks the claws of one paw on the screen and hangs on to the window sill with another paw.

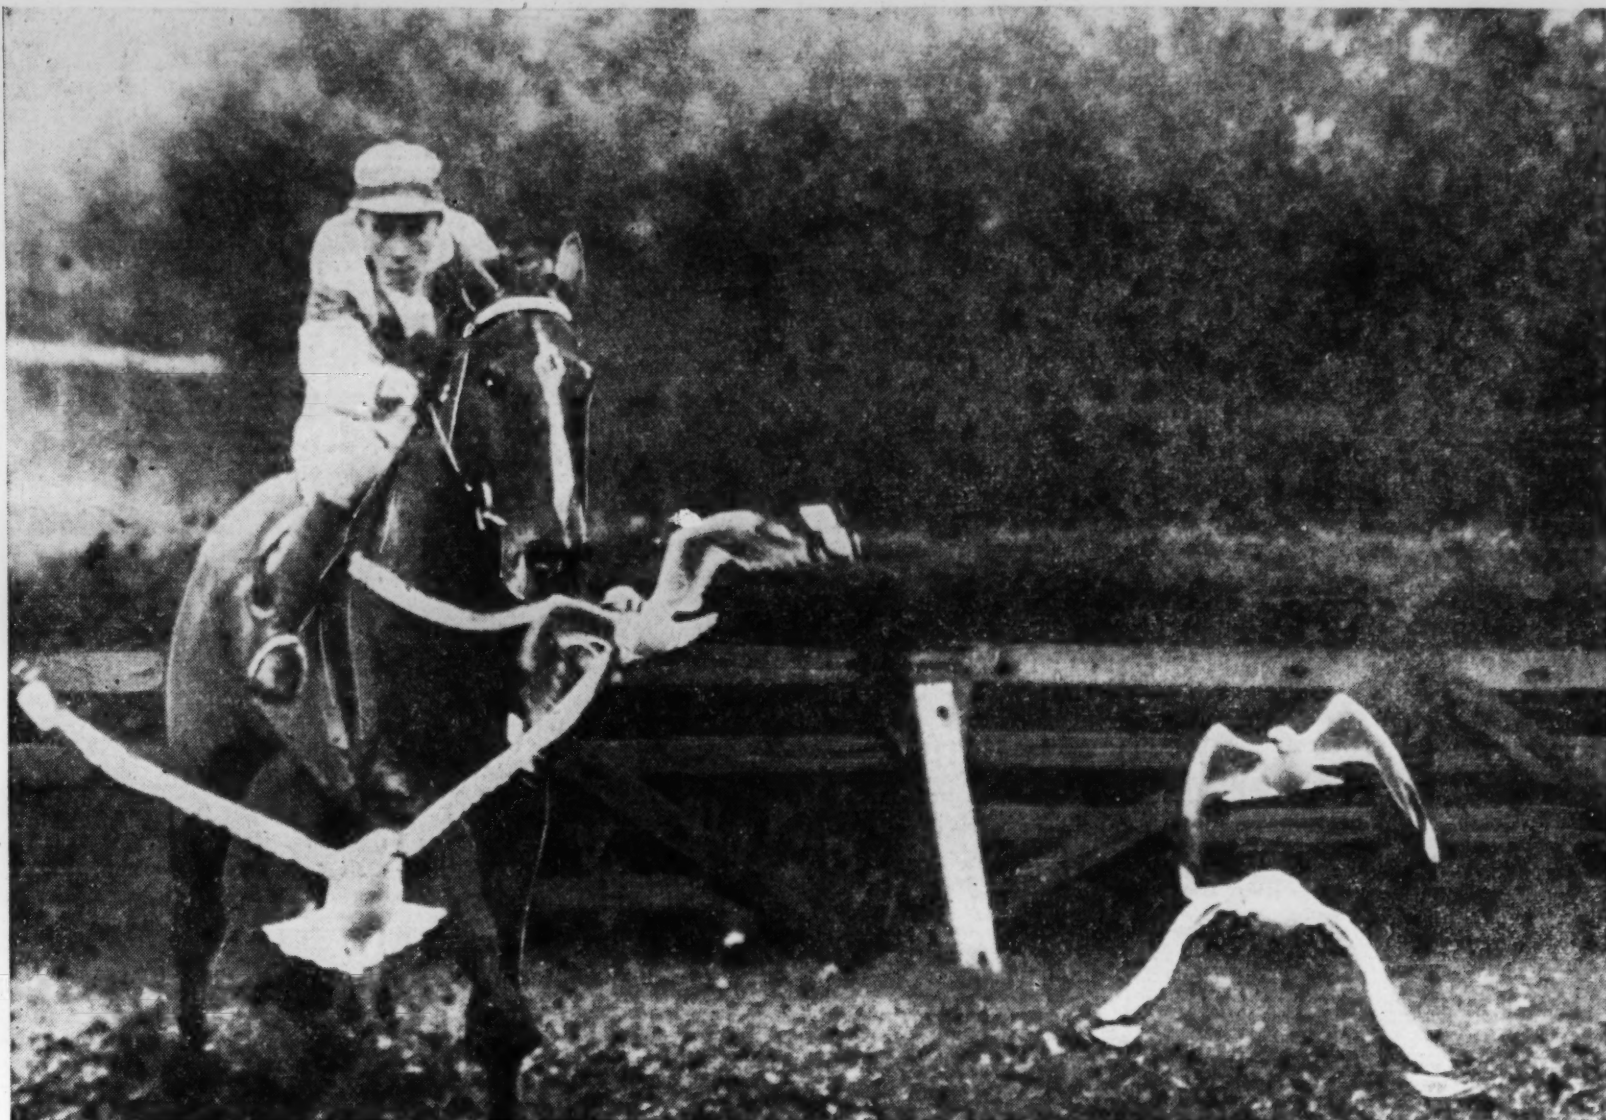

Brunty pulls screen open and sticks head inside.

With a last heave, the cat pulls itself inside the house. To get out, Brunty just pushes the screen open and jumps. The cat worked the whole process out by itself, without any coaching.

STEEPLECHASING SEAGULLS

Seagulls sweeping over a New Zealand race course seem to be setting the pace as Hit Parade and his rider clear a fence in a steeplechase event. The birds might have brought the horse bad luck. Hit Parade fell at the last jump when leading the field.

PICKET ON WHEELS

Fellow pickets are amused as Dory Davis skates along picket line outside the General Motors plant at Grand Rapids, Mich. The girl adopted novel picketing method as about 1000 workers went on strike yesterday over local grievances not related to the contract negotiated between General Motors and the UAW.

PLANE AND AUTO COLLIDE

Wreckage of a light aircraft and an automobile following a collision at a suburban Minneapolis airport yesterday. The plane was only 10 feet off the ground when it swerved, bounced along the ground, tore down a fence and smashed into the parked car. Two men in the plane and four persons in the car escaped serious injury.

FLASH FLOOD IN LAS VEGAS

Cars plowing through deep water in Las Vegas, Nev., last night after violent rainstorms blacked out the city. A wall of water flowed down from the surrounding mountains, flooding scores of homes and stores, causing damage expected to exceed $100,000. Hundreds of automobiles were stalled in water which swirled a foot deep on main streets.

Humorist Returns

James Thurber's Paris-
Is One of Sounds

By Art Buchwald

PARIS.

JAMES THURBER is in Paris for a few weeks. It is not the first time he has been here. "The first time," he said, "was in 1919. I was a code clerk in Washington at the time, when we received an urgent message that 12 code clerks were needed by President Wilson at the Versailles Peace Conference. What they really wanted were 12 code books, but somebody got the message mixed up. Twelve of us were dispatched immediately, but nobody knew what to do with us, so we had a pretty soft life.

"I returned again in 1925 with my first wife. I had to borrow money on my passage and after I went through $200 I finally got a job on the Chicago Tribune's Paris edition.

"I tried the Paris Herald first, but there weren't any jobs available. When I applied at the Tribune the editor said: 'What are you, a painter, a novelist, an artist, an etcher or a sculptor?' I said I was a newspaper man and this surprised him so much he hired me. I wrote heads, reported tennis, and at one time I was the Polish expert of the paper."

"The Polish expert?"

"Yes. We sold some Polish tourist advertising and naturally someone had to write news stories about the country. I think the ads lasted six weeks. At least I didn't have to write much about Poland after that.

"I STAYED UNTIL 1927, when I went back to New York. There was a lot of talk at the time about The New Yorker and I decided I wanted to work for it. I went back and after 20 rejection slips I finally made it.

"The next time I came to Paris was in 1937, with my present wife. I had sold an exhibition of paintings in London and it gave me enough money to live here for a year and a half. We first lived in a very nice hotel on the Right Bank and then we had to move to a slightly beaten down one on the Left Bank."

"Why? Did you run out of money?"

"Not exactly. But you know how wives are. In New York your second wife wants to stay in as good a hotel as the first wife, and in Paris your second wife wants to stay in as bad a hotel as your first wife. In this way your first wife will never be able to say to your second wife that 'she didn't see the real Paris.'

"We lived all over in that period, from Nice to Paris to London. I remember Harold Ross, the editor of The New Yorker, coming over to visit us. When I showed him Notre Dame he said: 'It looks pretty good. Do you think they ever sandblasted it?' He didn't want to go to the Louvre because he said there are only three things worth seeing in it, and he'd already seen the reproductions."

"THIS IS THURBER'S fourth trip to Paris. This time he's staying at a plush Right Bank hotel, since, he said, 'I'm still married to my second wife.'

The writer-cartoonist told us he planned to spend the summer in Europe. One of his projects is to write an article on the Loch Ness monster. It will be called: 'There's Something Out There.'

"No one in America has ever done a good roundup on the monster," he said.

"Are you taking sides for or against the monster?"

"No," he replied. "As an American I have to stay on the sidelines. I'm going there with an open mind. It would be nice if we could see it. I can't see any more, but I could hear it. And if my wife sees it I'll take her word for it. Her people come from that part of the world, so she would not lie."

Thurber said he would also do some research on the English bloodhound. "It is the most misunderstood individual since Richard III," he said.

"IN DISCUSSING PARIS, Thurber said his sight was fading and he had to hear Paris instead of seeing it. 'How does it sound?'

"It sounds like Columbus, O., without automobile horns," he said. "There are many disadvantages to losing your sight. You see shapes and forms that are made by retinal images. For a long time I saw a blue spot which was for some reason a vision of the head and shoulders of Herbert Hoover. My eyesight has gotten worse since then, and the vision has gone away, so I guess I do have something to be thankful for."

4 Extreme Types

By Dr. Paul Popenoe

SOME people grow up, thanks to the influence of their parents and others around them, with the idea that the world is made to wait on them, admire them and take care of them. Others grow up with the opposite feeling that this is a cruel and heartless world which will do them harm every time it gets a chance.

From another point of view, some people grow up naturally aggressive, others naturally submissive.

A COMBINATION of these two sets of traits produces four types of personality which Fritz Kunkel and Roy E. Dickerson describe in their popular book, "How Character Develops." Take the people who think that the world owes them a living. If one of these is aggressive, he tends to think that, "The world owes me a living because I am such a superior person. It ought to be delighted to admire me and take care of me." They call him a STAR.

If he is submissive, rather than aggressive, he thinks, "The world owes me a living because I am not able to take care of myself. It ought to be delighted to look out for such a wonderful, yet weak and helpless, person as I am." They call him a CLINGING VINE.

Now go to the other side of the picture. Stand up among the people who think the world is against them. If such a one is naturally aggressive, he will set out like Hitler, Stalin, and others to get the best of the world. "It's against me, so I'll tear it to pieces. I'll frighten it into letting me have my own way." They call him a NERO.

If submissive, such a fellow will say to himself, "The world has it in for me, and there's nothing I can do to meet such overwhelming force. I'll just protect myself by crawling into my shell." They call him a TURTLE.

Before you pick out a partner for life, ask yourself whether he belongs to any one of these four extreme types. If you are already married to a STAR, a NERO, a CLINGING VINE, or a TURTLE, you may understand him better and know how to deal with him more effectively if you analyze him in this way.

A Tall Tale of the Rich Infidel

A Mighty Strange Thing Happened When Girl Drove Stake Into Grave

Third and final installment from the book "The Devil's Pretty Daughter," just published by Columbia University Press, in which the author tells some tall stories about the Ozarks.

By Vance Randolph

ONE time there was a rich infidel, and he died, and the folks buried him without no preacher. Nobody said a prayer, even. That's what the infidel told 'em he wanted, and they done everything just like he said.

The night after the funeral some neighbors got to talking about it, and a old woman says if anybody was to walk on that grave at midnight, the infidel will reach right up and grab 'em. But a girl named Betty Ream just laughed right in their face. She says a infidel's grave ain't no different than anybody else's grave.

So then the boys wanted to bet she is scared to go out there by herself, at midnight. Betty says it is all foolishness, but she will go just to show 'em.

And one fellow says, "If there ain't nobody with you, how will we know you was there?"

The young folks had been playing croquet, and Betty says, "Fetch me that stake with the red rings painted on it, and one of them mallets." So the fellow done it.

You just go over to the buryin' ground in the morning," says Betty. "You'll find the stake drove right in that infidel's grave, and the mallet a-layin' close by."

It was about half-past 11 when Betty rode off down the road. She had the croquet stake in her hand, and the mallet was tied on her saddle.

Two of the boys cut across the pasture unbeknownst, and they seen Betty go in the graveyard. They waited a long time, but she never come out. They wouldn't go no further by their self, but they run to the tavern and got some more fellows and a couple of lanterns.

When the crowd come back they found Betty Ream a-layin' on the infidel's grave, and she was dead as a doornail.

Betty had hunkered down and drove the stake, all right. But girls were big wide dresses in them days, and the moon was behind her, so it throwed a big black shadow in front.

That's how come she drove the stake right through the edge of her skirt. The folks figured that when Betty went to get up she didn't know she had drove the stake through her skirt.

When she couldn't move, she sure thought the dead infidel had reached out of his grave and grabbed her.

Brain Game

HERE is a quiz on abbreviations. Six correct answers is excellent.

1. What word is indicated by the abbreviation advp?
2. Ba is the abbreviation for what chemical?
3. What degree is represented by the letters Ar. M.?
4. What does DX mean to a "ham"?
5. What does the abbreviation et seq. mean?
6. How do we abbreviate June?
7. What is the abbreviation for mesdames?
8. In printing, what do the initials W. I. represent?

ANSWERS.

1. Avoidupois.
2. Barium.
3. Master of Architecture.
4. Distance.
5. And those that follow.
6. Je.
7. Mmes.
8. Wrong font.

1. SHOULD YOU BELIEVE YOU ARE RIGHT UNTIL YOU ARE PROVED WRONG? YOUR OPINION

Answer to Question 1. ORDINARILY, when somebody tries to prove you wrong, it merely makes you more "set" in your opinion. However, scientifically-minded men and women are always re-examining their own opinions, and in this way they discover their errors. The average person does not do this. Consequently, he goes on believing he is right and fights every effort to prove he is wrong.

Answer to Question 2. True—much more. They ask a woman secretary to do everything outside her work from buying groceries or Christmas presents to washing the family car. They ask saleswomen to write letters, balance accounts, or take care of any odd jobs that turn up. Many employers expect women to work harder and get more done than men. And the girls don't live up to this expectation, they get fired.

Answer to Question 3. Yes—an identification card and also a statement of his blood type. With tens of thousands of persons killed every year in accidents, and nearly a million injured, a quick blood transfusion would save many lives. And, if the doctor knew the blood type required, it would avoid the delay which often costs a life.

THE BOYS WAITED A LONG TIME AT THE GRAVEYARD BUT BETTY NEVER CAME OUT.

heard. Them fellows took turn about, and it seemer like each one was a bigger liar than the one that come before him. They was all a-trying to see who was the champion.

Finally a fellow named Sharp says that when he lived down by Dutch Mills he seen two wild-cats a-fighting in a briar-patch. First one would jump on top of the other, and then the other one would jump on top of him.

They just took turns a-climbing like that, till naturally both of 'em was plumb off the ground. They kept a-getting higher and higher, and pretty soon they was clear out of sight. The neighbors come along about two hours later, and they could still hear their howls a-yowling and a-splitting away up in the sky.

And the folks going to church next morning didn't hear nothing, because the varmints was too high. But they seen wild-cat fur a-falling so they knowed the fight was still going on.

The rest of them windy-spinners just set there awhile, but they couldn't think of no story to match the one Mr. Sharp told. It just happened that a old soldier was a-standing outside and he could hear everything Mr. Sharp said. Then he begun to tell how his brother's two boys was a-scuttling on top of Max's azine mountain, and they fell off the bluff accidental.

Everybody knows old Magazine is the highest mountain in the whole country. So naturally the folks figured them boys was killed, and Mr. Sharp says we are all mighty sorry to hear it.

But the old soldier just laughed like a fool, and he says there wasn't hurt at all, except maybe a few scratches.

"Them boys both fell at the same time," says he, "so they ketches one another in the air, an' saved each other's life."

Everybody just set there with their mouth open for a minute, and Mr. Sharp looked like he was going to have a fit. The old soldier took a chew of tobacco, and then he walked out of the store.

It's mighty hard to get the best of them old soldiers, when it comes to telling whoppers.

Good Girl and Ornerly Girl

ONE time there was an old woman lived away out in the timber, and she had two daughters. One of them was a good girl and the other one was ornerly, but the old woman liked the ornerly one best.

So they made the good girl do all the work, and she had to split wood with a dull ax. The ornerly girl just laid a-flat of her back all day and never done nothing.

The good girl went out to pick up sticks, and pretty soon she seen a cow. The cow says, "For heaven's sake milk me, my bag's about to bust!" So the good girl milked the cow, but she didn't drink none of the milk.

Pretty soon she seen a apple tree, and the tree says, "For heaven's sake pick these apples, or I'll break plumb down!" So the good girl picked the apples, but she didn't eat none.

Pretty soon she seen some cornbread a-baking, and the bread says, "For heaven's sake take me out, I'm a-burning up!" So the good girl pulled the bread out, but she didn't taste a crumb.

A little old man come along just then, and he throwed a sack of gold money so it stuck all over her. When the good girl got home she shed gold pieces like feathers off a goose.

Big Dream

ONE time there was three boys went a-hunting, and they was getting awful hungry. They hunted and they hunted, but the ground was too dry, and the dogs didn't work good, and the moon wasn't right for hunting anyhow. So they only got one possum, and it was a mighty small possum at that.

Finally the boys was so tired and hungry they couldn't hunt no more. They built a fire and put the possum on to cook. Pretty soon the biggest boy says, "If we split that possum three ways, there won't any one of us get enough." The second boy says, "That's right, but what can we do about it?" The biggest boy says, "Let's all lay down and sleep while the possum is a-cooking, and whichever has the best dream can eat the whole possum." The middle-sized boy says, "Well, I reckon it's better for two of us to starve than three."

And the least boy says, "If that's what you fellows want to do, it's all right with me." So they laid down beside the fire to sleep.

When they woke up it was broad daylight, and the biggest boy says, "I dremp't the government raffled off Arkansas, an' I won the whole state!" The second boy says, "I dremp't that God died of smallpox, and Judge Thornton read the will an' He left all Creation to me!" The least boy says, "Well, I reckon you win. My dream didn't amount to nothing alongside them that you fellows had."

So then they dug out the possum, but there wasn't a bit of meat left on the carcass, and the bones was sucked plumb white.

The middle-sized boy was pretty mad, because he'd won that possum fair and square. Pretty soon he noticed the least boy's chin looked uncommon greasy. "I ain't accusing nobody," says he, "but what did you dream about?" The third boy says, "Oh my dream ain't hardly worth telling. I just dremp't I got up and et that little possum."

Secrets of Charm
Brushing Is Good for Hair

ONE of the most foolish fears some girls have is believing in the old wives' tale about not brushing the hair after it is set. They think it ruins the "set" or harms a permanent wave. Actually, just the opposite is true. It will improve the hair and make it look more natural and softened.

All good hairdressers brush the hair thoroughly as soon as they remove the pins. Proper brushing encourages a "set" into tractability—and it will last longer. Most hairdressers arrange a fresh hairdo with a brush rather than a comb.

Guillaume, the Paris pacesetter of hairdos who works hand-in-hand with Dior, is partial to longer hair. He brushes and brushes the hair behind the ears to give a well-groomed look and to get away from the untidy gamin look of the past seasons.

Brushing helps you to find your natural waves. If you don't brush the hair every day, the neglected wave set will begin to look like a wig and lose all its luster and vitality. You have to "baby" it along if you want a silken texture rather than the dried-out look that some permanents have.

If you're thinking of giving yourself a home permanent, here's a suggestion about pre-permanent activities. Experiment with several of the new hair styles first. Use your brush to see how your hair falls most becomingly . . . and naturally. The wise thing to do when you set it for your new permanent, is to try for the waves that will hold the style you like best.

For figure loveliness, grace, and sparkling vitality, follow the 30-day wonder program outlined in summerizing your beauty. For a copy of the program write to Secrets of Charm, in care of the Post-Dispatch, enclosing 10 cents (in coin) and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request.

Love Notes Bounce

By Angelo Patri

"I FEEL awful. I went steady, well almost steady, with a boy my age. I'm 15 going on 16 and I wrote notes to him. Now I want to go steady with another boy I have come to like much better, and the first boy says he is going to show him the notes I wrote to him. I feel just awful about this, and I can't tell anybody about it to get some help with that boy so he won't do it."

Yes, you can get help. Just tell that boy that if he does not give you those notes and promise to behave himself, you will go to his father and tell him all about it. His father will understand and help you keep his boy in order. And meanwhile, write no notes to any boy.

WRITING NOTES or letters to boys can be a source of annoyance—if not worse—to the girls who wrote them, once the feeling for the boy has cooled off. Of course, no gentleman would ever make such a threat as this boy did, but it is better not to place oneself in such a position. Girls and boys can say all that is necessary to say face to face, so there is no need for the notes. Then, of course, there is the telephone.

Girls should not call boys on the telephone. If a boy does not have the girl on his mind and want to hear her voice on the wire, there is no use in the girl's calling him. Her call will make him that much less eager. A boy likes to feel that his girl friend is a little hard to get, that she is a bit special because she does not call on the phone, does not wait for him at the corner nor write him and the other boys notes. He has to make the advance and win her over.

AND WHILE WE are talking about this, let us think about the use of the telephone. It is being overused by some of the boys and girls, with accent on the girls' side. And the calls between girls are too long. Long-continued "He said" and "She said" are out of order. Telephones are public-service instruments and for boys and girls to make use of them for trivial matters over a long space of time is to be utterly selfish and unkind.

Fathers and mothers are annoyed by useless telephone calls in the afternoons and evenings. Young people have plenty of time in the day to gossip, make dates and arrange programs, and they ought to confine their calls to the essentials.

Dating takes up a big space in the teen-agers' lives. The old rules hold: Don't write; don't exchange photographs; odd numbers are lucky. The real one will come along in good time. Meanwhile, watch your step.

Tips for Teens

By Elinor Williams

IF you're a boy, there are certain things that are up to you to do just because you are a boy. They're part of your datings... as well as your role in life and your responsibility.

Do you know what some of them are? Let's see. It's up to you to:

Let your date decide when it's time to go home. She has home rules to keep if she wants to be allowed to have dates. So if you argue or prolong the date, it might make trouble for her.

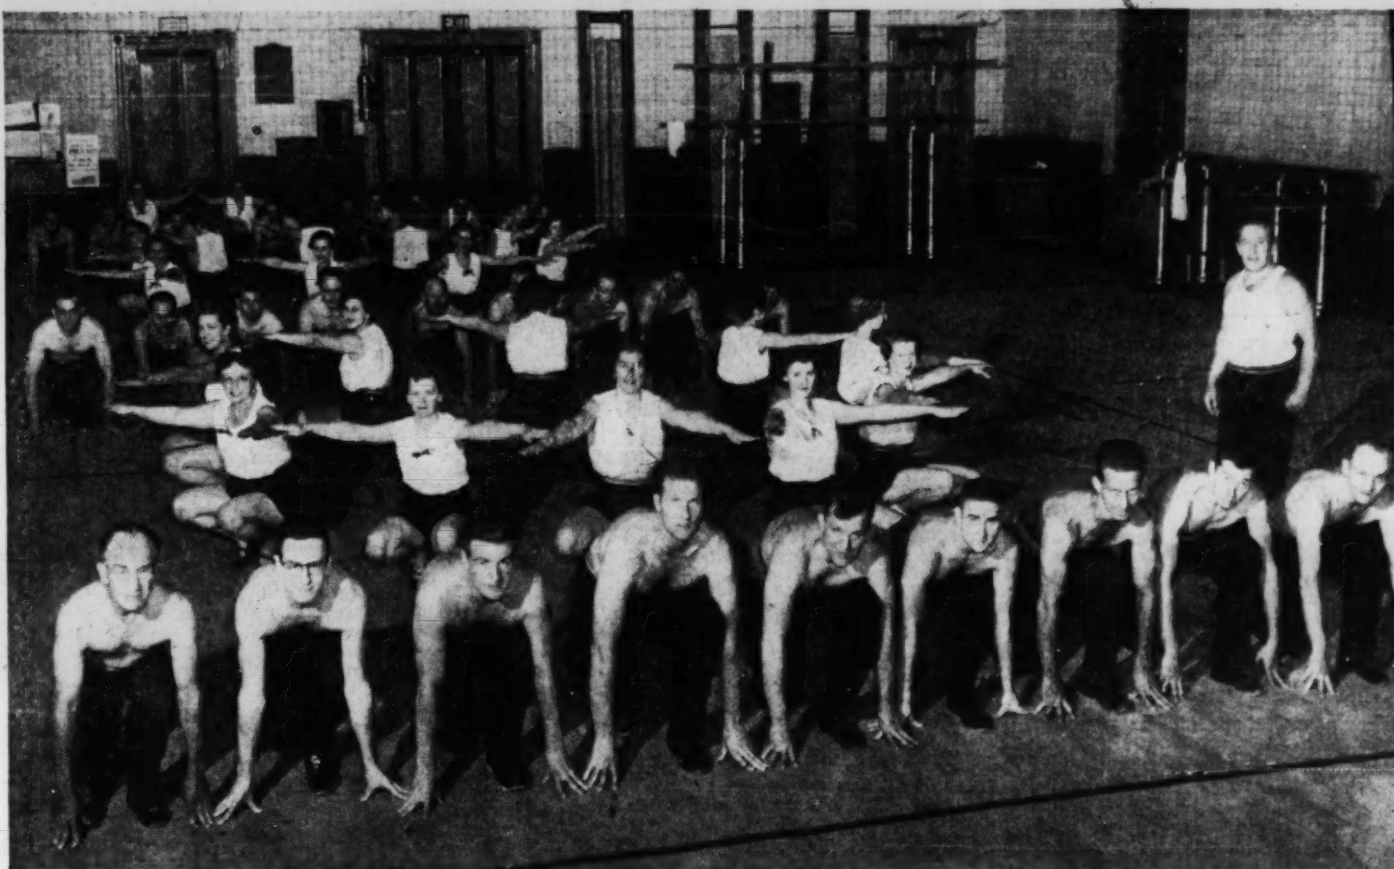

Let your date decide what she wants to do in personal matters such as parking, necking, smoking and drinking. ... and follow her wishes. It's a free country. She has a right to do what she and her parents think best about these matters without urging or remarks from you.

Let your date know that you had fun, too, if you enjoyed the evening. And if you want to date her again, tell her so. Girls love the date-security of knowing these things!

Help around the house ... your home. As long as you live with your parents, remember that every home needs the help that a pair of strong young hands (like yours!) can give. It's only fair to help maintain the home that you share and enjoy. No reason why it all should be done for you when you're THIS big!

Those Czech-American Turners

Representatives of 85 'Sokol' Units in U.S. Are Heading Here for Festival

By Clarissa Start

IN 1862 two men named Jindrich Fugner and Miroslav Tyrs founded the Sokol Gymnastic Association in Czechoslovakia. The word "Sokol" means "Falcon" and the falcon is the symbol of freedom to the Czech. There is no freedom in Czechoslovakia today, but the Sokol, transplanted to America, is a thriving, healthy organization. On June 18 and 19, members of 85 Sokol units from New York to Los Angeles will hold their Jubilee Slet, or gym festival here, with more than 1000 outstanding gymnasts participating.

It is fitting that the Slet be held in St. Louis for the Sokol had its American birth here. Because of the vast size of the national organization, its yearly festivals usually are held at Soldier's Field in Chicago, but this year marks the Sokol's ninetieth birthday so it is holding its reunion in the city of its birth.

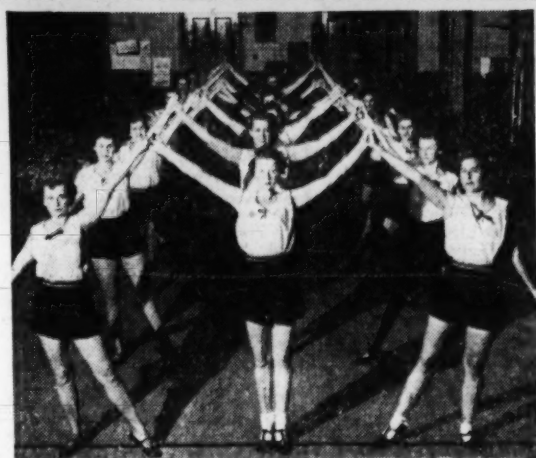

"Besides, all members would like to come to St. Louis," says Mrs. William Korpecki, one of the chairmen for the festival. "They say they like our hospitality."

A school teacher, E. R. Erben, founded the American branch of the Sokol as a physical culture and character building force. "It was just after the Civil War," explains John F. Reiner, president of the St. Louis group, "and they wanted to raise a healthy nation to be ready for their country's call."

Erben and two friends, Jaroslav Vostrovsky and Karel Prochazka, called the first meeting at which M. Kovanda was elected president. The Sokols began their gym training on crude home-made equipment. One member, a blacksmith, made additional apparatus, and the rest was borrowed from the German Turnverein. For a while they met at a small hall on Tenth and Marion (early members called it "the box"), later at the South St. Louis Turner Hall, another time at Union Capitol Hall, occasionally even in basements and a two-room flat.

ALL this was, to put it mildly, a far cry from the present day Sokol activities, held in the National Hall, at 1701 Allen avenue. A large gymnasium, well equipped, is used by groups ranging from children to senior citizens. St. Louisans of Czech descent, with a tremendous pride in their heritage, gather to exercise or "turn" regularly, week in and week out, throughout the year, with time out only in summer. Then they keep up with their athletic prowess at their summer camp, at Imperial, Mo.

"Turning" is done on a family basis. At a practice session you are likely to see mature grandpas and balding grandpas, little girls with ponytail hair-dos and little boys in Davy Crockett T-shirts. A 2-year-old sits in one corner, on a mat, solemnly taking a heavy iron chain apart. Little ones just under the age limit of 5, skirt the fringe of the drill floor, watching enviously. "She's dying to turn," Mrs. Milton Moravek said of her 4-year-old Kathy, who was watching, fascinated. "Her daddy had her on the trampoline tonight and she's so limber."

Sokols are all limber. One woman, Mrs. Camilla Steutermann, received a cup last year for 40 consecutive years of turning, and there are quite a few gymnasts past 65 but, as Mrs. Korpecki points out, "you'd never guess it."

SOME of the men discontinue the more strenuous bar work when they reach middle age. Women tend to drop out just long enough to have babies, then come back.

"Whenever a woman drops out, everyone suspects that she's expecting," one woman told us. "There's one girl here now who's expecting in January but she's staying in until after the festival. And they always come back as soon as the baby is old enough that the father can stay home with it."

Men and women turn on different nights. On Mondays and Thursdays, little girls turn from 4 to 5:30, junior girls from 7 to 8, senior women from 8 to 10, all the women in navy blue bloomer shorts, white, red-around-trimmed blouses. Boys and men work out on Tuesdays and Fridays, and older women, sometimes called the "older married ladies' group" on Wednesdays.

A full-time instructor, Frank Prihoda, known to everyone as "Teach," is in charge of all gymnastic activities. Born in Czechoslovakia, "Teach" is a former member of international gym teams, and worked for the Sokol as traveling instructor before he settled down in St. Louis. He is assisted by Frank and Camilla Ulrich.

All varieties of gymnastics are performed by the Sokols from calisthenics to high bar work. "We use a lot of apparatus they don't have in other gyms," Ulrich points out proudly. "The long horse, short horse, pommel horse, low parallel bars, high parallel bars, low balance beam, high balance beam, swinging rings, flying rings, stationary rings, trampoline, ladders."

Among members, Czech terms are used for equipment and basic routines. The parallel bars, for example, are the "bradla," the horizontal bars the "hradza." And a certain trick that champion contender Helen Pesout was performing was referred to as a "prednost na bradla." All the Sokol members use the same two words in greeting and in farewell—"Na Zdar," which may be freely translated as, "To success," or "Good luck."

Just before festival time, all Sokol activities move at fever pitch. Men and women practice together for their part in the gymnastic demonstration. They form intricate designs, lines, circles, do bending, stretching, stooping, arm swinging exercises and push-ups with an ease that indicates that Czech young men must have a great advantage when they enter the armed forces. A selected St. Louis group of 90 were rehearsing their precision formation of the figure 90 as the birthday symbol, and the entire assemblage was at work on their part of the impressive mass drill. At international festivals in Czechoslovakia, as many as 40,000 have participated in these mass drills, and pictures of them look like a giant geometric design.

ON Saturday, June 18, teams made up of five men and five women will compete on apparatus. There will be a volley ball competition and relay races, both to be held at Cleveland High School. A dozen of the trophies for champions have been donated by the Post-Dispatch.

That night there will be a banquet at which a message from President Eisenhower will be read, and Senator Roman Hruska of Nebraska will be the keynote speaker. On Sunday, June 19, at Kiel Auditorium, Sokols of all ages and sizes will demonstrate the gymnastic prowess of which they are so proud.

Various guesses were hazarded by Sokol members were questioned, as to whether regular exercise and the diet prescribed ("meat, greens, good, old-fashioned bread, not too many sweets") contributes to longevity and prolonged youth among its members or not. But on one point they were emphatic.

"When we get our young people in the gym, their parents know where they are," Reiner says. "We know they're not out smoking behind some building or getting into trouble. We have no juvenile delinquency in the Sokol."

Contract Bridge

By Ely Culbertson

WEST'S defense in the following deal wouldn't have mattered much at rubber bridge but it brought him a near-zero score at match-point duplicate.

♠ J92
♦ J10884
♠ 76	♥ K93	♦ AK532	♣ 1064
WEST
♠ 43	♥ J10762	♦ 76	♣ KQ98
EAST
♠ AKQ1085	♥ AQ4	♦ Q	♣ AJ7
SOUTH

Almost every South in the field started off (properly) with a bid of two spades, and the auction in these cases was short and simple:

South	West	North	East
2♠	Pass	2N.T.	Pass
3♠	Pass	4♠	Pass

One South, as it happened, reaped a rich harvest from opening with one spade, but that was only because he had a very reckless or altruistic left-hand opponent. West at this table had the incredible gall to overcall with two diamonds. North passed—he couldn't afford to double on two jacks, regardless of his diamond length—but South doubled for a takeout, and North converted this to a penalty double by passing. West went down 800, for a cold zero.

But let's get back to the normal contracts of four spades. Every West opened the king of diamonds, but when dummy appeared and South dropped the diamond queen, every West naturally shifted. At the table in reference, the shift was to spades. Declarer put up the nine from dummy, then led and passed the diamond jack to West, discarding a club from the closed hand. West grabbed the trick with his ace and swiftly shifted to clubs. South won and claimed the rest for five-odd. Three diamond tricks were waiting in dummy.

West was a little impulsive, or something. Why accept the diamond trick when this would obviously establish the rest of dummy's suit, with the trump jack a marked entry? West would have been much wiser to give South that trick, knowing that if another diamond was led, East would ruff to preserve West's ace.

Since, however, West did part with his diamond ace, he should have returned a diamond to let East kill a trick in that suit by ruffing.

SAND DIVER!

THE UMA, OR FRINGE-FOOTED LIZARD, SKIMS RAPIDLY OVER THE SAND...

...UNTIL ALARMED, THEN HE DIVES UNDER WITHOUT SLACKENING SPEED...

...AND LITERALLY SWIMS BENEATH THE SAND!

A STORY from Warm Springs, Ga., about the Little White House came to my attention last week. This is the cottage in which my husband lived when in Warm Springs. It is now a museum and was visited last week by its 700,000th visitor.

This person was Mrs. Ben Goler of Atlanta, Ga. She and her husband, who is with the Lockheed plant at Marietta, Ga., were making their first trip to Warm Springs with the daughter, Jacqueline, aged 7. Mrs. Goler was given a few souvenirs to commemorate her honor in being the 700,000th visitor and she seemed excited and pleased over the whole episode.

She remembered having seen my husband twice and heard him speak in person once. Like so many others, I am sure, in going through this little cottage where he spent so many happy hours, she felt she was very close to my husband.

THIS MEMORIAL in Warm Springs is becoming increasingly popular. In fact, 13,423 visitors made the trek to this small cottage in May, and ever since April here has been an almost continuous procession of school children.

This is a particularly nice time of year to visit Georgia because the woods and the wild flowers everywhere add to the beauty of the mountain scenery.

Lucy Ann Rockefeller Married in the East

By Fay Profilet

MISS LUCY ROCKEFELLER, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Godfrey Stillman Rockefeller of Greenwich, Conn., was married to Alexander C. Stewart of Darien, Conn., Saturday afternoon at Christ Episcopal Church, Greenwich. The bride, whose mother is the former Miss Helen Gratz of St. Louis, is the granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Gratz whose home was at 5155 Lindell boulevard.

After the ceremony, at which the Rev. Robert B. Appleyard officiated, Mr. and Mrs. Rockefeller gave a reception at their home in Mead lane. Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attended by her sisters, Mrs. Robert G. Stone and Mrs. Peter H. Blair of Greenwich, matrons of honor, and by Miss Georgia Rockefeller, a cousin; Miss Elizabeth Simonds and Miss Elizabeth Harrison, Greenwich; Miss Helen Tasche, Sheboygan, Wis., and Mrs. George DeB. Bell, New York. Jean Stewart, niece of the bridegroom, was flower girl.

Mr. Stewart, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Donald Barton Stewart of Stamford, Conn., was attended by his brother, George T. Stewart of Lancaster, Pa., as best man. Ushers were Mr. Bell, William C. Ford and Wendell W. Anderson, Grosse Pointe, Mich.; Donald G. Stewart, Stamford; Robert C. Montgomery Jr., Glenbrook, Conn.; Donald F. McCullough, Old Greenwich; Godfrey A. Rockefeller, Paoli, Pa., brother of the bride; Richard E. Sumner Jr., Plainfield, N.J.; Edward Starr III, Bryn Mawr, Pa., and John C. Wrightson, Darien.

The bride wore a white satin gown and an heirloom rose point veil. She carried orchids, lilies of the valley and stephanotis. Her attendants were in yellow pique princess gowns embroidered with white. Their bouquets were white flowers and ivy.

Mr. and Mrs. Stewart will live in Darien.

Two Parties for Miss Marion Bischoff.

MISS MARION MORENO BISCHOFF, debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward G. Bischoff, 23 Brentmoor, Clayton, was honor guest today at a luncheon and swimming party given at the Bath and Tennis Club. Hostesses were Mrs. Gladys Rolwing, 35 Picardy lane, Ladue, and her daughter, Mrs. J. Michael Hadley (Polly Rolwing), 1341 McCutcheon road, Richmond Heights.

MRS. HADLEY... CO-HOSTESS AT PARTY.

Guests, invited for 1 o'clock, included Miss Janet Crowell, Miss Kathryn Brownlee, Miss Phyllis Vierheller, Miss Harriet Switzer, Miss Judy Butler, Miss Erwin Corley, Miss Joan Schlueter and Miss Sally Woolwine. Mrs. Bischoff and Mrs. Rolwing were seated at a separate table.

Last night a buffet supper was given in honor of Miss Bischoff by Mr. and Mrs. John G. Cella at their home, 8 Upper Ladue road. Approximately 50 guests, debutantes and their escorts, attended the party.

Mrs. James O'Malley Davies, 501 Clara avenue, flew to New York Friday morning to attend the graduation today of her grandson, McDonald Dozier Gardner, from Princeton University. Mr. Gardner is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dozier L. Gardner, 24 Washington Terrace, who have taken a house in Princeton during the commencement exercises with Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Pettus, 14 Westmoreland place, and the James Lee Johnsons, 15 Squire lane, Huntleigh Village, whose sons, Thomas W. Pettus Jr. and James Lee Johnson Jr., are also members of the graduating class. Later Mr. and Mrs. Gardner plan to go to Nantucket where they will occupy their summer home.

Mary Richmond Plans Late July Wedding.

AMONG the midsummer brides will be Miss Mary Richmond, daughter of Mrs. H. Mills Richmond, who will be married to James Francis Quinlivan Jr., Saturday afternoon, July 23. The ceremony will be performed at Emmanuel Episcopal Church, Webster Groves, at 5:30 o'clock by the Rev. John Kelly of Monroe City, Mo., a close friend of Mr. Quinlivan.

MISS RICHMOND... TO BE JULY BRIDE.

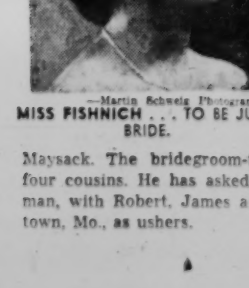

Guests will remain for a reception at the church. Early that evening close friends of the bride and bridegroom will go to Mrs. Richmond's home, 2437 High School drive, Brentwood, for supper.

Horatio Potter, a close friend of Miss Richmond's family, will give the bride in marriage. Miss Cecelia Richmond will attend her sister as maid of honor and Miss Frances Carton and Miss Sharon Knickmeyer will be bridesmaids.

Mr. Quinlivan, son of Mr. and Mrs. James F. Quinlivan, 10330 Oak avenue, Overland, will have Richard Newman as best man. Ushers will be Donald Clooney and Robert McDonald.

Wedding Saturday for Miss Fishnick.

WEDDING PLANS have been completed for the marriage Saturday of Miss Patricia Fishnick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Joseph Fishnick, 1086 Colby avenue, University City, to Jerry Earl Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Miller, 1504 Bradford avenue, Page-dale. The ceremony, scheduled for 8:30 o'clock that night, is to be performed at First Presbyterian Church by the Rev. Dr. R. Calvin Dobson. Mr. and Mrs. Fishnick will give a reception afterward at the Congress Hotel.

MISS FISHNICK... TO BE JUNE BRIDE.

Maid of honor will be Miss Joan Lunstedt; bridesmaids are to be Miss Phyllis Vaught, cousin of the bride; Miss Jacqueline Jordan and Miss Barbara Maysack. The bridegroom-to-be will be attended by his four cousins. He has asked Glenn Miller to serve as best man, with Robert, James and Donald Miller of Fredericktown, Mo., as ushers.

Late Summer Wedding For Miss Nancy Sessel

MISS NANCY CATHERINE SESSEL, who was graduated magna cum laude last Tuesday from St. Louis University, will be married late this summer to John Muller, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Muller of Toledo, O. Announcement of the engagement and forthcoming marriage was made by Mrs. Maurice Sessel of Fairmount, Alton, mother of the prospective bride.

Mr. Muller, a graduate of St. Meinrad (Ind.) College, and a former student at St. Louis University, will receive his master's degree in psychology from Toledo University this summer. Miss Sessel, whose father is not living, was graduated in 1950 from the French Institute of Notre Dame de Sion in Kansas City, and spent the following year studying at the Sorbonne in Paris.

Miss Virginia Gidjonsen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur H. Gidjonsen, 9 Old Westbury lane, Webster Groves, is visiting in Washington where she attended her class reunion at Georgetown Visitation Junior College and the alumnae luncheon. At the alumnae meeting she made a report of the St. Louis Junior Chapter of which she is president. Miss Gidjonsen visited friends in Philadelphia and New York before going to Washington.

Mrs. Carter Davis Parke, 10 Beverly place, returned home recently from Kansas City, Mo., where she visited Miss Mary Lee Faris and her brother, William B. Faris, former St. Louisans. Mrs. Parke's son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Sanford Evans (Joan Parke), and their two children, Ann and William Parke Evans, have moved from Cincinnati to Palo Alto, Calif.

June 25 Wedding For Sylvia Gray, McK. H. Sauer Jr.

MISS SYLVIA JANE GRAY and McKinley Hobart Sauer Jr., of Leesburg, O., will be married at 6:30 o'clock the evening of June 25 at Webster Groves Christian Church by the Rev. Dr. Raymond McCallister. Afterward, there will be a reception at the home of the prospective bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elza Theodore Gray, 1342 West Big Bend road.

Miss Barbara Darling of Mansfield, O., is to be maid of honor. Bridesmaids will include a cousin, Miss Patsy Gray of Duncan, Okla.; Miss Jane Hamilton, West Caldwell, N.J.; and Miss Patricia Headley. Jill Montgomery will come from Leesburg to serve as flower girl in her uncle's wedding.

Thomas Hauenstein of Waukegan, O., will serve as best man for the bridegroom-elect, who is the son of McKinley H. Sauer of Leesburg and the late Mrs. Sauer. Ushers are to be Philip Gray, Ronald Berger of Dayton, O., and Ronald Segaves of Portsmouth, O.

Mr. and Mrs. Gray will give the rehearsal dinner at Le Chateau June 24.

Miss Gray and her fiancé plan to continue their studies at Ohio University, Athens, next fall.

Dickson avenue, who, with a group of friends, gave a dinner Wednesday night at Greenbrier Country Club. Miss Barbara Mahn was the house guest of Mr. and Mrs. Tripp M. Roberts, 1050 Couch avenue.

Mrs. David E. West (Joan Rutledge) and her baby son, David Rutledge West, will conclude a visit here in a few days with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Paul E. Rutledge, 235 East Washington avenue. The visitors will return to their home in Alexandria, Va.

MR. AND MRS. Norris Boehmer, 246 Parkland avenue, Glendale, and their son, William, will depart Saturday for a three-week trip West. They will visit Mr. Boehmer's brothers, Harold Boehmer in Salt Lake City, and Lester Boehmer in Burbank, Calif., and their respective families.

In Denver, the Boehmers will see William's godfather, the Rt. Rev. Harold L. Bowen, Episcopal Bishop of Colorado. William Boehmer was graduated from Taylor School a few days ago. Mrs. Boehmer recently returned from Upper Montclair, N.J., where she visited relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dalmas. She was joined there by her sister, Mrs. Eldridge Thompson of Springfield, Mass. Mrs. Boehmer also visited there with a former Kirkwood couple, Mr. and Mrs. David W. Woods, who moved East a few months ago.

Chocolate Banana Sauce

Ingredients: one cup instant cocoa mix, two-thirds cup hot milk, two-thirds cup mashed strained banana, one-fourth teaspoon vanilla, salt.

Method: Mix cocoa mix and milk until smooth and mix is dissolved. Stir in banana, vanilla and dash of salt. Chill. Makes one and two-thirds cups sauce. Serve over squares of white cake; top with whipped cream or vanilla ice cream if desired. Sauce may be covered and stored in refrigerator up to four days.

Martha Carr's OPINION

Dear Martha:

AM a young business man 32 years old, supporting my widowed mother. We have been happy together but she insists that I should not marry as long as she is alive. I have gone with several girls but she always has managed to break us up. Now I'm really in love with a very fine young woman and Mother has started in again trying to make me ashamed that I would think of leaving her. She is physically independent, Martha, and I certainly wouldn't let her want for anything. But don't you think I have a right to live my own life? Would it be silly for us to live there with her?

BUDDY.

Under the circumstances, yes. If she has succeeded in breaking up your other romances, I don't think she would be willing to accept the girl in her home as a daughter-in-law. Of course, you have the right to lead your own life and your mother hasn't the right to keep interfering. You'll have to stand up to her and let her know that you do intend to marry but that you still care for her and will not neglect her just because you won't be under the same roof. Maybe you can find a companion for her. At any rate, when you do marry, make sure that your wife understands the problem and is sympathetic. Make sure that your mother will be welcome in your home and that you won't be forced to put her out of your life.

Dear Martha:

A YOUNG COUSIN who has just graduated from high school has recently come to live with me and she is planning to work here in St. Louis. Her mother asked if I would keep an eye on her. I'm glad to have her here, but somehow she has gotten in with a rough and uncouth crowd and this embarrasses me a great deal, in addition to the fact that it's wrong for her. I feel responsible for her conduct and her welfare, but when I talk to her about these boys and girls she becomes impatient and angry. What can I do?

TROUBLED.

It seems to me that you are doing her a great favor by letting her live with you and I don't see why you have to let yourself be embarrassed. Of course, it is possible that you could gradually lead her into a better group by introducing her to some well-mannered young people, but I doubt that you can get anywhere with her by being critical or nagging. Try first of all to bring other boys and girls into your home. If she prefers the other crowd to them, you may be forced to write to her mother and explain the situation.

IN ANSWER TO POP: A course in baby care, open to prospective parents, is offered by the St. Louis chapter, American Red Cross. Call the Home Nursing Department, Franklin 1-4980, for further information.

Send today for Martha Carr's free list of old-fashioned picnic games. Please inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request.

The Silent Dieter

By Ruth Millett

TODAY I'd like to present the case of a woman who managed to lose 25 pounds without talking about it until she reached her goal. If you don't think that's unusual how many women do you know who are able to diet without making their diet their chief topic of conversation?

How many women do you know who can go to a party and refuse the sweet tidbits offered or take one and keep it on their plates without making every woman who is eating them feel like a hog?

HOW MANY WOMEN do you know who can turn down a hostess' whipped cream dessert without groaning out loud about the probable number of calories in it?

How many women do you know who can diet for even a few days without letting everyone they know in on their secret and all its agonizing details?

But a woman can diet quietly and unobtrusively and not become a bore or a martyr in the process.

I'M SURE OF THAT. I know one who did. In fact, she was so careful not to bore other people with her diet, or rob others of the joy of eating, or to make her hostess feel guilty for providing a meal of tempting dishes, that she slimmed down to a trim, girlish figure almost before her friends realized what was happening.

When they did start to notice and started asking questions she merely said, "Oh, I've been watching calories for some time now" and let her perfect chance for discussing her diet go by the board. She is the only dieter I know who has been quiet about her project and one of the few whose diet problems haven't become boring to her friends.

Beauty After 40

By Edyth Thornton McLeod

THE handsome figure of the After-Forty Juno needs the flattery of dress designs which do the most for her figure. I receive so many requests for ideas as to the best styles for the larger women who make their own clothes that I have been doing some special research on patterns and materials.

I have found a basic style which is, I think, perfect for the Juno and also flattering to slender figures. The design is simple, with a collarless neckline that sweeps down to form a soft "V." The drapery is drawn into a most flattering bow. The modified cap sleeves are designed to camouflage the fleshy part of the upper arm, but are loose enough to be cool for summer.

THE SKIRT INTERESTED me very much because it gives a soft silhouette. The unpressed pleats in front are matched by the flattery of the slightly flared and gored back. I suggest the softest crepes and sheers for the dress. A sheer black or midnight blue crepe would be lovely, especially if you lined the bow with pale blue or pink and wear long gloves in either color.

This would be just the right dress to wear to summer weddings. You can also choose prints of small designs. And even though you use this pattern for several dresses, it looks different in different materials.

Air-Conditioner Pampering

A Damp House Will Overwork Your Unit

By Joan Hanauer

NEW YORK, June 14 (INS).

ADY, are you sabotaging your air-conditioner?

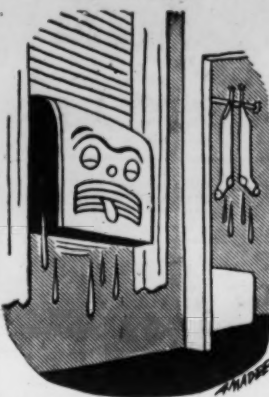

If you hang stockings and slippers to dry in the bathroom—or anywhere indoors, for that matter, you may be damaging your unit.

In case you think this is a small problem, keep in mind that one out of every eight of the estimated 1,300,000 homes to be built in 1955 will be centrally air-conditioned, and by 1958 that number is expected to pass the 1,000,000 mark. This is not taking into account houses built before this year, those revamped for cooling systems or those homes with window units.

C. W. Nessel, director of the mobile laboratory for the National Warm Air Heating and Air Conditioning Association is a man much concerned with the care of these conditioners.

"Home owners must learn to live with their air-conditioning system," Nessel advises. "The more you baby them, the better they are."

Nessel explains that a home unit, as well as any other, has two jobs—first to cool the room and second to de-humidify it. When you leave wash to dry indoors, the moisture from it, released as it dries, goes into the interior atmosphere and must be removed by a hard-working air-conditioner.

NESSELL SUGGESTED using a fan in the kitchen, even though the house is air-cooled, whenever cooking. He also says it's a good idea to leave the kitchen window open at such times to let in air.

"An electric or gas range with all burners operating will put enough heat into a house to require a two or three ton unit to take it out," he explained.

Homes that use heavy canvas shower curtains are also working at cross-purposes with their air-conditioners, says Nessel. They soak up a lot of water, so the cooling expert suggests plastic, which sheds water.

When thinking in terms of air-conditioning units, keep these points in mind, Nessel says. A house with a white roof requires less air-conditioning than one with a dark roof, and the same rule holds true for the outside walls.

"A GOOD TREE over the side of the house that keeps the sun off is worth its weight in gold," Nessel pointed out, "and old fashioned shutters are good if people will close them—but people like to look out windows."

Another aid to cool air is an insulated attic. Nessel also suggests ventilating the attic with the use of a fan. Here is one thing he has learned from a recent survey of air-conditioned homes: People who have home units eat more in the summer.

"One woman we questioned," he said, "commented that air conditioning was the best thing that ever happened to her family because previously she couldn't get her children to eat enough in hot weather."

It's an Old House but She Loves It

By Clarissa Start

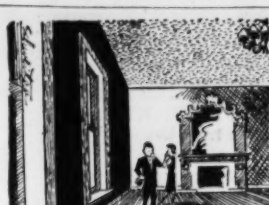

THIS is the era of simplified living. Families are moving to smaller, more compact houses. The dining room has been abandoned for the living-dining room. In some homes the living-dining room is abandoned for the family room which combines living and dining and par-chest and pole vaulting for the kiddies all in one dandy, washable, plastic covered area which requires no cleaning, it says here.

We always seem to be out of step. Searching for a blue hat in the green season, hunting a pastel-colored refrigerator a year before they come on the market, asking for the nylon boucle blouse six months after the manufacturer has discontinued them. And so it is with houses. Our new house is causing our friends no end of consternation. They say, "Your new house," and then amend it, "I mean your new old house, not the old new house you're leaving, the new old house you're buying."

OUR NEW HOUSE is terribly out of date and terribly un-chie and we love it. And, as everyone points out, it's really your own fault when you broadcast the news that you want a "big, old house." You've only yourself to blame when you find one somewhat bigger and older than you had in mind.

This one is 95 years old, we've been told, although it's older than the records. It has a living room with two fireplaces and in case you have a lot of cold guests, a parlor with another fireplace. It has five bedrooms and we only needed four but it balances out because it doesn't have any closets to speak of, so the fifth bedroom may turn into one. It has two acres of lovely ground and don't tell us that's a lot of grass to mow because the subject has come up in our household once or twice already.

We measure the windows for curtains, shudder unbelievably and measure again. That's right, almost 11 feet. The man who's papering the front hall called back apologetically to say he'd mislead us slightly. It wouldn't take 24 rolls of wallpaper; it would take 46. That settled the question of whether the meditation print at $2.50 a roll was too monotonous. It was too monotonous, spelled m-o-n-e-y.

EVERY LUNCH HOUR, spare moment, and evening the stores are open has found us flipping through the wallpaper sample books with the rhythmic one-two-three-ugh of a Latin dance. One is the page which gives you the title, usually something fancy like Burpington Halls, and a blurb about how this rare design has been recaptured in Burp's authentic colonial designs. Page two shows you the design, flowers and birds and an upside-down pineapple. Page three gives you the vulgar details of price. Then comes the "ugh."

Our sole consolation in this large decorating came the afternoon we overheard a decorator who was shopping in the same wallpaper salon and scornfully dismissing all our favorites as "too cheap" for his client. Finally, he said wearily, "I think we should get an additional 10 per cent just for finding wallpaper. All this shopping and looking from store to store—it's worth it." We agreed—and to think we could collect our finder's fee, not on 24 rolls but a whopping 46.

Words, Wit and Wisdom—By William Morris

DURING the next few days hundreds of thousands of American families will share proudly in the excitement that attends school graduation or college commencement. Nowadays, it's not just a ceremony for high school and college seniors. I'm reliably informed that some of our more progressive school systems even have "graduation" festivities—complete with caps and gowns—for youngsters winding up their year in kindergarten.

Be that as it may—and you'll admit it conjures up a rather grim picture—let's look at some of the words most closely associated with this occasion.

"COMMENCEMENT," from the Latin words cum and initio, to go into together, quite literally means a beginning. The reason why it is used to designate the day on which college education ends is because college education ends is because the ending is also the beginning—the start of the new career or vocation for which college has trained the student.

Grade and high schools by contrast usually and properly designate their ceremony "graduation." From the Latin gradus—step or grade—this indicates that a pupil has completed an important step toward his educational goal but that more remains to be done.

"ALUMNUS" AND "ALUMNA" are simply the Latin words for foster-son and foster-daughter. Though used in Great Britain to mean "pupil," in America they describe only graduates of a school or college. Incidentally, the unusual plurals of these two words often cause trouble. For one thing, they retain the original Latin word endings. Also the accepted American pronunciations of these endings happen to be precisely transposed from the classical Latin sounds. Thus, "alumni" (men graduates) in Latin was pronounced uh-LUM-nee and "alumnae" (women graduates) was uh-LUM-ny. However, present-day pronunciation throughout the English-speaking world is uh-LUM-ny for "alumni" and uh-LUM-nee for "alumnae."

Milk Plays Big Role in Our Health

By Edith M. Barber

JUNE, the whole month, is annually proclaimed "dairy month." If any food product is deserving of such a lengthy period for promoting its merits, it is milk.

Early summer brings the height of milk production. A goodly portion will be sold in fluid form. Cream, butter and various types of cheese, as well as evaporated and dried milk, are all classed as dairy products.

There are many of us who drink milk just because we like it in its own simple form. There is nothing that replaces it in certain soups, sauces and desserts. We also use it as a liquid best suited for tying together the ingredients of hot breads and cakes.

Next to plain milk, chocolate-flavored beverages rank in popularity. Through a touch of this flavor children, who may believe they are graduated from the special food prohibitions of early life, may be easily induced to continue to take the liberal quantity of milk that they still need.

An easy way to prepare a chocolate flavoring is through the use of an instant pudding mix. This will also serve as a sauce for ice cream or pudding. Then it can be made a little richer by the addition of butter or margarine.

The preparation of this sauce-flavoring is easy indeed.

Chocolate Sundae Sauce.
Stir one package of instant chocolate pudding into one cup light (white) corn syrup. Stir in one-fourth cup water. Makes one and one-fourth cups.

Fudge Sauce.
Prepare chocolate sundae sauce but use only two tablespoons melted margarine or butter.

Chocolate Milk.
Stir two or more tablespoons chocolate sundae sauce into glass of milk.

How to Paint a Chair

By Elizabeth Hillyer

CORRECT chair painting begins upside down. It's a formula that begins wrong end to make the job easier and to accomplish the right result. First up-end the chair with the seat on a table, the back over the table edge, with newspapers under it and on the floor.

Paint the legs and rungs. Then turn the chair right side up, still on the table and finish the back, then the seat, but it's a good idea to leave one spot on the top of the back unpainted. Then there's a place to grasp the chair to move it away to dry without acquiring a handful of paint. When the chair has been removed to a safe drying retreat, the unpainted spot can be quickly finished off.

The chair will take on a new sophistication if it's painted black. This is done with a coat of one of the so-called satin finishes, or hand-rubbed finishes. These are clear and work wonders to give the finish a professional look. They take down the shine that spoils a black finish and give it instead a soft, rich glow, rich—without all the trouble of repeated sanding and rubbing.

MRS. E. S. A. "We have new sectional furniture upholstered in turquoise, which may make the color of our present draperies all wrong. They have a modern squared design in shades of green and chartreuse on a white background. The rug is rose color. Would you advise a change, and what color should the walls be?"

The draperies would be more likely to look good with the new furniture if it weren't for the rug color. The combination of rose with turquoise needs a soft neutral background, and gray or beige with a rose cast is a good choice for the walls. Draperies might match the walls, or be patterned to include the turquoise and rose on a background to match the walls. Or the print background might be white, but the white must be repeated elsewhere.

Learn how to reclaim and restyle old furniture with beautiful finishes—and what to do about furniture finish repair. Send today for Elizabeth Hillyer's booklet Furniture Refinishing—How to Do It Yourself. Address Miss Hillyer at the Post-Dispatch and inclose 15 cents in coin, please, with a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Refrigerate Cheesecake

Now...a completely different beauty cleanser

does what no cream, no soap,
no lotion cleanser can do!

DU BARRY
Pink Suds

the wonderful, foaming wash-off cleanser that feels soap-clean, leaves your face cream-smooth...

cleans clean through

NOW, FOR THE FIRST TIME, a unique and scientific facial cleanser completely rids your skin of beauty-smothering subsoil...brings out the true radiance of your complexion!

PINK SUDS WORKS LIKE MAGIC! Just moisten your face, then, smooth on this fragrant, velvety "beauty-wash" and see it burst into a million tiny, deep-cleansing bubbles. Feel its delicate, penetrating foam flush out every smudge of leftover make-up...dissolve every bit of skin-clothing grime...discourage over-active oil glands that breed blackheads. Dramatic? Yes! Drastic? Never! You couldn't wish for a more gentle way to thoroughly cleanse and coax your skin to dazzling clear, touch-inviting loveliness.

PINK SUDS IS THE MODERN WAY to cleanse and brighten your skin. Never drying (like soap). Never greasy. Yet, Pink Suds cleans more thoroughly than soap...gently as cream.

SAFEGUARDS NATURE'S "BEAUTY-BALANCE." Dermatologists call it pH balance—nature's magic youth formula to keep your skin neither too acid, nor too alkaline. Here's where Du Barry Pink Suds excels—it matches nature's pH balance! More—it contains softening, smoothing emollients...moisture-giving humectants...germ-fighting bactericides.

TEEN-AGERS, COUNT PINK SUDS AMONG YOUR BLESSINGS! Pink Suds face every day and see it help you say good riddance to ugly "hickies," externally-caused acne condition. Watch your skin come tingling clean, all aglow. Available at the best drug or department stores. $1.00 plus tax.

Easy, quick to use, even in hard water. Sudes fast, even removes indelible lipstick. Thrifty—takes less than a teaspoonful.

Leaves face soft-smooth, never sticky. Paves the way for your favorite night-cream or a fresh-start make-up.

No more greasy cleansing in hot weather! Pink Suds feels like cool snow... "beauty-washes" your face fresh and clean.

1. THE SECRET IS IN THE BUYING!!

4 stores—3 warehouses—make possible a whole new system of quantity buying. When you deal with Mizerany you get all the extra advantages of dealing with the World's Largest Exclusive Appliance Dealer!"

2. THE SECRET IS IN THE SELLING!!

Even with tremendous quantity, the dealer must want to sell at a small profit. And Mizerany's generous King-Size Trades are famous all over this part of the country!"

3. THE SECRET IS IN THE FINANCING!!

Mizerany does their own financing! No down payments—Lower rates—No running around—You do all your business in one place!"

Warmer Weather in Prospect Here

After markedly cool temperatures yesterday, with a high of 66 at 7 p.m., St. Louisans can expect warmer weather, declared Meteorologist Harry F. Wahlgren today. "Weather throughout the week should be comfortable, if one considers highs in the 70s and low 80s to be comfortable," he added. The lowest temperature here this morning was 55 in the city, and 49 at Lambert-St. Louis Field. Elsewhere in the state the temperature was down as low as 42 at Union. Highest minimum this morning was 58 at West Plains. High in the state yesterday was 74 at Malden. Missouri was fairly dry, with only scattered showers in the extreme south. At Joplin .36 inch of rain was recorded. As there was no rain yesterday here, the total for the month remained at 1.13 inches, below the normal of 1.82 for this time of month. The largest amount of rainfall in the country was 2 inches, reported at Grand Canyon, Ariz. Highest temperature in the country was 104 at Presidio, Tex., yesterday. Low this morning was 35 at Stampede Pass, Wash.

WHEELS are the most important among the world's "simple machines." They are employed as the moving parts of wagons, carriages, automobiles, railway cars and some other vehicles. Airplanes use them in both the takeoff and the landing.

In factories all manner of machines have wheels. That is why we speak of "the wheels of industry." The shadow clocks of ancient Egypt worked without wheels, and the same is true of the sundials which are employed to some extent to this day. In general, however, our clocks and watches can give us the time only because they have wheels which interlock and move.

The first power machines were made with wheels. The windmill has a wheel of a sort, which turns when the wind blows. Thanks to that wheel, it was possible long ago to use the wind to pump water.

Another early power machine was the water wheel. Water struck the blades of large wooden wheels, and made them turn.

Later came steam pumps and steam engines. Boiling water made steam, and the steam provided power for turning wheels of various kinds. Steamboats and steam locomotives were moved by steam power.

Glass globes, which were rubbed with cloth while being turned around, supplied static electricity 200 years ago. Much of our modern electric power is provided by falling water which turns wheels.

The main power of the future is likely to be atomic. Although the development of this power may have little to do with wheels, it will be applied to industry and transport largely with the help of wheels. For Science section of your scrapbook. Tomorrow: More About Wheels.
